Russian soil. The previous night he had no sleep. He was racked constantly by violent coughing and hemorrhage. His heart grew so weak that it often seemed to have stopped beating. These distressing symptoms became more accentuated at 10 o'clock in the morning, but shortly afterward he railfed slightly. He was fully conscious. He wished the sacrament to be given him in the presence of the family, and he received the viaticum with grateful fervor. An hour and a half later he was seized with violent spasms. It seemed as if death had come, but he rallied again and at 12.30 appeared to be free from pain. But the weakening heart beats, and breathing told told his physicians that the end was coming fast. He was conscious almost to the last moment. At 2.15 his eyes closed and he ceased breathing. According to the tentative arrangements made last night the body will be conveyed aboard the Imperial yacht Polar Star to Odessa. It will be escorted by the whole Black Sea fleet, which has orders to assemble at once off Yalta. From Odessa the body will be taken on a special train to St. Petersburg, and will be placed in the cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul. The about two weeks. It is understood that Czar Nicholas I

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The first news of the Czar's death came to Paris in an official despatch to the Foreign Office. It was simply that the Czar died at 1.55 p.m., and was conscious to the last. The despatch was shown at once to President Casimirafter a long silence said :-"He was France's strong and loyal

Signs of mourning have multiplied ever since the news was made public. La Presse, La Jour and Le Soir issued special rapidly as they could be brought to the street. The booths and newsmen were surrounded by eager crowds struggling to buy papers before the supply was ex-

La Presse's comment was :- "All French patriots will be grieved by this sad news. The mourning will extend throughout France. The Czar was a sincere partisan of peace and a devoted friend of our country. Our sorrow is unutterably deep, but there is no reason to despair as the heir of Alexander III. will recognize the close bond uniting France and Russia. The sorrow of France will be the most convincing evidence to the son and sovereign that the union of the nations which for years has assured the peace must remain and guarantee the peace in the future."

The Czur's Career. Alexander III., Czar of all the Russias, who succeeded to the throne on the muider of his father by nihilist conspirators on March 18, 1881, was born March 10, 1846. For some time after his elevation to the throne he seldom appeared in public, but lived in the closest retirement in Gateldas. being in constant dread of the machinaions of the secret societies of socialists. His coronation took place at Moscow, on May 27, 1883. He married, in 1886, Mary Feedorvna (formerly Mary Sophia Freder, ica Dagmar), daughter of Christian IX., King of Denmark, and sister of the Princess of Walex and King of Greece. The principal concern of the Czak was to put down nihilism, to develop the military and Caucasian provinces and to keep a steady eye on Constantinople. From the beginning of his reign periodical attempts upon his life were made by the Nihilists. Twice officers in his own as to mourning, which are to be published army tried to shoot him. In 1888 he and his family narrowly escaped death in a railway accident near Borki. The train was thrown from the track and many passengers were killed, but the Imperial party were hardly injured. The derailing of the train was supposed to be the work of Nihilists. Last spring a plot was formed in Finland to blow up the castle which the Czar was expected to occupy during the fall manouvres round Smo-

The political police are still busy huntag down the conspirators. The Czar was deeply religious. He was under the influence of such hishops as Pobodonoskeff, attorney-general of the Holy Synod, and his group, and persecuted the Jews, Catholics and German Lutherans in Russia without cessation or mercy. He inherited with his Minister of Foreign a dual alliance, counterbalancing on the continent the power of the triple alliance. Nothing has been published, however, to show that any formal agreement between the two powers was signed, or that the Gzar pledged Russia to help France recover Alsace and Lorraine from Ger-

The Czar left five children, the Czarewitch Nicholas, 27 years of age; the Grand Dake George, now ill in the South of Russia; the Grand Duchesses Xenia and Olga, and the Grand Duke Michael, a boy in his teens. In the ordinary course of events, the Crown Prince Nicholas would succeed to the throne. In view of his physical weakness and other peculiarities there has been much talk of a regency

In religion Alexander III, was a thor ough bigot. He never once doubted that he was the Lord's anointed, ruling all Russia and her subject provinces by divine right, and that Jews, Stundists, Mennonites and others who did not implicitly obey his directions were in rebellion against God and deserving of little consideration. The Romanoffs have always been given to a sort of brutal devotion and the natural bent of Alexander's min was intensified by the teachings of his tutor, M. Pobiedonotsoff, in later years the much feared chief of the holy synod of the Russian church. Nevertheless, he taught his pupil morality, and it is claimed that Alexander III. was the only European sovereign of his time who never kept a mistress. He was frantically devout and his views on education were those of the Russian priests. As head of the church be consistently opposed every form of instruction not controlled by the priests. Alexander IIL was a man of remarkable physical force. He stood 6 feet 4 inches in his stockings, and it is told of him that he could take a silver coin of the size of a follar and double it between his thumb and forefinger. When in 1888 his train were in the same compartment with him from injury and perhaps death by supporting a portion of the fallen roof with his shoulders till assistance came

He was an untiring worker; got down to his desk as a rule at 8 a.m., and went resolutely through official papers till 1 p.m. Then he had a light lunch and took recreation and read till a 6 o'clock dinner. He often wrote severe comments on the margins of papers presented to him, and these were glazed over to preserve them in the royal archives. He was a man of unflinching courage. He proved this in the last Perier. He read it and laid it down, and war between Russia and Turkey, and though during the entire reign he was in constant expectation of being murdered he never hesitated to show himself to his people when he thought the occasion demanded it, and he oftentimes was accounted even rash in his manner of doring editions with black borders. AN EYE SEARCH LIGHT.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION NOW. USE IN EYE HOSPITALS

The Ophthalmometer Throws a Beam of Electric Light Into the Eye and Locates the Trouble-The Doctor Peeps Through a Telescope.

One of the most remarkable inventions which has fittely come into practical use in the hospitals of the Dominion is the ophthalmometer. It is used for examining the eye when it is in a state of disease. and it illustrates how accurately modern science has come to deal with the ailments to which the flosh is apt to fall heir. The invention of this new instrument was found to be a necessity. It is an acknowledged fact among specialists in diseases of the eye that poor eyesight is on an alarming increase in Canada, especially among children. The number of school-children who wear eye-glasses continually in the cities is double or treble what it was several years ago. The very large increase of work which this has occasioned for the doctors in the eye hospitals rendered it extremely difficult for them to carry on their examinations they had heretofore done.

The old method of examining the eye of various sizes. If the person under examination was perfectly clear-minded, a more or less accurate result was obtained; erally so good.

The ophthalmometer does away with all this uncertainty, and by its use the veriest tyro fresh from the medical college can make the most accurate diagnosis. It is of Paris. It is a combination of a telescope and a large painted disk, on which is projected an intense electric light. In front of the disk is a small wooden mask-like frame in which the patient places his face. On the disk are a series of divisions.

THE OPHTRALMOMETER. the invention of Profs. Javal and Schlotz

The doctor looks through the telescope at the patient's eye. The effect of the intense light is to cause the numbers and divisions on the disk to be reflected and to show out clearly on the cornea or rear wall of the patient's eye. Connected with the disk is a sliding arrangement by means of which any desired point on the disk may be located, so that in a case of astigmatism, for instance, it is only necessary for the physician, after locating the source of the trouble, to make a record of its exact location on the disk. Since the reflection on the eye corresponds exactly with the disk itself, he has no trouble in doing so. Of course, the different markings are meant to show the different degrees of low before. affliction, and after the record is made it is the easiest thing in the world for the dector to prescribe the proper pair of glasses to be worn. And the best part of it all is that this point is established beselection of their eyeglasses, for that selection is made according to an absolute rule, and not, as in the old method, according to their sensations merely Unsatisfied Claims Against the Government-Tuberculosis Again. VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 2.—Thirty-one third class clerks and carriers of the Victoria postoffice struck work yesterday with the object of emphasizing their claim for payment of the delayed provisional allowance. It had been the custom in the past grant these low salaried employes of British Columbia offices $10 per month over their usual pay in view of the greater. sost of living in the west. This allowance has not been received here although the sum was provided for in the supplementary estimates of last year's parliament, Their claim has been endorsed by the Board of Trade as just. The board, however, advised the clerks and carriers to return to work, assuring them that the soard would press the matter of payment | $1,20 to $1.50 of the delayed allowances immediately. The strike was last night declared off for end of November the Board of Trade has tacitly promised to assist the strikers. Without the allowance referred to the salary of the carriers is $20 and that of the clerks $33 per month.
