The other day a "Times" representa-) tive, while on his rambles around town, happened to drop into Mr. Comstock's stables just off King street east, and after looking over the establishment had a chat with Edgar Gilroy, who has been in Mr. Comstock's employ for many years as chief horseman. Incidentally in the course of the conversation, Mr. Gilroy remarked that he had been for over fifteen years a terrible sufferer from piles, so much so that he had often been compelled to quit work and be laid up for days at a time. In fact he had fifteen years. The piles were external and the protrusion was something enormous, causing the most frightful agony, and they kept increasing in severity all the time. He had been treatby several doctors, and had taker nearly all the remedisc that were advertised for the relief of piles. "Some of them gave a little relief for a short time. but the disease always returned worse than ever, in fact, never left him. suffering in a similar way." Mr. Gilrov

Edward Holmes, the English newspaper man who, with his dog, Bojum, is walking pseudo Indian legends as to the nature of the country. Boojum's latest is that the Great Spirit, to strengthen the frame of the earth, put in quantities of gold, silver and other metals, but the Evil Spirit, while the western portion was being covered with rich soil, scraped off the surface from these parts to tempt man by exposing the riches. The Great Spirit, on seeing such mischief wrought, wept very bitterly and filled many lakes and rushing rivers with his tears. but not without first driving off the evil
