It was their annual congregational "At Home." The folding doors of the church were thrown open and the whole place tastefully set out with small tables, around which the chairs were grouped. With the nicely festooned curtains over the arches the place presented a beautiful homelike appearance. Light refreshments were served by the ladies in waiting and the evening closed at a seasonable har with an informal programme. The place was well filled and everybody pronounced it a most successful event. The committees and those who took part on the programme are to be commended for their care and excellent taste.
