but this morning the police were looking after a couple of culprits who, no doubt, will be sent to the penitentiary for a term. John McKay, proprietor of the Globe hotel, was not a little startled when he arose from bed this morning to find that he had been relieved of all his money. He did not ascertain this fact, however, until he was about to pay a morning, he gave a room to a couple of fellows, paid for in advance. When he got up this morning both fellows were about the house and were also there when he discovered the theft. Mr. about.
