BUCKET SHOPS FOR WOMEN.

Where Feminine Speculators Gamble In Imaginary Stock Margins. In that "sporty" section of upper Broadway which skirts the famous Tend district of New York city are half a dozen abling houses for women. They are not fare banks, neither do they expose roulette whrels nor any of the recognized gambling implements. The fluctuations in the prices of stocks and grain are used instead, and upon the quotations recorded by the ticker the betting is done. Externally these gambling houses are to all appearance the same as the up town branches of the large brokerage firms. They are only open inducements to women. For five hours daily they are crowded with women, who
