RECONSTRUCTION.

The Empire is concerned about the opposition in the federal house, and thinks it requires reconstruction. It is so rarely that a loyal ministerial print worries over the alleged weakness of the party it combats that this proceeding of the Empire really surprises us. But the opposition does not take alarm. It is under no promise or compulsion to change its leaders are the commons meets. Is the government in so comfortable a position? Is Mr. Abbott not pledged to remodel his cabinet, and have not some of the conservative journals been impatient over the delay, the inaction, the indecision that has marked the course of the premier since the adjournment of parliament? Assurance is given from time to time that the government is to be made a strong one, that it is to lack in no essential so far as the assortment of men is concerned, but a contemporary puts it: "Mr. Abbott, poor old man, stands on the brink and shivers, and the old fossils in the government ask to be left alone or they will bring the whole fabric down." Clearly enough the Empire wants to give counsel to its friends, to the end that they may appear to better advantage and redeem the most important of their recent promises. A few by-elections may be carried with things in chaos at Ottawa, but another session of the commons cannot be faced with the government as it stands at present. The Montreal Gazette and Ottawa Citizen have made that abundantly evident.

TO PREVENT DISEASE.

Physicians say there are only two principal ways in which the germs of infectious disease enter the body, namely, by the stomach, with food and drink, or possibly with only saliva from the mouth being swallowed, and second, by way of the lungs, with the breathed air. A stomach that is in a healthy condition, from not having been overtaxed with excess of, or irritated by improper food, will digest, destroy or render entirely inert the germs of such diseases. This has been abundantly proved by experiment. Germs cannot enter the tissues or blood or other fluid of the body through the lungs if the mucous lining or covering of the bronchial tubes and air cells be sound or whole. The germs of diphtheria, and pos... other disease, get no further

DESERONTO, Jan. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. John Yeopps celebrated their silver wedding on Thursday evening. A large number of guests participated in the event and enjoyed a very splendid evening. We wish the jolly son of Mr. Raven, agent G.T.R. at Deseronto junction, had his toes severely frozen Thursday morning. An open switch at the junction, Thursday night, let the B. of Q. engine, No. 7, off the track. Considerable damage, but no particular damage, was done. Judging by the immense number of doors shipped from here, Deseronto is one of the great hole-stoppers of the world. A New Year's tree was held by the Episcopalians. Many presents were distributed, each token sending a pleasurable tingle through the recipient's breast.

About twenty couple from here and Napanee poached out to Rev. G. A. Anderson's Wednesday evening, and kind of did and kind of didn't, you know, take that gentleman by surprise. They had an elegant time to the harmonious chord of the piano, and arrived home again during the wee hours of the morn. The rev. gentleman is deservedly popular with all parties. Watch night service was held by the Methodists in town and by All Saints' on the reserve. Mr. Macdonald, who lately arrived from Brockville, is doing good service as a tenor singer for the church of England choir. Marsh Woodcock was the toss pointer at the New Year pigeon shoot. Every time he squinted his eye along his polished rifle barrel down went Mc——— n-n, so you don't there, oh! down went a clay bird. He carried off the honors.

Miss O'Connor, of the O'Connor house, left Wednesday, for Victoria, B.C., where she will visit Patrick Slaven and wife, formerly of Napanee. At a meeting of the board Herchimer Aylesworth, son of our esteemed reeve (W.R.), accepted the unanimous appointment as leader of the Methodist choir. He, himself, has a sweet toned double bass voice and brings additional reinforcement to an already well equipped organization. This world would be a sort of a graveyard if you took the practical innocent jokes out, then 'em! P. Joker was abroad the other day and operated on a prominent dry goods establishment. The whole town wore a smile extending from ear to ear at the little joker's geak. We are greatly pleased to see master Frank Curtis restored to comparative health after a tussle with the fever. He has returned from Cobourg. The recent burglaries here have broken the sweet repose of, at least, the feminine portion of the town. At a prominent hostelry 'tother night Mrs. Blank gave Mr. ditto a poke under the rib and, in an undertone, says: "I hear burglars down stairs; get up quick; don't you hear them in their stocking feet?" A lady sleeping close by was also awakened, and the three ghostly figures, by the rays of a flickering light, started in procession down the stairs. "Have you got your gun, Johnny?" whispered his better half. "Yes I got-er shoh, I hear him." They proceeded through the sample room out into the lobby when, gu whit, the cellar doors were wide open and sounds of a man working down there was clearly heard. The flash of a bull's eye burglar's lantern streamed out of the cellar for a second. Then all was dark. Listen! the man below is muttering something not very complimentary when he is startled by a command from above in thunderous tones to "come out of that. What are you doing?" At the same time the cellar door was covered by "Johnny's gun." The ladies were safely put away from any stray lead. "Yes sir," came the clear and quick response as Jim, the hostler, appeared on the lower step. Jim looked much scared and bewildered and with a "Who are these?" expression on his phiz, as he gazed round on those arrayed in white. "What's up?" "That's you, Jim." "Yes." "What the deuce were you doin' down there?" "Why, it's six o'clock and I came down after the pail." "Where's that lantern you had?" "What lantern; I only had a match." "Why, it's only four o'clock and a deuce of a time for a man to be prowlin' around. Go back to bed." "I'd like to get hold of the fellow who monkeyed with the clock," ... sauntered away, "down ... I'd bet." One of ... nightie and ... Then they ... th mirth. ... hand, ... arm ...

A LETTER FULL OF ALL SORTS OF THINGS.

A Roller Rink Having a Good Run—Dr. Smith Dangerously Ill—A Sudden Death—Still Talking About the Bridge.

CAPE VINCENT, Jan. 3.—A large meeting was held by the citizens of this village, at Quinlan's hall, Thursday evening, for the purpose of taking the necessary steps to bring before congress the importance of a breakwater at this point. The meeting was large and very enthusiastic. A committee was appointed to draw up a memorial and present it to congress at an early date. The whole village is aroused regarding the question and every means will be used to bring about the great scheme. The government surveyed the site for a breakwater several years ago and what is needed now is an appropriation to build one. A large number of our people attended the New Year's party at the firemen's hall, Friday evening. All report a good time. C. A. Jerome did not give a ball on New Year's night for the reason that no orchestra could be procured. The roller skating rink in Jerome's hall is having a good run. The village band furnishes music every Tuesday and Friday evenings. A masquerade is talked of soon.

The Utica store commenced, from 1st, to close at 8 p.m. Now let the other merchants follow suit. The steambarge Alberta has been laid up at Picton. Dr. Geo. Potter, dentist, of Dexter, has added this village to his circuit. He is at the Rathbun at present and will remain about two weeks. He will visit this place twice a year. The annual meeting of the agricultural society will be held Saturday, Jan. 9th. Most of the teachers of the high school spent the holidays out of town. The Lake Ontario fish company is running large quantities of salmon trout from Ste. Sault Marie, Mich., A new furnace has been placed in the Methodist church. Very little hay is being shipped from this place at present. St. John's church Sunday school had a Christmas tree at Quinlan's hall, Tuesday evening. Other exercises followed. Doctors report a good deal of sickness at present. Dr. A. S. Smith, of Watertown, formerly of this village, is dangerously sick with heart disease. Passenger trains running at this place are seldom on time. The trouble is on the main line. It is not settled yet whether the regents will visit this school to hold examinations.

The society known as the "King's Daughters," gave a supper to the poor children of the village at firemen's hall, Thursday evening. A large number attended. It is about a year since the fire department has been called out by fire. Frank Grapotte, attending college at New York city, spent the holidays with his parents, this village. A number of our young men attended the New Year's party at Chaumont. Another year the authorities will make great improvements in the village. Charley Roseboom is clerking at Gregor's store. Norman Rose, a well known farmer, living about a mile below this village, died suddenly of heart disease, Friday night. He was one of the most prominent members of the Methodist church, this village. The funeral was held Monday forenoon and the remains interred in Riverside cemetery. Cross' orchestra has recently purchased a selection of the latest dance music. John Beaufort, attending school at Toronto, spent the holidays at home. The merchants claim they had a good holiday trade. The steamer Maud made her last trip Monday.

The farmers are now anxious for snow so that they can come to market. The roads at present are very bad. The duck hunting has ended; very few have been killed this season. The ice boat men are getting their crafts ready for business. The health of Capt Abner Miller is very poor at present. Miss Roxy Hinckley, daughter of Capt. Coleman Hinckley, jr., seriously ill, is now better. Dr. Budlong, a Watertown dentist, will visit this village every Friday. The Cape Vincent brewery is doing a good business. The village authorities are tending closely to the lighting of the street lamps. A great deal of complaint was made during the summer about the lamps not being lighted, but since that time the lights have been kept in good shape. The local politicians are talking about town elections which come in February. So far, it is understood, only three tickets have been spoken of. Several of our money-making workmen took contracts last fall to keep clean certain walks from snow. They have, so far, made their money easily.

The great bridge scheme between this place and Kingston is still occupying the minds of a number of our inhabitants. Almost every night the question is discussed in some part of the village. The county tax was very low this year. The fox hunters are having great sport, the ratio standing twenty hunters to one fox. There is no doubt but that Carleton Poland park will receive a boom next season. The season past was a good one there. A large number of people spent the summer at it. A number of cottages were built last year, and a large harbor will be built the coming spring. It is probable that an hotel will be erected next summer and a steam ferry connect the park with our village. Carleton Park is the coolest spot on the whole ... Even in the hottest part of the sea... cool and comfortable there. The ... is grand and the fishing good, ... better fishing than where mas..., pickerel and black bass are taken ... The situation is superior to ...River and no doubt in a short ...ll be the park of the St. Law... Steve Shepard, of this village, is ...both seed houses are still run...
