OTTAWA NOTES. The Railway Mail Clerks' Grievance - Judicial Appointment. Proceedings of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress. A PLAN FOR THE UNEMPLOYED. The Congress Considers a Scheme to Colonize the Territories - A Lively Discussion Over the Motion to Exclude Civil Servants From the Congress.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—Just after the delegates to the Labor Congress had assembled in the city hall yesterday the report of the committee on President Bessie's address was read and was followed by a somewhat lively debate. The report read: "That we heartily concur with his suggestions and recommendations, and wherein he recommends that laborers unite to gain again knock at the doors of the government until our just and reasonable demands are met."

Delegates Darlington spoke in favor of the report. He reiterated his statements that the Congress had outlined its usefulness and that during the ten years of existence the labor movement had retrograded. He said that if it had kept up half way even it would be so bad-but he did not believe in rapping and bogging and praying to any government without any result.

President Bessie got out of the chair and entered into a spirited defense of his address. He said that he had endeavored to present a report which would be compatible with the truth. He believed in continually and persistently putting the views before the Government until reforms were obtained. He stated to the various laid-down in his address and that the committee had advanced views which congress would be unable to adopt.

The president's recommendations were carried by a vote of 5. A committee consisting of Delegates Carey, Toronto; Plumb, Prescott; Beauregard, Montreal; Patterson and Leggo, deputation of delegates to bring recommendations relating to labor in Canada to the attention of the government. The resolution that all have power to issue charters and levy capita taxes on labor organizations. The resolution that was held over from Wednesday to make Government employees strong brought up and caused a lively discussion.

Delegates Smith, of Ottawa, moved in amendment that only persons employed by the government be excluded from the congress. Delegate O'Donohue, of Toronto, said he had been an employee of the government for years but his ideas of labor had not been changed. He was not a member of the government but a member of the labor movement. He was not a member of the government but a member of the labor movement. He was not a member of the government but a member of the labor movement.

Delegates John, of Quebec, thought that the congress had no power to say who should be sent to it as delegates. The matter was referred to the labor unions that sent the delegates. The resolution was lost. Trade and Labor Congress held an evening session and discussed the advisability of admitting Patrons of Industry, the Grangers and the Single Taxers. The committee to whom the reports were referred reported that they had received in all six of which voted in favor of taking in all three organizations and the Patrons of Industry and Single Taxers while two voted against their admission and one was indefinite. The question was filed.

On motion of Delegate Lafontaine a resolution was passed providing for the abolition of the law permitting the seizure of wages for debts in the province of Quebec. He spoke rather disparagingly of Montreal lawyers. Delegate Langlois, of Quebec, moved and Delegate Little, of the same place, seconded, a motion to accept a colonization scheme which the Grangers had prepared for the settlement of the unemployed lands of the Northwest. The scheme was in effect to send the unemployed people from the centers of population to the territories and have them engaged in the arts of agriculture as well as get a military training so that they could be called upon in case of necessity. The motion was carried by a vote of 10 to 5. The matter was referred to a committee and congress then adjourned.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL INGFIELD. LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Times says editorially: "It is improbable that the American tariff will be altered before the winter of 1897 or 1898. Attempts will be made to modify it piecemeal, but nothing will be done by the present Congress. The Republicans are likely to get a majority in the House in the November elections, but they will be unable to command enough votes in the Senate to override the President's veto. Therefore in the next Congress the tariff will be a deadlock over which business men, whether protectionists or tariff reformers, may rationally rejoice. The whole world is interested in the revival of business in the States and the settlement of the tariff for three years is one of the conditions making for a long and peaceful recovery, but complete change in the methods of American railway management is equally necessary to this improvement."
