Stewart, Ryan, Kent. Ald. Donnelly, before the minutes of the regular meeting were confirmed, protested against one item in the report of the finance committee, concerning pay ment of $300 to Christopher Robinson as additional counsel in the case of the city vs. street railway company. The by-law distinctly states that the city solicitor is responsible for all payment of additional counsel fees. He claimed the account was committee, he would say that it also was illegal. The council passed this account illegal. The council had power to grant of $300 in defiance of the by law, and remission of taxes on account of poverty might pass another illegal account for The athletic association was bankrupt. The committee further recommended that on the application of the amateur athletic association, applying for remission of taxes for 1897, upon the advice of the city solicitor, poaction be taken The committee also recommended that no further payments be made this year for broken stone.

Ald. Carson objected to the last clause in the finance report. It would handicap the board of works in securing a supply of

Ald. Minnes would like to see all broken stone owned by the city put on the streets; they needed the metal. Ald. Donnelly was of the same opinion, stone account was kept in a bad shape.

Ald. Behan wanted the assurance given that all the stone owned by the city would be used on the streats. The city was paying interest on money invested in stone and cited as an asset The mayor did not approve of the manner in which stone is purchased. The board of works should buy a pile of stone outright and not make advances.

Ald. Carson replied that such a system would be all right if advances had not been made to the stone breakers. But this having been done the board must pay balances when piles are used up. Ald. Robinson supported Ald. Careon's contention. Ald. McKelvey approved of Ald. Donnelly's suggestion that no further advances be given to stone breakers. Ald. Behan suggested that the clause be withdraws and the finance committee and board of works have a conference, agreeing

Ald. Elliott said the people appealed SUITINGS. to the board of health for a drain as a last resort. Asking the engineer to make a report to the council, was a straight slap at the board of health. Ald. Donnelly took exception to Ald. elliott's remarks. The council represented the people's money and should have the financial aspect of the drain city. Every new design is here. placed before them by the city en

If the engineer reported upon the necessity of a drain above King street Ald. Minnes will support the scheme. Ald. Kent found the Gore street drain a source of nuisance. It was inefficient and would not carry off the street, but a new drain was needed between King and the water edge. Ald. Behan could not see any sense in referring the matter back to the engineer. The board of health finds a drain is necessary and recommends its construction. The council must comply and have the drain built.

Ald. McCartney said the Gore street

Ald. McKelvey and Minnes submit ted an amendment, referring that clause of the report to the city engineer for a report as to the condition of present drain and cost of a new one. Ald. Carson said he knew something about that drain, was opened a

Ald, Bell que fed the matter of improved sanitation of tile over the old fashioned stone drains. Tile drains At last night's meeting of the city coun- were not as sanitary as the old stone cil collector Thompson reported these tax drains unless trapped at street corner openings. It is much better to have 1896 - Total, $139,816 14; collected, the odor from sewage permeate through the earth than to rise through-

Ald. Ryan supported Ald. Bell's views. From a sewer opening on $110 060 48; remitted, $6,891.51; balance, Brock street, near Clergy street, foul odors arise, so bad at times that the residents of the locality have to keep their doors and windows closed. The The yeas and nays were called for by
