ered by the most brilliant bacteriologist of the present day, Dr. Kock. Another point is that this bacillus propagated by spores. The remarkable property of spores is that they are exceedingly difficult to destroy. This bacillus will withstand a very low temperature. It may be frozen solid and thus kept indefinitely and when thawed be as lively as ever. It is destroyed by heat, but that heat must be Bad a great-far higher than the heat of the • blood; it is also capable of rapid propagation. It has favorite sites in the man. The first step to cause its re- properties moval, or to counteract its influence, together is by inspection, to separate those animals, contaminated from those pure. This requires very skilled men, () | not ordinary laymen, but men trained especially for this. How important I this inspection is, is shown by Jews. They are remarkable for care in inspecting carcases furnishing meat for their sustenance. The blood is entirely drained off, the lungs are inflated, (a) and if there is the slightest lump, pustule or adhesion to the wall of the) lare rejected in quantities, and what is the result. Notwithstanding they have been dispersed and subjected to vicissitudes, adversities and persecutions, their longevity and vitality are markable. Insurance companies take risks on them in preference any other race. I shows the singular wisdom amd prophetic vision of the great lawgiver of Israel, for our advanced science cannot improve, or even equal the inspection of food ordained by Moses thousands of years ago. Anything which would interfere with the stringency of inspection would strongly oppose. Germany, with its scientific predilection, gives the attention to it. There are 126 inspectors in Berlin, and the meat passes through three hands. First, one man separates the meat, then any suspected is put in tin boxes and examined carefully by experts, and finally given to a third expert, if there is any doubt. Giving the bodies of cattle to be examined by men who might report to the minister of agriculture would, be a very careless way inspect of inspecting and this bill confers too much power to the minister, of pronouncing whether meat shall be sold or not. I am speaking in the interests of humanity and for the poorest poreither be withdrawn or very carefully considered. I will later submit to the house the mode in which I think it should be treated without offending the minister. I suppose it emanates ject but the public welfare. This question may be considered from scientific, economic or sanitary standpoint. I only consider it from sanitary one, and instead of sending this bill to a committee of the whole house, he should submit it to a committee of physicians of this house, of whom I happen to be the smallest, in size, at any rate. We can go over it carefully and much better than could be done by a committee of the whole house. indirect results of the government's policy and Mr. Clergue's impulse are seen in other pulpwood enterprises—the Spanish River company which has spent $500,000 on machinery and buildings; the Keewatin power s1,500,000 in the next three years, and has already spent half a million; the Blanche River pulp company, which is erecting a mill at Mattawa; and the Sturgeon Falls company. On all these the right to the pine; the pulpwood pays a toll of forty cents a cord to the government; and no pulpwood can be exported in the log. The latest phase of the government' belief in helping those who help themselves is the Manitoulin and North shore railway, the complement of the Algoma Central railway, and also the Clergue enterprise. This is perhaps the best bargain ever made by a government with a railway company. I does not cost the province a cent in money or in pine timber. long succession of liberal premiers who united to a remarkable extent the qualities of prudence and progressiveness. At the proper time, too, they were not wanting in aggressive ness. It will be a long time before Ontario will forget the splendid light made by Sir Oliver Mowat and his administration for provincial rights. It is due to their efforts that all that vast district which we call New Ondilliga | tario is still a part of our heritage. This region contains enormous mineral and pulpwood resources, and least sixteen million acres of arable no land, being more than was under culal- i tivation in old Ontario last year.
