NOTED QUAKERESS DEAD.

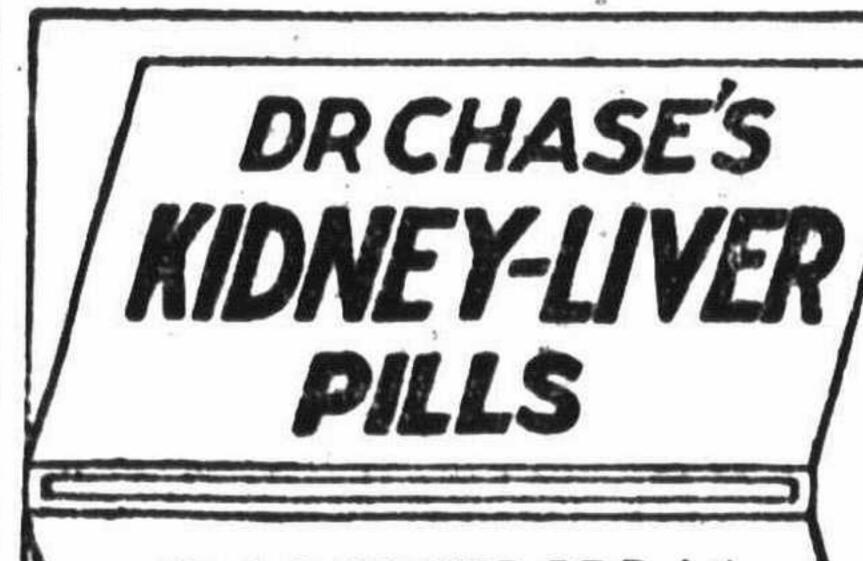

Elizabeth Brewer, Elginburg, Passes Away

- Her Benevolence Proverblal. Elizabeth Brewer, relict of the late Philip Brewer, died on June 27th at her home near Elginburg. She was of Quaker persuasion and about the oldest member that denomination in the country. "Aunt 150 barrels of flour and a large quantity of Betsy," as she was lovingly called, was exceedingly charitable and benevolent, never refusing the stranger any needy shelter in her home. Though occasionally going to the Methodist church she was a regular attendant at the little brick Quaker church at Cataraqui, whenever services were there

Her stories of events that happened over eighty years ago were very clear and entertaining. Having a great interest in the temperance movement she often agitated the establishing of some society to put down the liquor traffic. Most of her worldly goods were expended in charity to those who deserved it and in entertaining ecores of those of her own beloved faith.
