In conclusion permit me to say that line is worth looking at. Made as an economic reformer, and especially as a socialist I can not allow the impression to go abroad that by word or thought I have ever placed myself! in a hostile attitude towards the good and gracious queen Victoria. I love F. HARRISON CO. and venerate this woman, not because she is at the head of a splendid dynasty, not because she moves among the princes and crowned ones of the earth, not because wealth and luxury and position are hers, but simply and solely because she has taken advantage of her exalted station to promote the interests and agencies that make for

The efforts and aims of Victoria in this direction were never more discernible than at this moment. At time when my own country, great, friends who were troubled as I was, and hasty if not a cruel and unnecessary war of destruction and conquest against weak, although it may be a degenerate state, the bent and aged form of Victoria is seen with uplifted hands imploring peace. It will be, indeed, sad and mournful day when the sands of the hour-glass shall have measured out the earthly life of her "Our mo-

It can not be seriously maintained that the system of examinations, where the object is promotion, is any thing else than a relic of barbarism. The system has been abandoned in many of the United States cities, and probably soon will be in Ontario. The amount of nervous prostration brought on by this system as was mentioned by one of the teachers in the debate, far more then ofsets any disadvantages that may pertain to this feature of school life.
