Indeed the acting leader of the Opposition was somewhat contradictory, for a couple of minntes after claiming that the bill was not acceptable to the temperance people, he congratulated the Government upon having the good sense to submit the plain question as the Liberal party had pledged themselves to do; anything else, he said, would have been a disappointment to the temperance people and would have been a violation of their pledge.

Sir Wilfrid's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was unusually hapny in his reply to Mr. Foster's criticism, and after twitting that gentleman upon his hot and cold attitudes in the past congratulated him upon renewed interest in and enthusiasm for prohibition, and invited him to give practical effect to his hostile criticism by opposing the bill.
