mine what is needed in this locality in view of the expenditure of $6,000 in the city during the winter months to provide work for the unemployed. Having attended the last meeting of the city council, when a resolution was assed in respect to the expenditure, he had a better idea of the way in which that body carried on business than it had previously. He was delighted at the hearty way in which they considered the request to provide work for the unemployed. This wes a matter upon which the council could not decide so as to please every one in the city, and he was glad to know that the aldermen wanted to do something in the way of providing work when work was most needed. The compound is a walled enclosure in which one or more families dwell. Modern improvements were put upon the houses with a great deal of difficulty owing to the very high prices demanded of the missionaries by Chinese dealers. Dr. Smith and family and fellow missionaries were continually molested by mobs, sometimes of luggars and sometimes of soldiers. He related a number of experiences of this kind. He and his family were saved from death at one time by his recognizing in the leader of a mob a man where he had helped in a medical way a year and a half before and persuading him to return the kindness by leaving him unharmed. At another time he and Mr. McKenzie had noon. The attend- to face for five hours a mob of between ance was very four and five hundred who were trying to break in the walls.
