OPEN REBELLION.

Principal Grant, in the March number of the "Canadian Magazine"—the first issue of the new and very promising publication projected by a Toronto company and edited by J. Gordon Mowat—pitches into the anti-national feature of the national policy, namely the tax on books. The tax on all foreign books is 15 per cent. ad valorem, which is protective in its amount, yet even, if prohibitory, could not lead to the production of the books in Canada. And there is nothing like it in any country in the world. Great Britain admits books free, of course, as it admits food for the body. Austria, France and Germany, protectionist, tax food, but admit all books as freely as England. Italy, Denmark, Sweden and Norway charge a duty, but on bindings only, and as most continental books are published unbound the law is nearly equivalent to complete freedom from duty on books. "We cut a poor show certainly beside Europe," says Dr. Grant, "and, I may add, besides China and Mexico; but we expect to shine by contrast with the United States." But do we? The United States, "in the first place, admits all books in foreign language free of duty, and thus the literary treasures of almost every other country are open to its people. In the next place, it admits free of duty all books for schools, colleges, universities, public libraries, and literary, scientific, and all similar societies. It recognizes that such institutions are blessings to the country, that in themselves they are benefactions that ought to be encouraged, and not centres for trade and money-making, and that without them a country cannot be called civilized. Therefore, on them even Major McKinley did not venture to lay his yoke. But our N.P. rides rough-shod over all such considerations."

Principal Grant does not wonder that some of our libraries and students are able to see a good side to commercial union. He does not blame the government overmuch, because "the greater part of their time has been spent in taking measures to keep themselves in power; and it became a first principle that nothing is to be done that would offend one active supporter, unless they are likely to lose ten by leaving it undone." But the government is not to be threatened. "It is to be judged not by any one action, omission or commission, but by its policy as a whole, and its policy in contrast with that of the opposition." Dr. Grant continues, and men "will vote for the present government until the opposition renounces its policy of commercial union," or some other party is in the field who talks preferential trade. The situation then is this: That the government's policy is antinational in its effects on education, that the government has been spending its time, resources and strength in prolonging its tenure of office; that it has been untrue to the preaching of its finance minister who has declared that "the country suffers most from its ignorance, and that it most needs education"; that loyal as the ministers profess to be to British institutions and British connection they have been disloyal enough to tax imports from Britain equally with imports from the United States; that they spring an election upon the people with the understanding that they had made certain proposals for a reciprocity of trade with the United States and gone about as far in that direction as the liberals. Still all these things must be endured, all these imperfections, deceptions and wicked political conspiracies, because the liberals are accused of commercial union. The liberals as a party, through the leaders and the press which honestly represents liberal sentiments, have repudiated commercial union, and they have no right to be written down as something which they are not. Dr. Grant appeals to the men in the house who are not burdened with the cares of office and who hold their seats not as partizans but as free men. "They can secure this in the book tax if they so will, for to them the government is obliged to listen." If they are not the disgised liberals, who are they? And outside of the liberals how many are showing themselves to be independent of government dictation?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Visiting In The Shanties.

L'AMABLE, Feb. 23.—(To the Editor): On the 14th inst., through the kindness of James Wilson, Esq., of Carlow, North Hastings, a veteran lumberman who made timber near Calabogie Lake forty years ago, I have had the opportunity of visiting several lumber camps in this northern region. Mr. Wilson drove me with his splendid team of Richelieu colts from Carlow to William Rankin's shanty in Ashby, county of Addington, near Western Coon Lake. In this shanty there are eleven teams and thirty-four men. The leading teamster is Jerry Foster, and the head cook, F. Hunter. The number of saw logs taken out to date by Mr. Rankin and for him is about 10,000. On the 15th inst. we visited the shanty of George Fergusson; who has twenty-five teams and sixty men employed. The same day we visited Archibald Smith's shanty. He has seventeen teams and thirty-five men at work. He has for leading teamster James Stewart, and for cook George Towns. The above are all working on J. R. Booth's limits, which comprise the greater part of the township, there being very few settlers in it. On the 15th inst we visited James Arnot's shanty in the same township, on the limits of Carswell & McKay. He has fourteen teams and thirty men, John McDonald being his leading teamster and Alfred McAdam his cook. We remained all night in Rankin's, Smith's and Arnot's camps, and held services in each when the closest attention was given and much interest shown by the men. None were sick in any of the camps visited. Nearly all were young men from Carlow and Mayo, and McNab and Horton, in the county of Renfrew, and of a superior stamp, in many respects, to lumbermen of the olden time. The bosses of the camps and the cooks showed us no small kindness; and, though the comforts for the night and the serving up of the meals were considerably short of the Frontenac, yet the best they had was given cheerfully and freely. The food chiefly consists of fresh beef and pork stewed in large metal pots in hot sand, baked beans and potatoes, excellent bread and tea.

The distance we drove from Carlow and return was about seventy miles. The air in this region must possess bracing and invigorating properties unknown on the St. Lawrence. During the past week, including two Sabbaths and three services preached in the shanties, I have preached eight times, visited several families pastorally, and have driven 110 miles, and yet, under a kind Providence, my health continues good.—G. P.

Passes Explanation.

KINGSTON Feb. 26.—(To the Editor): We learn from the papers that Protestant churches in Ulster are offering up prayers for the defeat of the home rule bill. Doubtless thousands of churches are offering up prayers for the success of the bill. To the same God? Aye, there's the rub. If God answers the prayers of either party it will certainly be those of the strongest party, for it will be by the votes of the strongest party that the fate of the bill will be decided. Whether the provisions of the bill are in accordance with the will of God or not is merely a matter of opinion, for one party thinks the bill will confer liberty and emancipation on a large number of suffering and down-trodden people, and be a blessing generally, while the other party feels that it will be simply the enfranchisement of a certain class and the enthralment of another, and a great calamity generally. The question, then, is, what is God to do in the matter? He cannot decide it to suit both parties; one or the other must be disappointed. The fact is it will be decided as any other bill is decided—by a sufficient majority of votes. We could understand heathens and middle-age superstition indulging in such prayers, but that educated and should-be-common-sensed christians can engage in them passes explanation.—X.

The Agents Took No Notice.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 25.—J. O'Brien, just down from Rivers Inlet, states that the Indians at Sorrow Island, were of the Oweekano tribe. The affair was caused by an outrage committed on a Kitkalkah girl by an Oweekano Indian. The Oweekano's complain that when they reported the matter to the Indian agent he took no action but said they had been drinking and that the massacre existed only in their imagination. The Oweekanos since held a council of war and decided to investigate the matter themselves. On Jan. 16th, fifty warriors left in canoes for Sorrow Island and if the facts are verified a war of extermination will be commenced against the Kitkalkahs and in this the Oweekaho's have been promised assistance by the Bellacolla and Bellad Indians.

A Close Call.

Two boys, aged ten and fourteen years, sons of Chief Jacob B. Brant, of Tyendinaga Reserve, had a narrow escape from death last Saturday. In the absence of their parents they found a flask of gunpowder. They were enjoying the fun of pouring a few grains at a time into the stove fire when the contents of the flask ignited and an explosion followed. The two boys were fearfully burned about the head and body, while considerable damage was caused to the room. Both lads are now in a fair way of recovering.

A Minister's Opinion.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

A CLEVER EXPERIMENT ANY ONE OF YOU MAY TRY.

How to See Through Your Hand or a Deal Board—And This, too, Without Making a Hole Through Either of Them—Two New Games and How to Play Them.

"How to see through a deal board!" some of our cute friends will say; "why, that's easy enough—make a hole in it." But you can see through a deal board without doing that—or, at least, you can see through it, and that is quite near enough for our present purpose, to give you a pleasant surprise, and offer you a few minutes' amusement. Try the experiment, however, with your hand; your hand is always at hand and a deal board is not, and you may take it for granted that if you can succeed in seeing through your hand you can see through a deal board just as easily.

Make a small paper tube about four inches long and something less than an inch in diameter. A piece of note paper rolled into tubular form, and held in position between the tips of the thumb and fingers of your right hand will answer the purpose well enough. Place the side of the tube against the edge of the left hand held fully extended, and with palm upwards, as in the accompanying sketch. Look down the tube with your right eye, and look at your open hand with the left—and you will have the curious sensation of seeing a hole quite through the hand. If you do not succeed at once, it is because you are not really looking at your hand with your left eye at the same time that you are looking through the tube with your right. Make sure that you do this—and the illusion will be perfect. There should be a fairly good light on the hand, and the tube is best directed towards a part of the floor that is in shadow.—Leeds (Eng.) Mercury.

Two New Games.

The new game introduced is played with a feather. The party is arranged in several groups of seven or eight each, seated in a ring and as close together as possible. For each group is a feather. This is tossed in the air in the centre of the ring. It is the business of the players to keep the feather in the air by blowing every time it comes near. The effort is so ridiculous that the children laugh. When they laugh they cannot blow and the feather is apt to settle in the lap of the merriest child. In this case she must retire from the ring. It is, of course, her interest to make the other children laugh. As the ring decreases they are consolidated, and so the game continues until only one person is left, who, of course is the winner. There are few games so unpretentious and few that can give as much fun to a lively lot of children.

HUNT THE WHISTLE.

Another new game is "Hunt the Whistle." But when this exhausts an area it cannot be played, as it requires a certain number who are ignorant of the game. Those who know it make a large ring. The others leave the room and are admitted one at a time. At a signal one enters. She is told to enter the ring, kneel down, and confess to the mother confessor. She kneels and buries her face in the mother confessor's lap. She is then asked some questions that bears on her likes, dislikes, her friendships, faults, or some of her actions, as "Who ate the frosted cake?" This questioning gives time to fasten onto the back of her dress a whistle attached to a string. She has, of course, denied the charges; she is then asked to prove her innocence by discovering who blew the whistle. As she goes around the ring the children steal up behind her and blow the whistle. The sound is always behind her, and her frantic endeavors to trace the sound are funny enough. As soon as the trick is discovered a fresh victim is ushered into the ring.

WILL NOT BE BUILT.

The New Cheese Factory in Fredericksburg is Not Required.

FREDERICKSBURG, Feb. 25.—Hay is being shipped freely and buyers are scouring the country for all that can be purchased. They are paying $7 per ton for first-class timothy. Revival services are being carried on at the Lutheran. John McCarthy, at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, is said to be improving. George Towns has sold his lease and decided to remove to Morden, Manitoba. He has carried on dairying quite extensively and the loss of his fine herd of cattle will consequently be much felt at the factory.

The Big Creek joint stock cheese factory is said by some to be dead. Well, I believe that is not the actual condition of affairs at all. There was, until this new factory scheme was set in motion, a very general desire on the part of cheese manufacturers in this immediate vicinity, to hold the price of making at two cents, while others around them make for one and three-quarter cents per pound. But just as soon as this project was about to be carried into effect, the price began to drop by littles, until it has finally settled down to the figures the joint stock company intended charging. They, therefore, thought if they could get the same terms as they intended fixing without going to the expense of building a new factory, they would lay the stock book aside for the time being and await further developments. Sufficient stock had been subscribed to erect a fine building, and so far as the scheme has been carried out, has been productive of a saving of a quarter of a cent a pound to the farmers of this township.

Township of Howe Island.

Feb. 18.—Members all present except the reeve. Mr. Garrah was called to the chair. Moved Bieof-Rochfort, that Joseph Quinn be paid $15 for collecting the taxes for 1892, and that L. W. Davis be paid $3 for extra services for taking the census per assessor for 1892, which was carried. The auditors' report was received and adopted, and on motion of Rochfort-Simpson, the auditors were paid $3 each. Moved Rochfort-Simpson, and resolved, that the reeve, Messrs. Bieof and Garrah, be appointed a committee with power to settle with Mr. Rogers, of Gananoque, about the accident that happened at Walls' hill lately. Moved Rochfort-Bieof that John Goodfriend, jr., be appointed assessor for the current year, which was carried. Resolved, that the following persons be appointed township officers for the current year:

Fence viewers—John Prior, Francis Beaubien and Timothy Prior.

Pathmasters—Charles Lewis, Louis Beaubien, John Cox, George Walker, Peter Goodfriend and Matthew Kane.

Pound keepers—George Tedford, Thos. Prior and Adolphus Lachance.

Board of health officers—George Baillie, John Cox, Thomas Prior and the reeve and clerk; medical health officer, Dr. Phelan, of Kingston.

AN OPEN LETTER.

For the Benefit of Every Canadian Sufferer.

DEAR FRIEND,—Owing to, our firmly established position in Canada, and having the confidence of our people because of the great and glorious work that we have already accomplished through our wonderful remedy, Paine's Celery Compound, we believe that duty strongly calls upon us to offer you counsel, advice and comforting assurance.

In your present condition, when you have failed with other medicines and the treatment of physicians, you cannot hope to remain long on earth among the living. You feel that hope has deserted you, and that the sands of time are fast sinking. You are truly in a terrible position; your condition is extremely perilous.

Upbraiding and reproving you for past follies and errors in medical treatment we will not attempt; the fault lies with those who failed to cure you, but who quietly and calmly accepted your money.

Our first object, dear friend, will be to give you the comforting assurance that while the vital spark of life fire burns there is hope. Having given you this grand assurance let us counsel you to act with decision and speed. You have another grand and mighty chance for life and health. To secure this you must take hold of that agent that gives new life. This precious agent, known as Paine's Celery Compound, has saved thousands who were brought as low as you are just now. Paine's Celery Compound has "plucked brands from the burning" after the best physicians had given up all hope.

Will you make a trial of this priceless medicine? Can you trust our advice and exhortation sufficiently to make a beginning? We desire to benefit you—to save you; may heaven give you confidence and faith enough to make one trial. That you may be saved, renewed and made whole, is the earnest prayer of your friends,—WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.

A FINE STATE OF AFFAIRS.

A Judge Trying a Case of Forgery is Himself Arrested For Crime.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 25.—A few days ago Judge Curll, Bridgewater, while trying a suit in his court, was arrested by two constables from Lunenberg upon a charge of forgery alleged to have been committed ten years ago. The action of the constables caused a great sensation.

When the warrant was read Justice Curll fainted and several people interfered to prevent the arrest, alleging that the police used unnecessary violence. He was taken to Lunenberg and released on heavy bail for trial on Tuesday.

There are said to be several charges against him.

Yesterday this same magistrate sat upon the preliminary trial for another party charged with forgery. The justice, out on bail, has adjourned the trial of the other party until Monday when he will give his final decision.

The next day the justice himself will be brought up for examination on a similar charge.

No other part of the world can furnish so mixed an administration of justice.
