Paralysis Cured! IN TEN DAYS.
FERNWOOD, Ill., U. S. A., Aug. 15, 1894.—Messrs. Coutts & Sons, Toronto, Canada. Gentlemen,—I am sixty one years old. For two years I had been afflicted with partial paralysis of the lower limbs, rendering me unable to walk a block without complete exhaustion. The sensation was that of numbness attended by a dull pain, which did not leave me night or day. I was recently persuaded to try your "Acetocura," without any faith, however, in a favorable outcome as for two years I had been unable to obtain relief under the treatment of reputable physicians. I gave it, nevertheless, a conscientious trial, rigidly following the directions of the pamphlet, and, after using the acid for five days, the pain had entirely disappeared, permitting me to enjoy a good night's rest, and after ten days' treatment I was able to walk two miles without fatigue.
I take particular pleasure in certifying that your "Acetocura" met the exigencies of my case admirably, and in earnestly recommending it to others similarly afflicted. Respectfully, MRS. B. M. HALL.

JEROME'S COLTS BEATEN.

THEY WENT DOWN IN FINE FASHION YESTERDAY.

The Cape Vincent Lads Could Not Find Robinson a Little Bit—Bennett Was a Good Mark for the City Batters—A Game Full of Interest.

Manager Jerome's colts came from Cape Vincent to Kingston, yesterday, expecting to defeat the Princess street nine at baseball. They got badly left and the manager was surprised. The visitors were vanquished by a score of 15 to 4 runs.

The game was played on the Athletic grounds and witnessed by about 600 people. The diamond was in splendid condition and the weather suitable for a good game.

The players on both sides felt well and did their best. From start to finish the game was played in such a way as to lead the witnesses to believe that neither side was giving the other any advantage in order to get bets on the match to be played at the Midland Central fair next week.

The Cape Vincent team was stronger than when it played here on labor day. The Princess Streeters say that on the visiting team there was one professional named Uppell, who held down third bag.

The outfield of the Cape Vincent nine was good as could be expected, but the infield was weak, and was credited with many errors. Pitcher Bennett was not equal to the occasion. The Princess Streeters found him badly and pounded his balls right and left.

The Princess Streeters on the whole played a beautiful game with the exception of some errors committed because of the over-confidence the players had in their ability to throw and stop the ball. They quickly discovered they were batting a weak pitcher and made the best of this advantage. As a battery Robinson brothers acquitted themselves in a way which won the favor of their friends. T. Robinson, a light youth, is a phenomenal ball twirler. The way he threw the sphere around the breasts and throats of the visitors astonished everybody. Their best batters could not find his deceiving curves.

W. Cochrane was umpire. His decisions were straightforward and so fair that there was no complaining by the players on either sides. It was quite evident he was master of the rules for in no single instance was his decision questioned. He called the game sharp at three o'clock.

First inning—Princess street went to the bat. By a base hit A. Robinson reached first bag, and on a hit from C. Wilson, Robinson took second base. When W. Dehaney, the champion batter in the local nine, was fanned out the gallery applauded. McRae hit to left field safely, and A. Robinson scored. McRae went to second bag and Wilson to third. The field work of the visitors was bad. Kelly, in centre field, miserably fumbled the ball. Elliott was fanned out. By a hit to left field T. Robinson enabled McRae and Wilson to score, and the batter got to second. While Thompson was batting Robinson stole third. Thompson could not hit the ball and the side was retired with three runs.

For Cape Vincent Bennett knocked the ball too high for the short stop, and got first base. Uppell hit to the second base. The ball was captured by Dehaney who put Bennett out, while Uppell was safe. Dehaney lost his head in this play and instead of one man being put out, two men should have been retired. Uppell stole second and got out on a hit from Islim caught by Dehaney. No runs were scored.

Second inning.—M. Reid struck to the pitcher and was put out at first. S. Reid made a fine hit to centre field. A. Robinson got first base, and a hit by C. Wilson permitted S. Reid and A. Robinson to score. Wilson was put out at second and again Dehaney was struck out. The side retired with two runs. For Cape Vincent Walker, Seymour and Morrison were fanned out.

Third inning—McRae struck to the third baseman, who threw him out, and got first. Elliott was struck on the head by the pitcher and given his base. T. Robinson's hit to shortstop let McRae score. Thompson was caught out by pitcher and Elliott came home. M. Reid knocked the ball in the air. It escaped the field and T. Robinson scored. S. Reid hit for two bags and M. Reid came to the home plate. S. Reid was put out at third. A. Robinson made a safe hit on an error of the pitcher and C. Wilson was put out at third. Score, four runs. For Cape Vincent Kelly got first on a fly ball and stole second. Blake got his base on balls and on a pass ball reached second. Truell hit to pitcher and was put out. Bennett was struck out and Uppell got out at first.

Fourth inning—W. Dehaney made a good hit and the right fielder caught the ball in a style which was applauded. McRae hit to third and got first. Elliott was caught out and McRae was caught running to third. Islem was caught out. Walker struck safe for first, stole second and was put out at third. Seymour got his base on balls and was caught running to second.

Fifth inning—T. Robinson and A. Robinson were caught out. M. Reid was retired at first. Owing to a fumble by McRae Morrison got first base and succeeded in getting home on wild throws. The supporters of the Cape team then yelled, "It is not a Chicago anyway." Blake hit safely and Truell was struck out. Bennett hit to left field and Blake went to second. Uppel was fanned out.

Sixth inning—S. Reid was struck out. A. Robinson hit to lift field and C. Wilson was caught out on a fly. W. Dehaney made a good strike and Robinson was put out at third.

The most brilliant play of the game was made by C. Wilson, shortstop. Islem struck the ball which bounded to Wilson. He cleverly recovered it, turned around, and throw it to first, putting out the batter. Walker was put out by the third baseman and Seymour was killed at third.

Seventh Inning—McRae and Elliott got bases on good hits, and a grounder by T. Robinson brought in McRae. Elliott went to third and later scored. T. Robinson was put out at third and Thompson died at first. M. Reid struck to shortstop. He fumbled the ball and Reid reached his base. S. Reid was caught out and the side scored two runs. Morrison, Kelly and Blake got out at first. When Blake was retired H. Harkness said no home ruler could succeed.

Eighth inning—A. Robinson got on the bases and a three bag hit by C. Wilson let Robinson home. Dehaney hit to short. He made an error and Wilson came home. McRae made a two base hit and Elliott was caught out. The Princess Streeters batted heavy this inning. T. Robinson hit safe and Thompson got out. McRae made a clever steal to third, and Robinson was caught out. Score three runs.

Dunn, who took the place of one of the visiting players, got out at first. Bennett got his base. Uppell and Islim were caught out.

Ninth inning—The battery for the Cape was changed to Islim and Uppell. M. Reid got first; S. Reid was caught out. M. Reid stole second and third and got home on an error of the third baseman. A. Robinson got on the bases and Wilson was caught out. W. Dehaney was struck out. Score one run.

Walker got first base on errors, and third in a hit by Seymour. Morrison knocked the ballout of sight; and Walker, Seymour and the batter scored. Kelly got out at first. C. Jerome was allowed to bat to amuse the boys. He made a good hit, but Truell, who ran for him, was put out at second.

The largest number of paid admissions yet taken at a baseball match on the Athletic grounds was recorded at this game.

The Tariff on Mica.

The United States consul received, today, bound copies of the new tariff. It appears the newspaper reports respecting the duty on mica shipped to the United States were wrong. Instead of the duty being 6c per lb. it is 20 per cent. Under the McKinley tariff the duty was 35 per cent.

Not In Favor Of Rescinding.

Deputy-reeve Davis was in the city yesterday. He does not favor rescinding the by-law which now abolishes the Sydenham high school on account of four outlying townships withdrawing their support, thus throwing the burden on Kingston township. If the others had not pulled out he would have favored it.

Fall Importation 1894.

An Open Letter

On page two will be found an open letter from a prominent physician relating the facts of a cure of consumption after the patient had reached the last stages of this hitherto unconquered disease. The statements made are really remarkable and mark another advance in the progress of medical science. Our readers will find the article well worth a careful perusal.

Parks Was Discharged.

George A. Parks, for larceny, was before Judge Price on Friday. Parks admitted stealing money at Sunbury and said the son of his employer stole $2 and gave Parks half and told where more could be got. He had made restitution so far as he could. Mr. Waldron said when he restored value for the money he thought the case ended, but neighbors told him he was "compounding a felony" and he grew so frightened that he had Parks re-arrested. Judge Price discharged Parks, holding his punishment, already received, was sufficient.

The Queen's Rugby Team.

Kennedy, the rugby football player who made a name in Queen's last year, stated, yesterday afternoon, that he would again play with Queen's this year and had no intention of ever going to Hamilton. Some one has been misinformed up there and thinks he (Kennedy) is now living in Hamilton. Kennedy thinks Queen's should make a good fight for the cup this year. The only change he knows of will be in McCammon. At this is a wing position it will not be hard to fill. All the important positions remain as they were last year.

Police Court—Saturday

An hotel man and his wife do not live happily together. It seems the woman has been drinking and acting badly. The husband ordered his bartender not to give her any liquor and she persisted in getting it. It ended in a scuffle in the bar and the proprietress summoned the bartender for assaulting her. The case was dismissed.

Johnston Bossley, a young man was charged with assaulting a little lad named Joseph Mallen. Bossley pleaded guilty to boxing the boy's ears and also calling him bad names. The magistrate fined Bossley $5 and costs. He will pay the fine.

The old man William McKenna alias William Wilson alias Walter Thompson, guilty of several larceny charges, was sent to the Central prison for seven months. The colonel found out that Thompson's record on Wolfe Island was a bad one. On one charge over there he had been given a few hours to leave the city.

THE WIFE FORGIVEN.

And Was Again Restored to the Confidence of a Husband.

"J. J. Moore and wife." These names were registered at the Stanley house yesterday. They engaged rooms and said they would stop in the city several days. During yesterday they visited points of interest, rode on the electric cars, and seemed the happiest people in the city.

At five o'clock there was excitement on Ontario street. A man had come for his wife, accompanied by a policeman. She was known as Mrs. Moore, a fictitious name. It appears she had, after stealing $200 from her husband, Clark Bayley, of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., eloped with a married man who helped to spend the cash. G. D. Beeber, the policeman, says elopements are common in the Alexandria Bay district. He knows of thirty cases where men have left their wives to live with other men's wives. Yesterday a young woman who had been ruined, threatened to blow out the brains of a young business man at Clayton, N.Y. At the points between Clayton and Alexandria Bay the moral law is being ruthlessly broken.

After a consultation and a plea for forgiveness Mr. Bayley received his wife again. Her paramour had left on an early train. Mr. Bayley and wife and Constable Beeber left for Alexandria Bay at 8:10 o'clock last evening.

The wife of the man who eloped with Mrs. Bayley came to the city in search of her husband and threatened to punish him severely. He was not caught and she went home heart-broken.

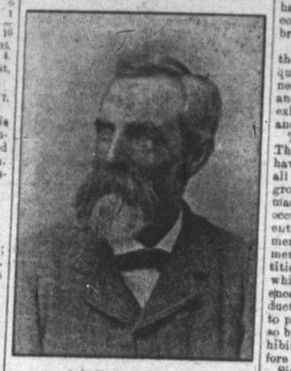
THE PATRONS' LEADER.

JOSEPH L. HAYCOCK, M.P.P., OF FRONTENAC, CHOSEN.

In a Fair Way to Take Rank in the Legislature—A Sketch of the Platform of the New Party—A Chat With the Leader on the Market To-day.

The member for Frontenac in the local legislature has risen to unexpected prominence in his election to the leadership of the party. This was declared at the patrons' meeting, "amidst the greatest enthusiasm."

Mr. Haycock is a good debater, an earnest and aggressive politician, and he is in a fair way to take rank in the house as the representative of his class. He may be more reserved in speeches now, seeing that he carries new responsibilities, and that a new weight and influence will be attached to his public utterances. He no doubt realizes that he will be expected to reflect the views of his party rather than his own, and will be governed accordingly. Having come rapidly to the front Mr. Haycock's friends will be interested in watching how he carries himself.



J. L. HAYCOCK, M.P.P.

The platform of the patrons, as adopted by them in secret conclave in Toronto, as that in which they are pledged to stand in the legislature, is not so radical as it was expected to be. It embraces a repudiation of the railway pass business, the abolition of government house and all the incidental expenses in connection with it, the ending of perquisites in all public offices, the closer inspection of these and maintenance of their efficiency, and the summary removal of interference by the medical council in matters over which it now claims a supervision.

Upon these points it may not be difficult to secure the support of other members of the house towards successful and harmonious results. But it must be the case of overtures from others with the patrons, as these have declared their determination "to resist all attempts at coalition or affiliation with either of the existing political parties."

Chat With The Leader.

The leader of the Patrons of industry in the Ontario legislature was on the market this morning selling garden truck and receiving the congratulations of many of his neighbors, fellow-patrons and citizens. The honor is one the people of Frontenac generally regard with favor. "He'll make a good one," was the way the patrons emphasized their approval of the choice. A WHIG reporter found the leader picking his teeth with a quill and talking to friends. The reporter said that his remarks at Bath Road during the campaign were prophetic. "Yes," he replied, with a laugh, "it looks like it." At that meeting, a particularly warm one, Mr. Haycock was being vigorously denounced as a grit and his opponents declared he would quit as soon as he was returned if such an event were possible. Elijah Joyner, warden of the county, stood erect, his silvery hair gleaming in the lamp light, and with finger shaking vigorously towards Mr. Haycock he exclaimed: "What will you do Mr. Haycock if there are but a few patrons in the house; will you follow them?"

"No," remarked Mr. Haycock, "I will lead them." There was a burst of applause and the leader had carried the audience.

The conversation, this morning, turned to the patrons' convention, and Mr. Haycock said it was one of the most harmonious gatherings he had ever attended. The patrons are solidly knit together. The discussions, he said, were not directed as to how to mollify the old parties, but how to maintain and strengthen the new organization.

"No," he remarked in reply to the question, "I had no idea that I was to be selected as leader. I don't think one member asked another who was to be selected. I know I did not. The selection was so unanimous that I could not help but feel honored. I have accepted the position, and I would rather be the leader of the seventeen members in the house than to sit in the chief chair of either political parties in either the legislature or dominion parliament. I tell you the patron members are true men, and I know we are backed by the great mass of the agriculturists and laboring classes in Canada. I predict great advancements for our party and reforms that have long been desired. I am not the man to formulate policies, the seventeen members do that. Their decision on any question will decide our policy. We will fight for the principles laid down in our platform. The other political parties need not look to us for support for we will work independent of them both."

"And of the P.P.A.?"

"That order selected candidates and ran them as a distinct party so that the declaration of non-affiliation or coalition with other parties must also have reference to it."

Mr. Haycock visited Unity lodge in Toronto on Thursday night and received a great ovation. He will attend various demonstrations throughout the country this fall.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Movements of People—What They Are Saying and Doing.

Ex-Ald. Wilson and family have returned from Sharbot Lake.

Miss E. V. Greaza was judge of ladies' work at the Gananoque fair.

Miss Maggie Tronter has left for her home in Wiarton yesterday.

Mrs. Murray, 98 Earl street, arrived from Paisley, Scotland, this afternoon accompanied by her niece, Miss Lizzie Lochhead, who will stay in this country a year.

Andrew Devine, a native of Galetta, but for many years past on the staff of the Congressional Record, Washington, after a steady siege of "shorthanding" for over a year—during the long session just closed—is now on a canoe trip from Kingston to Ottawa.

Dr. W. J. Belton, a graduate of Queen's, died at Conway, Dakota, on Monday last from typhoid fever. He was born at Clayton, Ont., taught school in various places and worked against strong difficulties to secure his profession. He graduated in 1892. He was a member of Court Brookdale, I.O.F., Clayton, the beneficiary certificate being in favor of Miss Belton, his sister, who recently went to Japan as a missionary. Dr. Belton was about forty years of age.

MIDLAND CENTRAL FAIR.

There Will be Abundance of Exhibits—Some of the Features.

Everything is now ready for next week and entries are coming thick and fast. The palace will have the finest display in years. The decorations are particularly fine. No pains or expense has been spared in any department. Kingston's fair is going to class with the best this year. Entries are in from a distance, showing representatives of the finest herds of cattle in Canada, and this class will be particularly fine. A very large entry of horses will be a prominent feature of this year's fair, and never in the history of the exhibition has such a large and varied exhibit in the poultry department been received. It is perhaps as well to mention here that the poultry show of the past two years has been highly spoken of as one of the best features of our show. Pigs and sheep will show up well. Machinery hall will have the largest exhibit for years. The competition for the special prize has brought out a fine display.

We wish to make special mention of the horticultural department, as it is a question whether or not it will be necessary to enlarge the present large and spacious building to get space for the exhibits of fruits, flowers, vegetables and grains.

The programme is large and varied. The finest bands that money can secure have been engaged. Side attractions of all descriptions and kinds will cover the grounds. Special mention should be made of the Bohemian glass blowers that occupy the east buildings, near the main entrance to the grounds. These gentlemen come here with the highest recommendations. They have immense quantities of their own handiwork with them, which, upon first sight to the unexperienced, might be imagined to be a production of moulds, but anyone wishing to prove to their own satisfaction can do so by pointing out any article upon exhibition and have one manufactured before their own eyes.

Sir Charles Wombwell's royal menagerie, as shown in Toronto, will be up on the grounds, and will give the same performance by his wrestling lion Prince and "Frank," the boxing kangaroo and Ricardo's trained leopards. This feature alone is a large and expensive one, and was the leading feature of the Toronto exhibition this year. The races, as given this year, will be highly appreciated as all events will be governed by the National association rulings. The management, in the interest of good sport, is determined that no one will be permitted to blockade the track opposite the grand stand this year, and further wish it distinctly understood that no one will be permitted in the judge's stand but those officials duly appointed. They trust their friends will take this intimation as given with only one end in view that Kingston's horse races are to be run strictly upon the rules of the associated track.

The management has taken a step in the right direction this year in appointing an official starter, a man who thoroughly understands his business, and with fine weather, there will not be any doubt in the minds of the people but that Kingston's fair has been instructive and pleasant.

KING OF GLASS BLOWERS.

He Will Be at the Midland Central Fair Next Week.

One of the features at the Midland Central fair, which will be worth the price of admission, will be the work of the king of glass blowers, Prof. T. Greiner, a Bohemian. He is located on the west side of the palace and will work every day until the exhibition closes. The professor has been in America for about forty years. He learned the mysteries of his present vocation when a boy in his native land, and has since given exhibitions in almost every city and town on the continent, always being in great demand. He was at the world's fair and went from there to the coast, returning here a few weeks ago. On exhibition with him is a glass dress that astonished thousands at the world's fair. It is the only one of its kind in existence and took nine months' steady work to make. When one looks at the handsome dress and thinks that the material out of which it was made was once broken tumblers, chimneys, bottles, window glasses and such refuse, his wonder of the professor's talent increases. The glass was spun on a large bicycle wheel and the cloth woven on an old-fashioned hand loom. Two steam engines, made entirely of glass, are also at work with him, and are, indeed, wonderful samples of work. One carries 14 lbs. of steam and the other seven. It took just two years to complete the larger one. The professor sits at his bench and turns out all sorts of glass articles with an astonishing rapidity. He will make anything any one desires and has nothing whatever as a sample to go by. On a table beside him are samples of his handiwork. There are all sorts of animals, dishes, birds, ships, pipes, good smokable ones, too, cigar holders, cigarette holders, pens and everything else imaginable. There are also many objects in bottles, such as deep ships, complete ones, with sails, etc., birds, dogs, etc., which look very pretty when the bottle is filled with perfume. Taking all in all Prof. Greiner's exhibition is a wonderful one. He challenges any glass blower in the world, putting up $500 against $250 that he cannot make what he (the professor) can make, while he can make any thing any other glass blower can make.

DEATH OF AN ARTIST.

One of Five Who Got Bronze Medals at Centennial Exposition.

Yesterday afternoon Daniel Fowler, of Amherst Island, passed away. He had been ailing for a considerable time and had reached the advanced age of eighty-five years. Mr. Fowler was a remarkable man. He was one of the finest, if not the finest, water color painter in Canada, and was one of five artists in the world who received bronze medals for water colors exhibited at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876. He was educated in England under Mr. Harding, a celebrated water color painter and Mr. Fowler's work in this country commanded a very high price. His pictures were eagerly sought after by connoisseurs in New York and elsewhere and now that the artist is dead their value will run up into large figures.

He excelled chiefly in still life, though his landscapes were also good. His fowl and flower pictures are unapproachable by any artist in Canada. He continued his work up to a few years ago, and remarked to a gentleman visiting him that it was a source of pleasure to him to know that Titan painted some of his best works when he was ninety years of age.

Mr. Fowler was often solicited to leave Amherst Island, where he had settled and go to New York or some other central point, but he steadfastly refused, preferring the quiet of the island to the turmoil of the city. He was an accomplished gentleman, courteous, well educated and well read. He was a member of the Church of England.

Several children survive, including R. A. Fowler, merchant, Emerald, and Mrs. Rothwell, of this city, a lady well-known in literary circles.
