onclusion of McGreevy's Evidence in the Conspiracy Case. THOUSANDS FOR NEWSPAPERS

Much Boodle Found its Way into Their Coffers -- More Details About the Beaucage Tender - A $7,000 Present to Engineer Perley.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 .- Although but slow progress is made in the McGreevy-Connolly conspiracy case, considerable interest is manifested in the case, as is shown by the arge attendance of speciators in court. Robert H. McGreevy again took the stand his brother in Ottawa from time to time and had frequently seen him at the time the transactions aiready referred to took place at the residence of Sir Hector Langevin. He could not recollect any definite statement which Thomas made to him regarding the influence he exercised with the Government. Questioned about the audit of Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s books, witness said that in March, 1888, there was some discussion. About $2,000 was offered to Mr. Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department. The amount was set aside as a present to that gentleman. There was some talk over Murphy having exceeded the expenditure of $25,000 as agreed upon in 1887. All the members of the firm were present when this conversation took place. The money was charged to expense account.

Replying to Mr. Blake the witness said that there were difficulties between him self and his brother, and also between him and the Connollys. He suffered for some of these difficulties, having served nine months in jail for the trouble over the $400,000 note. He was sentenced for twelve months, but was let out by the Crown after serving nine months. During all the years that the transactions between himself and his brother and the Connollys were going on, Thomas took an nterest in politic & elections. His brother was the head of the party in that district. "Have you had any doubt in your own Murphy were for election purposes ?" After some hesitation witness said that he did not know of anything else that was done with those moneys but for elections. In regard to the $117,000 he had given to his brother he understood this was also spent in elections. He had heard that $38,000 had been given to Le Monde and $3,000 to Le Courier, but without particularizing the items, he was told all the money went to the elections. In regard to the cross-wall tenders he got no information from Thomas in regard to them until the result was known. Mr. Blake then went into the dredging contract of 1882 in the wet and tidal docks at Quebec, while Robert McGreevy sat in the witness box, adducing as evidence a had passed between Mr. A. H. Verret, secretary of the Quebec Harbor Commissioners, and Sir Hector Langevin. The first tenders for the work were invited by the Harbor Commissioners. The letter went to show that six tenders were offered, that of Fradel & Miller being the lowest, $98,450; then came that of Askwith, $128,860; the third was that of Beancage, prepared by Robert McGreevy, $131,367, and Larkin and Connolly's, $138,845, being $10,000 higher than that of Askwith's. Not being able to arrange for the cash deposit of $10,000 required by the clause of the tender, Fradel and Miller withdrew; Beaucage and Askwith also withdrew and the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co., was accepted. On June 27 the Harbor Commissioners transmitted the tenders and their acceptance of that of Larkin, Connolly & Co., to the Minister of Public Works for approval of the Gov-Hector Langevin wrote personally to the secretary of the commissioners desiring to know whether they had reason to believe that the tenders received, which were lower than the one preferred, had been made in good faith, and that there had not been any collusion with respect to their withdrawal, to which the commisioners replied, "that they did not consider it necessary to defend themselves against suspicion of a knowledge on their part of collusion between the tenderers." Finally on August 21 the contract was ratified by the Governor-in-

Conneil. The contract was for 423,500 yards to be excavated ed by Parliament being exhausted, the Harbor Commissioners notified the contractors and the Minister of Public Works of the fact, and on the 21st of August the Minister of Public Works wrote to the commissioners that an understanding had been arrived at between McGreevy and himself, and that he on condition that the contractors did not call for payment until Parliament voted the money. Witness said that in regard to the $117,000 which he paid Thomas and which was said to be used for political purposes, he charged 5 per cent. for handthe $50,000, as he was interested in some | the courts. of the accounts which this was to settle. The cross-examination then turned upon the tenders for the cross wall, and it was the endeavor of the defence to show that there was nothing irregular in the way the information was received from the department with regard to these tenders. It transpired that Beaucage demanded $5,000 to withdraw his tender, and failing in his demand, entered suit against Thomas Me-Greevy, supposing that he was interested in the matter. The transfer of Beaucage's | working. tender was done without repard to any information received from the department, the work was carried out under the contract resulting from the tender of Larkin, Jonnolly & Co. How was the work done?" asked Mr. "It is there to speak for itself," replied

"Was any information given you by your brother Thomas which should not steamer.

"I got all the information there was, but could not say that any use was made or could have been made of it." Mr. John Gallagher was pext examined To Mr. Osier he said he could not remember his signing the tenders for the cross wall shown him. Greevy, was next-put in the box. He testified to having been sent by Murphy eross wall contract to Thomas McGreevy's house, where he found Marphy and Mo-Greevy together. These tenders he gave

After the excitement had subsided some-windows of all the houses in the vicinity A ladies' school adjacent to the headquarters sustained the most damage. The scene here, after the explosion, was most exciting. All the inmates of the school had retired and when the explosion occurred they were thrown into a state borderdering on frenzy. Many of the girls and women went into hysterics and medical assistance was required to restore them to An Italian has been arrested on sus picion of being the author of the outrage. General Mathelin was absent in Paris at the time of the explosion. One of the sentry boxes close to where the bomb had been placed was blown to pieces. Two men have been found who say they saw the men who committed the outrage sitting on the steps at the principal entrance' to the building a short time before the explosion occurred. Experts have examined the contents of the bomb found in the corridor. They say it contained gunpowder mixed with a sort of chlorate. The explosive was contained in a large meat can. A number of arrests have been made. Among the prisoners is an Italian anarchist named Carlo. It is reported that an hour before the explosion occurred
