The effects of the salvation are also great as far as concerns sin. There is remission of sins-that is, according to the scriptures, they are made. A most desirable change is that of the bakery from the low lying and badly ventilated cellar, under the refecplace affords better light, ventilation, storage and facilities for work and cleanliness. An apartment over the boiler house, suitable and commodious, for the manufacture of binder twine, should that industry be introduced, is in course of preparation. The old south wing is being dismantled with a view to its reconstruction for larger cells. A quantity of stone and brick has been taken down which can be used in the new building. The work will be continued

The site selected for the criminal insane asylum is on the ground immediately north of the warden's residence. It is well adapted for the building, having morning. James Rigney and Miss Ger. a higher elevation than the penitentiary large portion of the enclosing wall required having been built, many years ago, for a proposed penal prison, will save a considerable expenditure of money and labor. The work on the continuation of the wall is in progress. It is hoped the building of the female prison to the east of the penitentiary will be also commenced next spring. Rev. C. E. newspapers. The inspector sees no obsection to this privilege being granted and recommends it, proper safeguards being adopted to prevent abuse. The Catholic chaplain refers to the satsfactory result of his labors among those who were almost totally ignorant of the eachings of their religion, and of the ifficulties he has had to contend with from the better instructed but more hardened convicts. He emphathizes his former approval of the amaigamation of the libraries which has given general satisfaction. Of the reading matter selected by the prisoners during the year, more than half, he says, was "of a kind that tended to instruct and elevate the mind." Father Neville also recommends that stained glass windows bearing religious images and emblems be substituted for the plain glass. This has been done at St. Vingent de Paul and Dorchester with saluted effect.

been as good as in some former years." The admissions into hospital (342) exqueded those of any year of his experience as surgeon. Withal the mortality does not show a higher percentage as there were only seven deaths, three of the deceased having reached the ages of seventy, seventy-four and seventy-six. It is possible that the water of the exposed well in the yard, may have been the cause of the numerous cases of typhoid recorded in other years. The reat abatement of the disease noted. ince the well has been covered, affords presumptive proof that the drinking of the water from the open well had some part in generating the malady. The outbreak, periodically, has been unaccountable and mysterious, Officers In Session.

The annual meeting of the officers of the 14th batt, occurred last evening. General satisfaction was expressed over the work of the year. The paymaster's statement showed a favorable balance. The various regimental committees were re-elected and a strong determination to make next year the best over known. It is suggested to divide the drilling seasons, beginning early in the spring and NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER finishing on May 24th, resuming again in September with inspection on thanksgiving day. The matter will be considered. The officers will hereafter meet monthly and devise means for the provement of the regiment. To was also SELLINGSTOVES ntimated that there was a probability of the new drill hall being started next | spring. This will be a most decided advantage for the present shed is totally unfitted for service.
