1. The call to partake in the kingdom of God (II Tim. i. 9-18). In the minth verse of this passage Paul speaks of God as having saved us and "called us with a holy calling." The Greek word here translated "called" in the New Testament constantly refers to the call to salvation, to partake in the kingdom of is heard. This is a direct personal call.

It appeals to each one individually. To answer it may mean suffering and persocution, as in Paul's case, but like him these things should not deter us from heeding the call, since we also can say,

"I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him

2. The call to spread the gospel of Christ (Acts xvi, 10). Paul has just had a vision in which a man from Macedonia in Europe has called him to leave Troas way he recognizes the nationality of the man. The effect of the vision was, as Luke says, that "immediately we en-
