MATAWATCHAN, Aug. 11.—Farmers throughout having and have begun their harvest. James Spenceley, of this place, has made a desperate attempt to cut his throat; is recovering. His friends are grieved that he would resort to such an act; for he is a man of courteous manners and of rare business abilities. He and his wife did not agree. He went into a room, locked his door, took his razor and cut himself terribly about the throat. His wife, looking through the window and seeing him lying on the bed, with the blood streaming from the wounds in his neck, called help. They got him into the room through the window. Dr. Adams, Plevna, attending a patient about a mile away, was summoned and came at once. He also put thirteen stitches in the neck. Although he lost much blood he is recovering rapidly. Mrs. S. McFadden is suffering from neuralgia or an ulcerated tooth.
