When a Thing Is best

And the price is right that would naturally seem about all there was to say about it. We think our fall mantles are the best things at the price that money will buy. It's the little things about a Jacket that count. Carefully worked button-holes, inside finish as good as outside, and the outside perfect. The art in the buttons, the way it is trimmed. All these things are right. Just as right in the mantle at $2,75 as the mantle at $20. By the way our $5 Mantles are the most value for the money we ever offered.

THE CONVENTION CLOSED.

A BANNER GOES FROM KINGSTON TO TORONTO.

It Will be Up for Competition Next Year—Resolutions Adopted by the Convention—An American Praises the Mighty Great Britain—The Farewell Meeting.

Rain began falling at seven o'clock last night but it did not prevent Sydenham street Methodist church being crowded. Rain and sunshine were both alike to endeavorers. The service was very hearty, the enthusiasm was great. The singing was inspiring and the scriptures responses most hearty. G. T. Ferguson presided. The first event was a surprise. Rev. Dr. Jackson presented, on behalf of the Kingston union, a banner to Toronto union as it had the longest total of miles travelled and the largest number of delegates as the guests of the endeavor here. The banner is of crimson satin the monogram "C.E." worked in badges from many points. The design and workmanship was that of Miss Emily Godwin and lady associates. E. C. Austin, secretary of Toronto union, made a neat response. He promised that the banner would be up for competition next year.

A resolution was heartily carried thanking the mayor and citizens for hospitality, trustees of churches for the use of them, the press for excellent reports, speakers, post office authorities, organists, singers and committee of management.

A good citizenship resolution was adopted to this effect: "This convention expresses its conviction of the great importance of having proper ideals before our young people in the matter of citizenship. We recognize practices and forces in our midst that are injurious to our material success. Such are the gambling practices, prevalent in our cities, the disregard of the sabbath day as a day set apart for rest and worship, the use of tobacco and opiates, the use of intoxicating liquors and the licensing traffic therein, the display of indecent posters and advertising, and the use of impure language and literature. We urge the young people to take an active interest in good citizenship, to use their influence and vote to dislodge systems of evil entrenched in the gains, prejudices and practices of sections of the community of the land, and to do all in their power to build up in our province and dominion a national life that will acknowledge God, honor His word and exalt the Son."

Another resolution adopted was the relation of the christian endeavor to the denominations. It said: "This christian endeavor convention for the province of Ontario expresses its appreciation of, the interest which the various christian denominations have taken in the christian endeavor movement as providential in the history of the church and fraught with richer results in experience, service and fellowship than have been attained hitherto in young people's work, and further expresses its most cordial agreement with the action of any denomination in taking constitutional oversight and control of the christian endeavor societies in its churches and depends on the societies, in harmony with our published principles, to be loyal to the local church and denomination with which each society is connected. We do this properly and heartily because we look on the christian endeavor convention as a meeting for spiritual fellowship, co-operation in christian work, comparison of methods and mutual edification and inspiration. We express the hope that city, county and local unions will increase in number and grow in power and thus present a common, united and aggressive front for evangelical christianity against all forms of sins, worldliness and formality in our country."

C. J. Atkinson advocated the claims of the "Christian Herald"; a telegram was read from Brantford promising to endeavor to make the convention of 1895 the best ever held and then the christian endeavor national anthem, composed by a Torontonian, was vigorously sung.

Rev. W. C. Dodd, of Siam, a returned missionary of the American Presbyterian church, made his first address to a Canadian audience. It had reference to the preparations Buddhism has made in Siam for the introduction of the gospel of Christ. He told of the government of the nations on the east coast of Asia and when he said a certain part belonged to Great Britain he created much enthusiasm as he exclaimed, "Would to God all the sections were." He said he voiced the opinion of all the American missionaries. Great Britain was the great colonizer, the great commercial nation and the greatest christian nation of the world. (Cheers.) "I express the wish of all missionaries that we were all under the munificent rule of the Empress of India." (Cheers.) He followed with his theme, most entertaining and yet appalling as to the superstitions, idolatry and puerile sophistries of the people. Buddhism, Mr. Dodd, said was a failure as an effort at a scientific explanation of the universe. He created amusement by his description of the childishly ridiculous explanations given of some phenomena of the universe. Furthermore, Buddhism failed to give spiritual rest and this point Mr. Dodd illustrated by the experience of a Siamese convert whom he had known who had tried by every means to find peace, and had failed until the truths of christianity were presented to him. In conclusion he forcibly presented the claims, needs and opportunities of the Siamese field of work.

The consecration meeting, conducted by the Rev. A. F. McGregor, of Woodstock, was a most helpful and impressive service, a fitting close to a most successful convention. In response to the chairman a number of delegates rose in succession and repeated in concert suitable portions of scripture, while others gave voice to their feelings in words of song. The Anglican delegation from London, Ont., consisting of Rev. S. H. Gould, W. J. Doherty and A. S. Hannah, united in prayer for the Holy Spirit's guidance and help. The Ottawa delegation, led by Messrs. Jarvis and McAulay, followed by repeating a scriptural desire for better things, and were followed by representative endeavorers from Toronto, Hamilton, Arnprior and other places. Then came the call for individual endeavorers and many and frequent were the petitions that went up to God for a deeper consecration and wholeheartedness in Christ's service.

The meeting was then thrown open for a short time for testimony and these were followed by earnest appeals from pew and platform to those present who were not christians to accept the Lord Jesus. Rev. Mr. Barker, Ingersoll, was called upon to lead in prayer and after singing "Blest Be the Tie That Bind," etc., all endeavorers joined in repeating the Mispah. Rev. A. C. Courtice pronounced the benediction and the sixth annual convention of the young peoples christian endeavor societies of Ontario passed into history.

The visiting delegates expressed the greatest satisfaction with the perfect arrangements for their convenience and comfort made by the local committee of management.

J. E. Hopkirk, Kingston, was in Peterboro, presenting D. McMullen for an infringement of the post office act.

Miss Harmer, visiting in New York, and Fred. Massie, of New Rochelle, N.Y., reached the city this afternoon.

Loser And Finder At The "Whig."

This morning a poor woman lost $7 in six dominion bills near Waldron's corner. William Newman, a few minutes later, saw bills flying about in the gale and found $5 in various parts of the block. He returned the money through the WHIG office, loser and finder meeting as they came to make enquiries. Two $1 bills were lost.

To Manufacture Bicycles.

At a meeting of the directors of the Kingston vehicle company it was decided to manufacture bicycles as well as buggies. A first-class maker from the United States has been engaged to superintend the department. One thousand bicycles and an equal number of buggies will be manufactured as soon as the works are ready.

He Saved A Life.

When Mr. Thompson, boiler inspector, was engineer on one of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co's boats he saved a little girl from drowning at Swift's dock. The girl was going on board with a jug of milk when she fell in alongside of the boat. Mr. Thompson shuffled off his coat and jumped in after the girl. He pulled her out and gave her to her father.

Headquarters For Mantles.

The new mantle rooms of George Mills & Co., on Wellington street, are attractive in appearance, and are at present filled with the very latest styles of choice imported mantles, ranging in price from four dollars up to thirty five dollars each. Everybody in Kingston is cordially invited to see what many have already pronounced to be the finest selection of cloaks, jackets and mantles in the Limestone city.

Why They Are In The Guard Room.

There are various cadets in the guard room at the Royal military college because they tried to put up a job on a professor. One of the class practiced fainting until he had it down fine. On Wednesday he went off and a number of his comrades carried him out of the class and restored him to consciousness. Of course the class did not resume studies that day, as the students planned that it would not. It leaked out, however, that the fainting was only a sham, and the result was that the ring leaders were placed under guard.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The Way Various Requests Were Treated By The Aldermen.

On account of the city engineer's absence from the city, the meeting of the board of works did not occur till last night. There were present: Alds. Carson, McIntyre, Horn and Behan.

The communication from W. H. Sullivan, on behalf of Chas. Dinsmore, injured by a cave-in of the Collingwood street drain and who is now in the Hotel Dieu, was referred to the chairman, city engineer and solicitor to report upon. Dinsmore claimed a reasonable compensation.

From G. S. Macdonald, on behalf of Mrs. James Williamson and her three daughters, of Collingwood street, claiming indemnity from the city for illness suffered by reason of the conditions of the drain opposite their home. Their cellar was flooded. Referred to chairman, engineer and solicitor.

From Samuel Hyland and others, asking for an extension of Fifth street from its present western terminus to Alfred street. Referred to chairman, engineer and Ald. McIntyre, chairman of Rideau ward.

The petition of Martin James, asking for a refund of assessment on drain on Gordon street, referred to engineer.

E. P. Branigan and others, asked that the street watering of Montreal street, from Picard to John street, be discontinued. Referred to the engineer.

A. Stackhouse, asked for a crossing on the corner of Sydenham and Becox streets. The request will be granted.

The petition for a drain on Colborne and Barrie streets, referred to engineer to report on. The chairman will call the committee together again before next council meeting as he wishes to get this drain completed this year.

The passengers were Mr. Wilson, a Kingston druggist, and his family. They had been spending the summer in the far back woods, and came down by way of Barry's Bay.

GENERAL BOOTH IN THE CITY.

The Story of His Long Labor of Love—Welcomed by the Mayor.

Gen. Booth, of the Salvation army, arrived here by boat this afternoon. The party comprised Gen. Booth, Commandant Herbert Booth and wife, Col. Lawley, Staff-Capt. Malan, the general's private secretary, and Capt. Taylor of the English "War Cry" staff and other Canadian officers. All drove to the market square, where an address of welcome was read by Mayor Herald and responded to by the general.

General Booth was born in Nottingham, Eng., in 1829. Although his mother was an earnest christian he was unconverted at the age of fifteen. He became interested in christian work and publicly confessed Christ in a Wesleyan chapel. His talent for christian work very soon made him a leader among the workers at that place. When seventeen years of age he was appointed a local preacher. He commenced to study for the ministry about three years later, entered the New Connexion body and was set apart as an evangelist and his labors were wonderfully successful. About this time he was married to Miss Catherine Mumford. As Mr. Booth's wife and helper she has since become famous and the Salvation Army owes much of its success to her efforts. After several years of evangelistic work his re-appointment was refused and he resigned his position. London offered a great scope for work, so he moved there in 1854 and began work in a tent in the East End. The work grew so rapidly that he gave all his time to it. He soon found that assistance was needed and that some organization would be required. Ultimately what was known as the christian mission was formed. It consisted of Mr. Booth and his small band of workers. This small organization continued to grow until 1878 when the first great war congress was held and the christian mission was merged into the Salvation army. The scope of the army is now well known, and General Boothis still its indefatigable leader, deputing his wonderful energy through thousands of officers and followers.

Address Of Welcome.

To General William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation army:

On behalf of the citizens I bid you a cordial welcome to the city of Kingston.

Twenty-nine years ago you conceived and successfully initiated the plan of extending the blessings of the gospel of Christ to the masses of the people, not commonly reached by or under the sway and influence of the church.

Your compassionate scheme has thrilled mankind; multitudes have caught the inspiration and ably supervised by you a magnificent development has been obtained.

To-day the Salvation army is a well-known organization; its branches extend throughout the habitable globe; its energies are directed and controlled by thousands of devoted officers, and it embraces a vast number of adherents of every kindred and of every clime.

Stimulated by your zeal, animated by your enthusiasm, the army knows not discouragement. Whilst it has pursued its labors in latitudes far apart it has not neglected the moral wilderneses in the dark recesses of our large cities. As a result the gospel gold has been brought to the depraved, the neglected and the poverty-stricken. Their lives have been elevated and their condition ameliorated.

Such methods challenge our admiration and earn world-wide approval. The benefits flowing from the good work can never be adequately estimated.

We place on record our high appreciation of the constancy and unremitting exertions of the officers and soldiers of this division. We trust that your inspection of it may be satisfactory and that you and your soldiers both may enjoy the time spent in your official visit here.

General Booth On Immigration.

Gen. Booth, speaking to an interviewer said: "I liked Canada when I visited him eight years ago, and he still impresses me favorably. I see a fine country, but I am surprised at the scarcity of population. All you want here is people. The cities of the east country are gorged with men crying out for work, and this country wants workers. In Europe there are plenty of handy peasants, whose ambition is to own a farm. But simply to tell them that they had better come out here is not enough. When they get here they don't know what to do. What is wanted is assisted immigration, with systematic aid for the settlers. Take a whole township at one time and populate it. Stand by the people financially and in every way, and when they become prosperous they can pay back every thing. I may be an enthusiast, but I think that could be done. Combine science, benevolence and religion in the scheme."

CHURCH PARAGRAPHS.

News From all Denominations—Filling Of The Pulpits.

Rev. C. O. Johnston left to-day for Westmeath, where he preaches at the dedication of a Methodist church.

Rev. D. O. Crossley will preach at both services in Queen street Methodist church to-morrow. He will give a song sermon in the evening.

Archbishop Cleary is in Napanee today. On Friday he held confirmation services in Marysville and to-morrow performs the rite in Desoronto. The parishioners there will give him a cordial reception.

High mass will be celebrated in the Church of the Good Thief, Portsmouth, to-morrow at 11 a.m. by Rev. Fr. Neville. This will be the first high mass since the consecration of the new church.

The semi-annual meeting of the union of rural deaneries, which now cover the ground embraced by the old midland district, was held in the old and picturesque town of Picton on Wednesday and Thursday last. There were eighteen clergy present, including the Rev J. G. Davidson, rector of Peterboro. Business meetings, reading of papers and discussions were held at the large and hospitable rectory of Rural Dean Loucks. The public meetings and services were held at the new and commodious parish house on Main street. On Wednesday evening, after service in the latter, addresses were given by the Rev. J. D. Woodcock on the "Creeds of the Church" and Rural Dean Carey on "The Ideal Churchman."

On Thursday evening the Rev. Mr. Davidson preached an impressive sermon on "The Bible and the Church." The meeting of the union closed to meet again in Belleville, at St. John's church, in April next, with hearty votes of thanks to the people of Picton for their kind hospitality and to the rector and his good wife for their unequalled kindness and attention.

Praise for Kingston C. E. Ladies.

The social committee in addition to preparing the reception lunch for the delegates on the first evening of the convention provided also on the two following evenings, really excellent suppers for the members of the provincial executive, and so greatly were their many kindnesses appreciated that on behalf of the executive, President G. Tower Ferguson, in a very short but eloquent speech, thanked the ladies, remarking in so doing that at no previous convention had there been so many courtesies extended them and such excellent repasts provided.

OLD FRIENDS OVER THERE

NOT IN HEAVEN BUT OVER IN NEW YORK.

The Excursionists are Back and They Had a Happy Time Travelling Around the Metropolis—The Kingstonians Represent a Fine Regiment Indeed.

The fall excursion ticket to New York and return ran out Friday and Kingstonians and others from this section who took in the trip came pouring back to the city. This year this trip was more popular than in former years and took more people from this district than it has ever done before. One reason for this perhaps is that of recent years a great many young people from Kingston have removed to New York and their relatives and friends find the excursion a most advantegeous means of calling on them. It is said that in Chicago there is a small village of Canadians, but it is probably true that in New York there are as many. One can hardly walk up a street without running across some familiar face. While many of the Kingston boys are holding good positions, others are not. As a rule the Canadian young men get the best chances going on account of their marked integrity and stability. Once a Canadian gets a good job he knows pretty nearly how many have been looking for it before he got it.

Visitors find New York far more quiet and more moral than it ever was before. The efforts of Dr. Parkhurst and the Lexow committee's investigation into the police force have done wonders. The result is that all the dives in the city have been well nigh closed, until now a stranger can walk with perfect safety through any street, at any hour, so long as he minds his own business. The Bowery is not the place it used to be, but still interesting things are to be seen there, particularly in the purchasing line, as goods that cost $5 on Broadway are generally marked $2 or $2.50 on the Bowery. The horse cars are still in the majority, and only on Broadway and a few of the principal streets can the cable cars be found. Of course the largest percentage of the travel is done by the elevated railroad, which goes to fill the coffers of George Gould.

Brooklyn is an interesting study and not a few Kingstonians are to be found there. The city is clean and it is no wonder the working class of New York, generally, live over there, owing to a difference in the cost of living. The rush at six o'clock for the bridge's elevated cars is tremendous, in fact so much so that a former Kingstonian, who has put in the best part of twenty years in New York, told the other day of having been relieved of his gold watch and chain in the car in one of these crowds. His small coat and overcoat were unbuttoned in the rush and the watch removed.

Kingstonians have always lots of friends to meet them in New York and show them the sights. Bunco-steering seems to be a thing of the past unless, perhaps, the sharks lay for the New York state farmers who seem to be the most gullible visitors to the metropolis. The Kingston crowd this year was not molested and no one entered the city that could not take care of himself or herself. A reporter ran across a large number of Kingstonians but all the names could not be remembered. Dr. Gardiner is now located in Brooklyn while Dr. W. B. Thompson is in the hospital for cripples on the corner of 42nd street and Lexington avenue. The doctor took particular pains with his old friends and explained fully the working of the hospital. It is an institution principally for the care of poor children, deformed or crippled. There are all sorts of cases within the walls which serve as great experience for the young doctors. Dr. Thompson will start into practice for himself next summer. Drs. J. Kirk, W. Rankin and M. Neville are also residents. Mr. Stuart, once of the WHIG staff, who lives with his family in Brooklyn, did much for Kingston visitors and many of his friends will not soon forget the kindness of himself and family. He now holds a lucrative position on the Brooklyn "Citizen." A. Oldrieve has a gents' furnishing store in Brooklyn and H. Miller in O'Neill's immense dry goods store; W. Sears is with Clark's thread establishment, while S. Gardiner is also in O'Neill's. A. Rae and D. Gilchrist are tinsmiths with good jobs and Frank Crimmens is with J. B. Ryerson & Co., upholsterers, as book-keeper; Ed. Palladeau, W. Neish, A. Urquhart, W. Carl, "Dot" Middleton, Fred Wade and Thomas Wade, A. Brooks, Guy Clark, E. Harmer, Fred Massie, W. Barlow, Owen Tierney, J. Cosley, Joseph Durin, Joseph Halligan and D. James are all to be found at different sections of the city. Dr. Fred McCammon is just leaving a hospital to start in for himself. Dr. Nelson Raymond is also practicing while Dr. Leahy is entering the field. Joseph Jackson, foreman of the "World," has one of the best positions held by a Kingston man. Joseph Yates, once of the WHIG, is also on the "World." Miss McLeod, Miss Maud Scars and Miss Gardiner are also to be found in New York. Kingstonians never find that they are scarce of acquaintances.

Police Court—Saturday.

Drunks and vagrants were in abundance at the police court this morning. James Byron and William Byron got drunk together and one of them had to be drawn to the police station in a waggon. The colonel let them off with a fine of $1 and costs or a month in jail.

John Barnett and Charles Russell, drunk, and George Graham, vagrant, were all in the same gang and were arrested about the G. T. R. station. They had quite a lot of money about them. The magistrate levied a fine of five dollars and costs or three months in jail, warrants to be issued if they do not leave the city immediately.

Saturday's Market

The prices on the market this morning were: Lamb, 6c to 7c; mutton, 4c to 6c; pork, by quarter, 7c to 8c; beef by quarter, 5c to 6c; chickens, 35c to 50c per pair; old fowl, 50c to 60c; butter, prints, 20c; rolls, 23c to 24c; tubs, 18c to 20c; fresh eggs, 17c to 18c; potatoes, 50c per bag; turnips, 30c per bag; cabbage, 30c per doz.

An Action Taken.

Robt. Gillespie has instructed John McIntyre, Q.C., to enter an action to defend his rights in the school question on Howe Island. It declares that the Roman Catholic trustees have rented one school to Fr. O'Gorman for ten years at $1 a year and he is angered thereat. The facts will now come out in court.

Mantles To Order

The "News" Said It.

Commandant Cameron telegraphs the "Globe:" "A Kingston paper's mention that a cadet of the Royal military college had been held over a gas jet is erroneous. The college is lit by electricity."

Commencing Tuesday, October 16th, steamer will make one trip per day between Kingston and Cape Vincent, leaving Kingston at 2:30 p.m. The 5 a.m. trip will be continued on Mondays only.

GENERAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Very Latest News Crowded Into a Small Space.

To-day wool was purchased at from 16c. to 20c. per lb. for wool.

Rev. Jonathan Goforth addressed the students of Queen's college yesterday afternoon.

The str. St. Lawrence had the best season on the river this year that she had ever had.

New post offices were opened on Oct. 1st at Crow Lake, Addington and Mitchellville, South Leeds.

Capt. Ogilvie, "A" battery, and wife, have reached Kingston. They will reside on Brock street next to Cooke's church.

Rev. George R. Turk, Grace Methodist church, Winnipeg, whose three year term expires next June, has been requested and consented to remain two years longer.

Jack Kehoe, serving a life sentence in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, Montreal, was found dead in his cell yesterday morning having apparently swallowed a quantity of tobacco juice.

Capt. Carter, Deseronto, has made arrangements with the Oshawa and East Whitby councils for a bonus and right of way for an electric railway to run from the Grand Trunk railway station around the town, and thence to Oshawa-on-the-Lake.

Willie Lemmon, son of John Lemmon, foreman of the Brock street fire station, fell while having a slate pencil in his mouth. It was forced into his throat, and for two days he bled without intermission, then he died. He was eleven years of age.

M. J. Millward, Sherbrooke, Que., while temporarily insane, jumped from his bed, rushed to the bridge crossing the river, jumped off and fell to rocks below. He so injured himself that death came two hours later. One person caught him by the night clothes, but he tore himself away.

Capt. Crawford, of the schr. Falconer states that he was windbound in Oswego from Monday till Friday. There were a great many vessels and barges tied up to the dock all week, unable to get away. While at his vessel in Oswego on Thursday morning he noticed the unfortunate schr. Hartford pass down between eight and nine o'clock. The Hartford must have gone to pieces very quickly when she struck as she was heavily loaded. The Falconer got to Kingston about three o'clock this morning just as the heavy gale came up.

From the Chicago "Inter-Ocean": "Miss Ollie Torbett won the favor of the audience before she played, and held it more firmly after she produced those exquisite tones upon her violin. As an angel face, wrapped in a golden halo of tenderly entwining curls, and bending over her favored instrument, this young girl presented a picture to move one to thoughts of living beauty in face and form, in full harmony with her own sweet music, so rich in melody, so rare in the mastery of technical difficulties." Martin's opera house, Wednesday, Oct. 17th. Plan opens Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

SCHOOL OF MINING.

The Attendance Is Good—Plenty Of Specimens To Hand.

Work in the departments has been begun. The classes are larger than last year, the laboratories being filled almost to overflowing. During the past summer considerable additions have been made to the equipment. The new mining laboratory will make the work in ore dressing and metallurgy as practical as it is possible to have it.

The geological department is much richer in apparatus and material for study than last year. Members of the staff have collected a great number of specimens for their department during the holidays, in Saxony, Massachusetts, the western states and in Algoma, so that most of the classic rocks of these districts are now represented in the collections. Through the kindness of the director of the Canadian geological survey the collection of fossils exhibited at the Chicago exposition have been placed at the service of the department.

The rooms in the school formerly occupied by the ladies, are now devoted to geological purposes and are to be fitted up with cases for specimens and tables for the use of microscopes in the examination of these sections of rocks.

The petrographical laboratory in the basement is to be fitted up with power for running machines for cutting and grinding rocks. The work in this department will now be of a thoroughly practical nature and there will be opportunities for students who wish to carry on original research.

PROF. KAUFMAN RELEASED.

He Left For the United States Where He Meets His Son.

Prof. Kaufman, sentenced at Brockville to serve seven years in the penitentiary for forgery, was released to-day after having spent five and a half years in the institution. He secured much remission of time because of his conduct. He had a position as organist and choir-leader in the Protestant chapel and capably filled the place. He was driven, this afternoon, to the ferry wharf and left on the steamer for the other side. He is quite an old man.

The professor was seen by a reporter just before the Maud pushed out. He had a suit of tweed on, the same as all are given when leaving the prison. His whiskers were gray and quite long. His overcoat was not government cloth. He wore overshoes and looked quite comfortable.

Chaplain Cartwright had been in his company since he was liberated and saw him safely off. The old man was rather nervous and reticent. He felt keenly the disgrace he had brought on himself and family. He did not know where he was going when he reached Cape Vincent, further than that his son was to meet him there.

Pride In The Medals.

KINGSTON, Oct. 13.—(To the Editor): A few words of explanation are needed in regard to the "defaults" of the Crescents on the
