CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR. Pople For the Week Beginning Aug. 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Torse.-Continual witnessing. Acta xxvi, 22;

to Kerrie, I-4. Less than a year ago, Oct. 28, 1899, we had for enr topic, "Witnesding For Christ," The topic at that time was general, embracing all the phases of Christians as witnesses for Christ and His gospel. The topic before us, however, is limited to one phase of the subject-namely, continual witnessing. In the illustrative references we have set forth several profitable characteristics of continual witnessing.

1. How may we continually witness for Christ (Acts xxvi, 20)? Paul attributes his ability to God. "By God's help" he says he has been enabled to stand and witness continually for Christ. God is the true source of constant witnessing. He-prolongs our lives. He fills us with the proper disposition. He surrounds us with the necessary opportunities. It is therefore expedient for us to pray to our Father that He will bless us with all

2. What are we to continually witness (Acts xxvi, 22)? Again Paul may be our model, for he witnessed "none Greys (3). other things than those which the prophets and Moses said should come to pass." Paul limited his witnessing to divine truths, as God had revealed them through His inspired prophets. We should limit our testimonies to the same. That which has no sanctum in the divine word should form no part of our witnessing. It is not tradition and men's opinion that will affect men, but divine facts and truths. The Bible should be the source of our instruction and our facts, and our witnessing will then be effective; otherwise it will not.

3. To whom should we continually witness (Acts xxvi, 22)? Paul witnessed continually to all--"to small and great." To all men we should be constant witnesses. The rich are not to be shunned because of their riches, or the poor because of their poverty, the wicked because of the opposition to divine truths; or the indifferent because they may mock the sacred things of God. To all men everywhere we are to faithfully bear witness for Christ, with the object in view of leading them to Him as their

4. Why should we witness continual ly (Ps. xxxiv, 1-4)? In this passage we have an outburst of the psalmist in praise to God, "I will bless the Lord at all times. His praise shall continue ally be in my mouth." So it should be with all. Why? Because God's mercies and blessings to us are continuous, hourly and daily. Therefore we should witness to His goodness at all times. Bible References—Isa. lxiii, 7; lix, 19;

The world hereafter must be healed or poisoned very much as a whole. Let us rejoice in the assured conviction that Dr. Clark's work in the Y. P. S. C. E. is helping in a priceless way to heal the world. He has nowhere aught any erratic or perversive doctrine, but has borne faithful witness to the organizing and redemptive truths and institutions of a scholarly and evangelical faith and life. After their prolonged fatigues and perils of travel, let us welcome home Dr. and Mrs. Clark not merely as Americans, but as crowned cosmopolitans of Christian Endeavor. God grant that the hands of the young Christians of all nations may be so locked together around the planet as to draw the whole world into His bosom and make the sound of His heart beats the marching song of all the ages.-Rev.
