SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

The Toronto News is correct in saying that the public school board should not be so much overlooked in the elections. "A very large proportion of the money collected by the civic tax collectors," says our contemporary, "is expended under the direction of those elected to control primary education." The remark has a peculiar force for Kingstonians at a time when the high and public school boards are demanding money for new schools. The News argued that there should be a sympathy between the council and school board, that the members of each should be influenced by the very laudable purpose of serving the people as efficiently and economically as possible. Unfortunately it is only on rare occasions that the electors attach the importance they should to school elections. Whether recent events have had a tendency to affect the esteem in which some trustees have been held remains to be seen. A new scheme is in process of development, and upon the presentation of it the public interest will be revived. If entirely new it will be well received; if the old scheme, remodelled, it is dead already.

MR. DAVIN MAD.

The visit of Hon. Mr. Dewdney to the North-West has led to another outbreak on the part of Mr. Davin. That gentleman, in his paper, the Regina Leader, falls upon the minister of the interior in a tempestuous manner, inflicting wounds which appear to be incurable. Take the following for an example:

"The Leader has always refused to acknowledge that Sir John Macdonald, who was then old and an invalid and more easily influenced than in other years, did right in making Mr. Dewdney minister of the interior.

"Sir John Macdonald was a kind of king in Canada. Every great leader who has been long in power makes a court, and the courtiers are always parasites and plunderers, and when the great man is gone the country should try to catch the inspiration of what was best and noblest in him, forget his mistakes and failings, and as for his hangers-on—in all times, such have been swept into oblivion. Every great man makes his stable, and when he passes away the best thing that can be done is to burn it up.

"We objected to the man. We objected to his being a land speculator at the head especially [illegible] been over at Sir John having en[illegible] accusations afterwards found to be [illegible] it seemed to him foundationless, took hold of him and began to wash him and fix him up, there was not a man in Canada with public aspirations would have touched him with a pitchfork.

"The fact is, British Columbia, to which Dewdney belongs to, is kicking hard against him and he wants to remain in the ministry. He tells us that there is nothing in the cry, 'Dewdney must go.' There is no man in the empire can keep him in a ministry and keep the ministry alive, and he has no pull on Mr. Abbott."

This is very significant talk at a time which it is intimated by the government print at Ottawa that the reconstruction of the cabinet can be effected without any change in the personnel of it. The same journal and the Montreal Gazette, plainly hinted that young blood would have to be taken into the cabinet if it was to hold the confidence of the people, and there is no change in public opinion since whatever may be the change in party tactics. That Mr. Abbott is having an easy time of it is not at all apparent by circumstances. He is pledged to a reconstruction which involves the retirement of some of his present colleagues and the calling to his aid of the best talent in the party not now connected with the administration of public affairs, and anything short of this revolution is a breach of contract for which no apology can be offered. Besides Sir John Thompson promised the electors of Kingston recently that the government would be made the strongest possible, and as all of the present ministers are under general condemnation it cannot be supposed that he meant to continue in official relationship with them. There is a screw loose somewhere.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Chaplean is reported to be again on strike. Is it to be a case of "three times and out?"

* * *

Well, now that the election is over it may be admitted that the city buildings have been altered, but have they been amended? That is the question.

* * *

Mr. Tarte wants to meet Sir John Thompson and ask him some questions. And after the meeting the minister of justice will be somewhat antartic.

* * *

The temperance men have had another fall. Their candidate in Hamilton has been defeated. A great many of them, as usual, voted the party ticket.

* * *

Tarte knows where $5,000 of Whelan's boodle went to! Members of the Abbott government got it, and those are they who talk loudest about putting down bribery and corruption.

* * *

Another royal commission has been appointed, in Quebec, to go afishing for scandals. The commissioners are of the correct party bias, and this time without the restraint of a liberal-minded chairman.

* * *

The president has proclaimed the signing of a reciprocity agreement between Salvador and the United States. Any country can get reciprocity with the United States except Canada, and its government is humbugging the people a little but not Mr. Blaine.

* * *

E. B. Osler, Q.C., while supporting his brother for the mayoralty at Toronto, stated that he was a grit, but one di[illegible] with his party's policy. He does not lose anything by this difference of opinion. He is drawing $200 a day while engaged in government business. In 1889 he drew $10,055.

* * *

Hon. Mr. Chaplean is well enough to make a speech in Terrebonne on behalf of Mr. Nantel, and yet says that he thinks the lieutenant governor pursued a dangerous course and that De Boucherville carries a load in assuming his honor's act. Very discouraging this! But it is the best that can be expected from a kicker.

* * *

The Ottawa Citizen is desirous of seeing the boodle prosecutions discontinued. It is of opinion that the receiver should be punished as well as the donor, or "both declare backsliders and not legally punishable." Is the Citizen still the mouthpiece of the government, is it acting under inspiration, and what does it mean?

* * *

See here: L'Electeur," referring to the Langlais-Mercier contract, says the contract was drawn up by the hand of Hon. L. P. Pelletier, then one of the most ardent friends of the national party, to-day a member of the Dalboucherville administration. Pelletier approved so highly of the idea and found it so legitimate, that, properly speaking, he was the pivot of the whole negotiations. He is a rare individual who repudiates his own work and attempts to swallow himself as Mr. Pelletier is now doing.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The Bible Society Elected Its Officers Last Evening.

There was a small attendance at the bible society meeting, in Chalmers' church, last night. Rev. R. Whiting presided and said the society was fifty-one years of age and had about 600 branches. The bible scattered blessings among the people, while again it sent forth the maledictions of the Judge. One passage abounded with the joys of heaven, the other persuading people with the tortures of hell. The society was of real British blood, and is a descendant of the great British bible society. Every evangelical church should be interested in this society. "The christian aristocrats are well represented here to night, and if it had not been for the storm we could expect to see this church crowded with Protestants to celebrate the anniversary of this society."

Rev. Mr. Houston presented the annual report, which stated that, for the past four years, the high water mark had been almost sustained. The present income of the bible society was from £200,000 to £250,000. There were 200,000,000 or 300,000,000 in the world still without the bible. The society was foreign as well as British. The bible had been translated into nearly 300 languages already, but it would take about 500 dialects to give it to the world. The Upper Canada society had its centre depot at Toronto and has stations all over the country where bibles can be purchased at about cost price. It seemed incredible, but it was too true that in the back parts of the country families are found who hardly know the meaning of a bible. The treasurer's report showed that $1,048 43 were on hand, $800 of which had been left by will to the society and which had been invested. The speaker told a very interesting story as to how the society was formed. A little girl named Mary Jones, who had to walk three miles to see a bible, created a feeling in favor of such an organization which finally developed into what it is to-day.

In moving the adoption of the report Rev. Mr. Kines said the report was a startling one as it came to them as a new story. There were homes in this christian community where the bible is not read or appreciated though they call themselves Protestants. There is not another book in the world to compare with the bible. All good books had the bible for their foundation. It is pre-eminently the child's, young people's and student's book. The word of God was the bank book of the world and if people invested more in it they would get more out of it. "It is a very poor country to live in where the bible is not read, believed in and practiced."

Rev. Dr. Bell then gave a most interesting address. "Seeking frequently on science to carry out his requirements the doctor threw some welcome lights on the bible. One good feature of the able and thorough organization of the society was that no matter how small the contribution it goes to help carry on the work all over the world. The society was formed eighty-nine years ago. In the bible could be found the most recent conclusions science can give. The time taken in writing the bible extended over 1,600 years. He believed all human inventions came from the inspiration of God. The officers elect are:

President—Rev. R. Whiting.
Vice presidents—Revs. E. W. Dobbs, Dr. Mowat, Dr. Jackson.
Secretary—Rev. S. Houston.
Treasurer—R. S. Dobbs.
Auditors—G. Hague, Joseph Clark.
Executive committee—The above officers, the city pastors, and B. W. Robertson, Major Wilson, Prof. J. Fowler, A. Chown, J. A. Gardiner, E. H. Smythe, Rev. G. Porteous, S. Gaw and H. Jack.

Last Night's Concert.

The concert given by Leicester lodge, Sons of England, last evening, was well attended. Major-Gen Cameron, Royal military college, occupied the chair. Among those present on the platform were Mayer Drennan, Col. Twitchell, U.S. consul, Rev. Mr. Harding, Prof. Cappon, Prof. Connery, Dr. Smythe, Q.C., George Osborne, J. Porter, president Tyne lodge, S. of E., E. Scrutton, president Leicester lodge, past presidents Green, Salter and Lambert, and vice-president J. Martin. The chairman gave a short history of the Sons of England society, after which the concert was proceeded with. The singing of Miss L. Meek, Miss Ida Orser and Miss Dupont was much admired. Messrs. Keeley, Swain and Medley sang in their accustomed happy manner. Misses LeHeup and Cook were well received in their piano duet, also Mrs. McVety and Miss Cook. Prof. Connery recited "Roger and I," in able style. The piccolo solo, by Clarence Jones, needs no comment. Prof. Doward, Toronto, did not put in an appearance, his place on the programme being taken by Mr. Callaghan, Toronto, who gave a piano solo. Between the first and second parts of the programme Dr. Smythe delivered an address on the "Union Jack," after which the chairman called on Prof. Connery to read the poem which Prof. Cappon had awarded the first prize. The following were the prize winners:

First prize—Master H. Smythe.
Second prize—Miss Jessie M. Gates, Williamsville.
Third prize—Bruce Kennedy.

The concert was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the Queen."

LATE GEORGE MORTON.

ONE OF THE FOREMOST [illegible] IN MANITOBA.

His Many Businesses. He Was in Before He Went to Manitoba—He Ever Looked Westward—His Successes and Failures in Kingston Described.

The Boisvain Globe has the following biographical sketch of George Morson, who died Sunday last: "Mr. Morton was born in Montreal on Nov. 2nd, 1821, where he received his education and also his business training. In the year 1840 he started out and located at Brockville, where he did business with a Mr. McKee, under the firm name of Morton, McKee & Co. They carried on a general store, with a branch at Port Hope, for about ten years. The contract for building the present breakwater in Port Hope harbor was held by Mr. Morton and the work was completed under his supervision. About 1852 deceased acquired a mill property on the Rideau canal, forty miles from Kingston, where he manufactured flour, lumber and [illegible]. The products of the mill were carried up the canal to Kingston and forwarded across Lake Ontario to Charlotte, the port of Rochester, N.Y. He also carried on a general store where the mills were located which is now called Morton, and later purchased a farm near the mill site. The farm he stocked with Ayrshire cattle, and entered largely into cheese making, establishing factories in Leeds and adjoining counties. As many of the farmers were possessed of inferior stock for dairy purposes, Mr. Morton presented each municipality in South Leeds with a thoroughbred Ayrshire bull, so that the stock might be improved. He continued each year to increase the production of Canadian cheese. He it was who induced the government to place a duty of four cents per lb. on American cheese to keep it out of the Canadian market. In 1874 cheese representing $480,000 was purchased for shipment to Liverpool. Mr. Morton was known in those days as "the cheese king of Canada." Shortly afterwards the old Morton distillery property at the city of Kingston was got control of (although bearing the name of "Morton" it belonged to another family), where, [illegible] with a son, J. J. Morton, the manufacture of malt was entered into to supply Pennsylvania and New York brewers with a light colored malt, produced from barley growth along the shores of the Bay of Quinte and through Prince Edward county. In time this industry was stopped by the U.S. congress placing a heavy duty on malt and lessening the duty on barley. The old Frontenac brewery was then secured and Mr. Morton, with three sons, launched out in the manufacture of lager beer. This venture, however, proved a failure, as Canadians were not a beer-drinking people to such an extent as would warrant a continuance of the business. About this time, 1878, the Manitoba craze began to effect eastern people, and Mr. Morton decided to "go west." He at once entered into a colonization scheme with the intention of entering largely into the cheese industry. All preliminaries having been carried out, the "Morton Dairy, Farming and Colonization Co." started operations near where Deloraine is now located early in the eighties, having secured lands from the government, the C.P.R. and the Hudson's Bay Co., aggregating something over 100,000 acres. The scheme, however, proved a failure. In 1883 the general store of Brondgeest & Hunter, located at what was then called Wabeesh, was purchased by Mr. Morton, where he continued to do business for a time. The present sawmill at Wasswa, which had been placed in the bush for the purpose of supplying lumber for the erection of settlers' houses on the lands above mentioned, was now in the hands of the sheriff, and when put up for sale was purchased by Mr. Morton, which has since been run by him. At Wasswa he also had a store. On the approach of the railway a store was built at Boissevain, also a flat warehouse, the latter having been converted into an elevator in 1887. In 1888 an elevator was built at Whitewater, both of which he continued to operate up to the time of his death."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Reply to "Merchant."

KINGSTON, Jan. 6.—(To the Editor): In your issue of the 4th inst. "Merchant" makes a feeble reply to my letter re licensing fresh meat, and goes into tears over the competition the poor butcher has to endure. I'd bet "Merchant" is a butcher and a conservative, for who but one could speak the truth so forcefully as he does when he says "the present government is the cause of all monopolies. Why should the butcher business require local protection any more than the dry goods, grocery or fancy goods business". It would be less reasonable to protect any or all of these from legitimate local competition, by a high license, than to protect the butcher's business. The present license fee, which dealers in fresh meat have to pay, is levied to secure supervision of the premises, to see they are kept in a proper sanitary condition, and not to prevent any person doing business in that line. If "Merchant" lacks energy, ability and forethought necessary to enable him to hold his own, let him give place to those who can. He talks about grocers selling meat, fancy goods stores selling tea, dry goods stores selling books, soap, flour, feed, etc. I would like to ask him, what is done in some of the largest cities in America, to-day, but that very thing. Go into John Wannamaker's, Philadelphia, the largest store in the United States, and what can you buy there, any thing you want from a needle to an anchor." This custom is of mutual advantage to buyer and seller. "Competition is the life of trade." I would recommend this motto to "Merchant" and suggest to him to go in to win; then we will hear less about putting a high license on fresh meat to increase the cost of the workingman's dinner.—BEEF EATER.

THE PARISH OF BATH.

An Admirable Event on New Year's Eve—Large Attendance.

The concert, on New Year's eve, in the town hall, more than fulfilled the expectations of its promoters, notwithstanding many drawbacks. The opening chorus, by the Sunday school children, was very nicely rendered, Miss Nettie Forward accompanying on the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Jory, Miss Minerva Howard and Miss Bain exceled themselves in their vocal efforts, while in the Irish and other dialogues the acting of J. M. Wemp and the Misses Howard, Davy, Bain and Smith was above all praise and elicited hearty applause. A negro dialogue, in which some clever boys took part, mightily amused the audience, and was pronounced a prime feature of the entertainment. During an intermission of fifteen minutes the annual Xmas gifts were presented to the children—fifty-seven in all—and others, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, as usual, receiving as a token of good will an envelope containing a nice donation. Then came "The Skidmore Guards," a black troupe in Oriental costume, the wonderful precision and uniformity of whose movements, and the melody of whose singing while performing their evolutions, under the command of their drill instructor, fairly captured the audience, and led to a demand being made for a repetition of the concert in its main features, to which consent has already been given and the announcement made that it will come off again on Friday evening, Jan. 15th. It is not too much to say that the great success of the proceedings is largely due to Miss Patience Williams, who kindly made all the guard's suits, and to Miss Lily Smith, who through all the practices and at the concert volunteered her valuable services as pianist. The new features intended to be introduced into the programme will greatly improve it on its re-production. Admission only 20 cents, children 10 cents.

How Sent His Dollar.

To the Editor:

Accept this I send to you,
For the WHIG it helps through '92.
Of all the [illegible] east to west,
In the old files in which heads were dressed.
The Kingston I find the best.
Subscribe, ye and don't neglect.
You'll find it the intellect.
And all ye who health in wealth,
In it you'll find to health.
And you, my countrymen, brother,
Come, we'll help one another.
And take a paper alive,
Which pleases the eye, I may thrive
All ye who keep alive inn
Pursue the [illegible] find within
Where you can [illegible] of sale,
Would keep a home of faith.
And your gospel [illegible] of sin.
Take the WHIG [illegible] can't keep it so;
And ye sailors bold, sail the seas,
Twill help you measure the breeze,
Remember, if your life save,
The WHIG's like on the wave.
Through it you'll been non-plus-laugh-ter.
Be far away on [illegible]
The WHIG's like on the wave.
But to its Ed. I'd throw.
He's not to put this into print
For if he wants the Cat away
And lose me know I wished.

Yours truly, HALL,
McDe's Corners,

FORT QU'APPELLE, N.W.T., Jan. 2.—(To the Editor): I saw a report in your paper about the crops around Moose Jaw. I give you a piece about Fort Qu'Appelle. I and my son went shooting prairie fowl, five miles from here, Dec. 12. saw Mr. Burns drawing his wheat off harvest field, and stacking it with a [illegible] and his wheat is first-class. We killed our chickens and never went off a farm. 1891 has been the best year ever for farmers in this district. If they [illegible] three years like it they would [illegible] dently rich. I can name a number of farmers who have from 4,000 to 5,000 bushels of grain, and some won't be able to get it threshed until June. We had fine weather Xmas. Since then it has been very cold, the thermometer has been from 20° to 30° below zero ever since.—Yours truly, LEADER, Jr.
