Maine Woman. Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, who succeeds the late Frances E. Willard as president of the National Woman's Christian

Temperance union, has been for many years connected with the work and is thoroughly familiar with the many duties of the office. Mrs. Stevens was an intimate friend of Miss Willard and was with her constantly for the last four or five days of her life. Miss Willard sent for her as soon as she foresaw that she was going to die. Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens was born in Dover, Me., in 1844. She spent her early womanhood as a teacher and married at the age of 21. Her husband sympathizes with her in her work, and her only child, Gertrude, now Mrs. Leavitt of Portland, Me., is her mother's helper in much of her public work. For 18 years Mrs. Stevens was assistant recording secretary of the National Woman's Christian Temperanco Orme, an insurance collector, was taken union, for one year recording secretary off the steamer Cambroman on her arrival,
