Toric-like ideal of character, Prov. zzni. The Bible h not only a book of fulth, but also of practice; not only a book of doctrines, but also of morals and of principles. It illustrates ideal characters. It also describes them, In our topical references we have two such descriptions. The first is the description of an ideal wife, in which an ideal charactor is portrayed. The second is contained in Paul's advice to Timothy. estudy to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (II Tim. ii. 15). 1. The true foundation of character, by the Bible ideal, is in God. This truth is contained in both the descriptions before us. The ideal wife is described as exhorts Timothy to study to show himbe reached without a firm faith in God and a desire to belike God. Man's highest duties. More than this, if duty to duties, those to our fellow men, in all remen, "Fear of the Lord," therefore

2. The essential qualification of character by the Bible ideal is the faithful performance of duty in the various relathe examples before us. The ideal woman was faithful to her God, faithful to A Better Umbrella, faithful to the needy and helpless about her, faithful to her home duties and to the duties of all business relations. Paul exhorts Timothy to be faithful to God and to His ministerial work. Faithful goods. performance of all the duties we owe to and fear of God.

3. The results of such a character by the Bible are praise and just reward. Of the woman it is said; "Her children arise and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her." "A woman that feareth the Lord shall be praised." "Give her of the fruit of her hands and let her own works praise her in the gates." Thus we have praise, honor and reward set forth as the results of such a beautiful character, Bo it is today. The world admires nothing more than a true character. It is readier to praise and honor When he was 25 years old, Holloway went | nothing more. Let us therefore imitate

The number of prisoners confined in 17 states is 110,508, and among these the illiterates in proportion to numbers contribute six times their quota. The records in the towns show an even greater proportion of erime among the ignorant and the illiterates, which for the whole country furnish to each thousand of persons eight times as many prisoners as those who can read and write. It is plain from these facts that our schools have already greatly reduced the amount of orins, and that when we shall have suggested in getting rid of all illiteracy will still further reduce the number of
