MOORS BESIEGE A FORTRESS

Eighteen Dect and Many Wounded or the Spanish Side-Moorish Losses Heavy-Spain's Prompt Measures Cause Offenders to Sue for Peace,

Madrid, Oct. 4.—The Spanish troops in scupation of Melilla, Morocco, were attacked by natives on Monday. The artil lery and cavalry did great execution. Eighteen Spanish soldiers were killed and thirty-five wounded

The Spanish Government recently decided to strengthen their fortifications at Melilla, owing to the disturbed state of the country. Communicement of the work force of over 6,000 natives made an attack | ing indecent verses. on the garrison, numbering 400 men. The Spanish troops fought all day without relief or food, while the Moore were being constantly reinforced. A civilian corps was organized by white residents of the city. The combined Spanish forces were, however, greatly outnumbered by the enemy, and were finally compelled to retreat into the fortress, where they are still

After the Spanish troops and their civilian allies were forced by overwhelming numbers to retreat into the citadel, the Moors attempted to take the place by assault. They swarmed up the roadways and tried in every way to scale the walls. The baleaguered men poured voiley after volley at them, but as the Moors did not | benefit of gaping tourists. - St. Louis fight in any regular order the fire was not | Globe-Democrat. as destructive as it otherwise would have

General Margallo, who was in command of the garrison, distinguished himself by his gallantry. Calling for volunteers-and nearly every man offered his services-Gen. Margallo placed himself at their head and made a sortie upon the Moors. The latter retreated, keeping up a heavy fire upon the whites until the Moors who had been operating on the other side of the citadel came to their assistance, when the were repeated throughout the day, but the Moors managed to hold their position. Before the retreat was made to the citadel troops were dispatched to escort to this place of refuge military laborers who were employed in works at Fort Guriach. They succeeded in getting the men into the citadel, but had a hard fight to do so, being attacked on all sides by the Moors. The natives pursued the retreating whites up to the walls of the citadel, despite a deadly fire directed at them from the fort.

Toward the end of the day the Moors abandoned their guerilla mode of warfare and formed themselves into ranks. Then shouting their battle cries thay advanced upon the citadel. When they were within a short distance of the wall the heavy main gate swung open and out galloped the cavalry. They dashed into the ranks of the advancing Moors, their keen edged sabers swinging right and left among the enemy, who broke ranks and retreated as hastily as possible. The Moors were ridden down and trampled upon by the horses and a number of them met their deaths in this manner. The cavalry, who were numerically weak, did not dare to pursue the enemy far from the citadel They retired behind the walls and waited the second coming of the Moors, who, though they had been temporarily com pelled to retreat, were in nowise disheart ened by the losses inflicted on them. The cavalry made several charges, always with the same result. The Moors would retreat until the chase was abandoned, when they would again assume the aggressive. The Moors knew that if they captured the citadel it would have to be by assault, as there was no chance of forcing a surrender

The place contains large magazines and the food supplies of the whole convict settlement. Equally important is the water supply, which is procured from large rock cisterns. Therefore, with the bravery characteristic of the Riff tribes who displayed no hesitation whatever when their leaders called them to face the deadly volleys from behind the walls of the citadel, they displayed an absolute disregard for danger that compelled the admiration of the men fighting against

It was only a short time ago that the Spanish gunboat Isla De Luzon was sent to effect the rescue of the crew of a Spanish trading vessel which had fallen into the hands of the Riff pirates. The mission of the gunboat was unsuccessful and the fate of the captives has never been known. They were probably sold into slavery in the interior. Among the cap-

Moors Sue For Peace, MADRID, Oct. 4 .- Last advices from Melilla are that the Moore requested a truce. The request was granted and both buried their dead. The Moors have uped for peace. The Moorish Government has been cowed completely by Spain's preparations for war. It has promised to make any reparation and has assured Spain of its most earnest afforts to repress the savagery of the hostile tribes. Messengers have been sent already to warn all tribes near Melilla against interfering with the spanisrds, whose, right to build forts is asknowledged and proclaimed. The Government threatens to inflict the severest penalties on those disregarding this right. This energetic action of the Sultan and his Ministers has calmed the excitement shere somewhat. The Cabinet met last evening, and in view of the Moorish Goveroment's readiness to make reparation decided to defer the sending of a large expedition to punish the hostile tribes. Enough troops to protect the Spaniards at Melilla will be despatched at once and a strong force will be held in readiness to sail the moment the tribes show signs of/ renewed hostility. Most of the tribes are reported to have promised to abstain from garrison, but there is little confidence that they will keep their word. A Big Task Before Him. Hamilton Herald. It seems that Sir John Thompson is something of a kisser after all. The 'Mail" has learned that at Arthur the other day a charming young girl presented Sir John with a charming bouquet, whereupon Sir John stooped and kissed her in the most gallant manner cossible on the lips. This is going Laurier one better. Laurier confined his kisses to the cheeks of his juvenile petticoated admirers, but nothing less than the resebud lips of youth will satisfy Sir John. The premier is now entitled to feel that he has removed a great reproach from himself. Having broken the ice. the general public will expect him to keep right on and kiss all the pretty: lit-

In the closing of the women's medical college at Kingston, for lack of patronage, there is evidence that the sphere in Canada for such institutions is limited. That the medical education of women is an important work cannot be denied. but it is clear that for the present the Toronto and Montreal colleges are capable of supplying the needs of the country. The crowding out of the pioneer institution was due largely to its location. It, however, accomplished the object for which it was founded, for although the Kingston college ceases to be the medical training of women has now secured a permanent place in Canadian professional education.
