KEY WEST, WHICH THE GOVERNMENT IS HASTILY FORTIFYING. An Important Naval Station Which Has

It might be made "the key to the gulf," but the difference between the potential and the actual is great. However, the government is rushing guns and munitions and coal to that point, and it may be that the long delayed fortifications of one of the most important strategic points on our southern scaboard will be completed. Not since the Toronto Sews. days of 1861 has the sleepy old town been liev West for over a year and now is at its Frontenac, he said he knew nothing of it. and he added, "I never have and never

In 1824 a company of United States marines were stationed there and barracks erected for them, fronting upon the harbor. These buildings stood in a dilapidated condition until about 1831, when they were sold and removed. In February of that year Major James M. Glassel, U. S. A., arrived in command of a detachment of two companies of infantry, leading to the purchase of about ten acres of land in the northeastern section of the city and the erection of suitable buildings for the accommodation of the troops. Between the federal building occupied as a custom house and postoffice and the marine hospital the sheds for the storage of coal for use of the naval vessels are located. Considerable judgment was displayed in the selection of the location, being on the water front and easy of access although the facilities for handling the coal cannot be said to be of the best. Instead of having a runway direct from the shirds to the vessels the coal has to be hauled on cars several blocks to the wharf connected with the naval depot, which is both inconvenient and expensive. During the last year additional land was purchased by the government adjoining the present coal sheds.
