If you've tried our 40c tea you know what a delicious beverage it makes; if you haven't there's a treat in store for you. China never produced anything that surpasses it and China never will. A second rate article in tea is worse than none at all; you're infinitely better off without it. What is true of tea is true of coffee also. Good coffee takes high rank among the luxuries of life and bad coffee—well the less that is said of that the better. If you want a cup of coffee which is matchless in taste and flavor try our best only 40c a pound.

A FINE CARNIVAL.

Was Held in the Roller Rink on Saturday Night.

The roller rink was the scene of a large crowd of people Saturday night, the event being a grand dress carnival. It was indeed a pretty sight to witness the numerous skaters, in various disguises, spin round the rink, some with the graceful movements of experience, while others skated clumsily, in keeping with the rendition of their respective parts. The costumes throughout were handsome and the contests for prizes necessarily keen. Among the skaters were a large number from other cities. "A" battery band furnished excellent music. The ladies' contest resulted as follows: First prize, season ticket, Miss Mary Donohue; second prize, silver roller skate, Miss Katie Garvin; third prize, two months' supplementary ticket, Miss Lizzie Lafferty. For the gentlemen: First prize, season ticket, A. Fros; second prize, pair nickle plated roller skates, D. Dempster. The following took part:

"Silver Dollar," Mary Donohue; "Silver Starlight," Florence Richards; "Flower Girl," Katie Garvin; "Golden Star," Lizzie Lafferty; "Snow Drop," Annie Gilmour; "Girl of the Period," Clara Clark; "Mother Goose," Jennie Dickson; "Housemaid," Emma Wilkins; "Dinah," Georgie White; "Circassian Lady," Ella Jones; "Snow and Pappoose," May Simmonds; "Two Zulus," Aggie and Carr; "Clown," Robert McKee; "Tramith," B. Larose; "Egyptian Prince," D. Dempster; "Most a Coon To-night," Andy Free; "Harlequin," R. Lake; "Uncle Tom," Geo. Maloney; "Dixie," Walter Dick; "Sailor Boy," P. Richards; "Stars and Stripes," G. Saunders; "Union Jack," Alex. Goodwin; "Faust," John Knight.

Alma Mater Society.

A meeting of special interest was held on Saturday night, attended by almost double the usual number. The "drawing card" was the first of the inter-year debates. This was between the freshmen and junior's years, represented respectively by Connolly and McIntyre, and Stewart and Hayden. The freshmen had the affirmative of the proposition: resolved that society is tending to increasing social difficulties, to uphold, while the juniors had the negative and won the debate.

Mr. McIntyre led off by naming social and political lines that are likely to bring trouble. Such were the separate school system, corrupt government, equal rights, intemperance. He dealt forcibly with these subjects, following them out well. Mr. Stewart then answered the points made by the former speaker, and went on to show that, since we can judge the future by the past, such rapid advances have been made that "there is nothing to fear for the future." Mr. Connolly then took the floor and, taking statistics, dealt with the increase of crime and poverty which, in the ages gone by, did not exist even though there were comparatively few of the luxuries of the present. Mr. Hayden then laid down the premiss, "if we can show that man is realizing his ideal self, and soon what are his capabilities, and what are beyond them, then society is not tending to increase social difficulties." This he showed conclusively in the neatest address of the evening, and the chairman, Mr. Carmichael, decided in favor of the negative.

CASES OF WHITE SLAVERY

THE WAY BUSINESS MEN AND CLERKS TOIL ON SATURDAY.

A Change is Greatly Needed so That Rest Can be Secured to Weary Souls—A Disgrace That Bits of Boys Should Deliver Parcels Early on Sunday Morning.

Last evening there was a large congregation at Bethel church. Rev. Mr. McCormick spoke in relation to the early closing movement. He said: "A thing happens in Kingston, this evening, that has never happened on any Sunday evening before. According to agreement every pulpit in the city, Roman Catholic or Anglican or of any other section of the christian church refers to the same subject. Every preacher is to speak on the same theme. There will no doubt be a great variety of texts, and I would be glad if I could get hold of all of them. The subject is early closing of places of business on Saturday evening. This subject has been under discussion on the quiet for several months. Representatives of the ministerial association met representatives from the clerical union and talked the matter over. They have been trying to work out a common plan of action. At the last meeting merchants and a goodly number of business men were present. It was decided that this subject should be discussed from the pulpits and that a public meeting should be held in the city hall when some definite and practical action would be agreed upon. The opinions I have heard on this subject have all pointed in one direction, that it is a desirable move if it can be accomplished. Some think it is not practicable and will be attended with considerable difficulty. We don't think it is impossible, or impracticable. If only a little relief can be afforded it will be worth the labor and sacrifice. We agree that it is a desirable movement first of all in the interest of clerks and the employees in different places of business. There are some of the clerks who work on Saturday something like twelve or thirteen hours and some employees in other departments, such as those who attend delivery waggons, work from fourteen to sixteen hours on Saturday. Many of the clerks are females and they are not only kept in the store all these weary hours on the last day of the week, but they are kept standing all day and night. We are glad of the fact that slavery is abolished from all the British portion here, there and everywhere. Slaves cannot breath in British territory. If their lungs receive our air they are free. The moment they touch our country's soil their shackles fall. While this is so of black people the slavery of the white people is not abolished and this will not be so until life and death and flesh and blood are considered of more value than silver and gold. We consider this movement desirable in the interest of store keepers. They are more anxious for this than their employees. They want rest, and if they are godly men will appreciate a rest more on Saturday evening than on any other evening of the week. They could then rise early on Sunday and have a few hours of devotion before going to church. It is wrong that the responsibilities of the homes, because of the exigencies of the times, should be thrown upon the wives. The children are not as well trained by the mother only as they would be if mother and father were engaged in the work. The men are not to blame. They must go with the stream and therefore have not time to attend to domestic duties. It is a shame that at 12 o'clock on Saturday evening little bits of boys should be going shivering through the streets waking people up asking for houses at which to deliver goods. This is a disgrace to christian civilization. There is no greater, no deeper shame than that old men, young men and boys should be found driving their delivery vans in the small hours of Sunday, morning distributing goods to citizens. This state of things should be modified. The Sabbath day was given for rest and should be observed as such. After the arduous labors of Saturday men cannot enjoy the Sunday services, and in many cases are found asleep. There will always be cantankerous spirits who will try to overrule a movement that is good for the people. The buyers must do all they can to make their purchases early in the week and early on Saturday, and under no consideration should they have anything to do with those who will violate any law or regulation adopted by the majority.

At Cooke's Church.

Rev. S. Houston, in the course of his sermon, referred to the early closing on Saturday evening by store-keepers. He pointed out the many evils connected with late hours, including the keeping of clerks and drivers of delivery waggons working so late on Saturday night. Sometimes they worked into the Sabbath and came to church, Sabbath morning, in an improper condition, and many did not come to the service at all. They remained at home in bed. There are many difficulties in the way of a reformation, but what of that? No good thing was ever accomplished without some inconvenience or work. Too many of our people, rather than stir themselves, would let the existing evil remain without any attempt at reform. The true christian spirit should prevail: "Look not on our own things, but also on the things of others." If we had more of this spirit it would be better for ourselves and for those around us. Two things were needed for success. The people must purchase their goods some other day than Saturday, as the store keepers have enough to do with the country trade. The employees should be paid as early as Thursday so as to permit the city people purchasing on Friday at the latest. The people must consider it carefully and prayerfully and not look at it from a selfish stand-point. The proper spirit is to not be always asking the question what good will this do for us, but what good will it do for those around us.

St. George's Cathedral.

Rev. B. B. Smith preached in the morning taking for his text, Romans, xii -5: "Every one members one of another." Towards the close of his sermon, the preacher said, "We have at this time an opportunity to apply this great principle of our religion. A move has been made, as you know, to relieve some of our fellow citizens from the pressure of a certain amount of labor which we, through habit, have laid upon them. I refer to the move made to secure the earlier closing of retail stores on the Saturday evenings. The hardship and injustice which many complain of is this: That men and boys are kept at work when work should have ceased. 'Man goeth forth to his work and to his labor,' says the inspired Psalmist, 'until the evening.' Yes, until the evening for then work should end, the night being given for rest. And not only by keeping men and boys busy in attending upon us do we deprive them of the God-given time for rest and sleep, but we, in many cases, make it barely possible for them to enjoy the great gift of the holy day. How wearied men must be, who have been kept at work in their places of business on to the hour of midnight. How wearied these men and boys, hurrying from street to street, delivering their goods even on to one o'clock on the Sunday morning. How all must, almost of necessity, make the Sunday simply a day of rest for the tired body, and go far to deprive those wearied men and boys of all the higher ends for which the day is given. I know that some with much determination and at the cost of real self denial, do mark the day as one of worship as well as of rest. But why should we require this sacrifice of them, and how is it as regards many and especially as regards the young, who are forming habits which will affect their whole future. It is, indeed, gratifying to know that, as far as can be ascertained, there is a unanimous consensus of opinion in favor of the much needed reform, so that the real question is, is it possible? Can it be brought about? It can, and easily, if only we would apply the principle of which we have been speaking this morning. Let us show by our presence at the public meeting that we sympathize with the movement and are ready to do all we can to further it. Let us be more considerate in our shopping, making it a rule to have, if possible, none of it for the Saturday. Let us remember the question is not how will this proposed change benefit or inconvenience me, but what am I really to do in order that this change may be brought about to benefit others? We need but the willing mind but to act upon the golden rule, to be true to the religion which we profess, animated by its unselfish spirit, knowing that 'no man liveth to himself,' but that we are, all of us, 'members one of another.'"

Y. P. S. C. E. Union.

At a meeting of the christian endeavor local union executive committee, on Saturday night, it was decided to hold the annual business meeting and election of officers on Feb. 8th. A communication from Deseronto was read, asking that a delegation of six visit that place, on Feb. 22nd, and take part in an anniversary service there in connection with the Church of the Redeemer. The following were appointed delegates: Messrs. E. E. Horsey, F. Phillips, R. Allen, H. Newman, A. Shaw and Miss Phillips. Miss Walker will also attend and read a paper upon "Our Pledge."

Gospel Temperance Meeting.

Dr. Curtis, announced to speak at the gospel temperance meeting in the Bethel church, last evening, was unable to be present owing to a severe cold which would not allow him to speak above a whisper. Rev. D. C. Sanderson made an address pointing out what is to be required of the church in coming days. He declared for united work against the liquor traffic.

The Church Paragraphs.

Rev. Prof. Mowat preached at both services at St. Andrew's church yesterday.

Rev. R. Whiting preached an admirable sermon in Chalmers' church yesterday morning.

A meeting of the literary society of St. James' church will be held on Tuesday evening.

Prayers were offered in St. Paul's church yesterday for the recovery of W. Elliott from sickness.

Rev. Mr. Swallow, curate of St. Paul's church, preached at St. Mark's church, Barriefield yesterday morning.

An able sermon was preached in St. Paul's church yesterday morning by Rev. R. F. Taylor, rector of North Shefford, Quebec.

In Chalmers' church last evening Rev. Mr. MacGillivray introduced the subject of early closing, and spoke strongly in favor of the scheme.

Rev. G. S. Eldridge and family have removed from Sherbrooke, Que., to Hartford, Conn. It was necessary for him to seek a milder climate.

Rev. M. Macgillivray preached in Queen street Methodist church yesterday morning. Rev. A. E. Bates filled the pulpit in the evening. He had a brief, bright sermon on "Procrastination."

The Rev. Mr. Laing was unable to occupy his pulpit yesterday, owing to illness. His place was supplied by Mr. Currie, Queen's university, who preached acceptably morning and evening.

This morning J. E. Clark, treasurer of general hospital, received ten dollars from the ministering children's league of St. Mary Magdalene's church, Napanee. This makes the subscriptions from the country churches ahead of last year.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Purchased the Stand.

S. Harkness purchased the Collendar Hotel and took possession this morning. After many years in business T. Poolan and wife will live a retired life at Catarqui.

A Visitor to the City.

Yesterday Sir John Thompson was in the city the guest of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick. The knight attended service in St. Mary's cathedral and called on Hon. Dr. Sullivan.

Broke His Arm.

Robert Graham, Elgin, formerly cutter with William Dunlop, is in the city to have an operation performed. About seven weeks ago he fell on the ice and broke his arm.

The Limestone's Victorious.

A hockey match occurred Saturday night, between Queen's forwards and Limestone's backs and Limestone's forwards and Queen's backs, resulting in favor of the latter by the score of 4 to 1.

Cannot Get Police Service.

Capt. Augustus, manager of the roller rink, says he does not receive proper police protection and finds it difficult to maintain order at times. He says he asked the police department for assistance offering to pay the police officers, but his request was refused. He will interview the commissioners in reference to the matter.

Oh, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.

Almost Suffocated.

About ten o'clock this morning, people living on Nelson street, looked into the residence of Mrs. Fenwick, an aged resident. Finding no stir in the house they went inside and saw her in bed unable to get up. She was nearly suffocated and so weak she could not move. The house was full of coal gas, some of which had been inhaled by the old lady. Dr. McVety treated her and says she will recover.

Death of Mrs. Burnett.

Police Officer Orlando Burnett received a message, on Saturday afternoon, announcing the death of his mother. The deceased was living with her daughter in Toronto. The late Mrs. Burnett was widow of the late Thomas Burnett, of the township of Kingston. She was seventy-seven years of age. She was a sister of Mrs. Ashley, now lying dangerously ill at her home in this city. Officer Burnett has gone to attend the funeral.

The Record Beaten.

The walking record made by Mr. Spriggs and a friend, a few weeks ago, has been beaten by Daniel and Norval Robinson, who walked to Kingston Mills and back yesterday in two hours and eleven seconds. The roads being soft the boys could not go very rapidly but they claim that with good roads, in the summer, they can cover the distance in considerably less than two hours. They left the city at 10:20 o'clock and reached Rideau station fifty-five minutes later. The former record was two hours and thirty-two seconds.

A Shrewd Guesser.

W. Cochrane has won some notoriety as a shrewd and sure guesser. The night before the municipal elections he wrote out the names of the gentlemen who, in his mind, would compose the city council and putting them secure in an envelope handed them to an interested friend who, upon opening the letter in the morning, found Mr. Cochrane had named the council with the exception of one man. The night before the Metcalfe-Gunn election he did the same thing and upon opening the paper the next day it was found to bear these words: "Metcalfe; at least 90 majority."

The Princess Street Boys.

Charles Martin, manager of the Princess street baseball team, is in receipt of a communication from G. O'Toole, Ottawa, in answer to a letter of a few days ago. Mr. O'Toole was catcher for the Pastimes, of Ottawa, last season, and is very anxious to become a member of the Princess street boys. He also recommends Wm. Moran as pitcher and Mr. Carney as third base. Mr. Martin says that in losing Calligan the backbone of the team is gone and unless the citizens show more interest in the team he will not attempt to re-organize in the spring. With a record such as that of the Princess street nine it is to be hoped that that portion of the public concerned in such matters, will give a hand in organizing a first-class team for the coming season.

WORKINGMEN'S MEETING

TALKING OF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN MANY LANDS.

Countries That Were Sober Until the Christian Religion Was Introduced—But Selfishness Had Created the Distress—Single-Tax Theories Are Growing in Minds.

J. F. Baker took the chair and introduced J. M. Machar, Q.C., as the speaker of the day. Mr. Machar referred to the subject of the previous meeting and read extracts from the Christian Union showing the enormous cost and dreadful evils of the liquor traffic in such countries as China, India and Japan. Strange as it may appear these countries were sober, drunkenness being exceptional until the introduction of the christian religion. After reading the extracts Mr. Machar made extended observations on the subject stating that the christian religion was in no way to blame for the traffic in heathen countries. But that these countries being opened by the gospel to trade and commerce, selfish men who knew nothing of the principles of the christian religion and care nothing for their fellow men, for the sake of gain have pushed their nefarious traffic into these newer fields, and, unfortunately, with too much success. Referring to the question as to whether poverty produces intemperance or intemperance produces poverty, Mr. MacLar was of the opinion that both were true. He believed that the poorer classes were driven to intemperance in many cases by the mere force of their surroundings, from which they could not extricate themselves, and settled down into a kind of despair. He believed that the unequal and excessive taxation had much to do with the prevailing poverty in many countries, and hoped that when the doctrines of the single tax were known and adopted much of the poverty and intemperance would disappear.

Mr. Bawden said he had been travelling recently in the northern part of the province and was surprised to find the progress the theories of the single tax was making in the country.

The subject was further discussed by Mr. Hoppins, Roger Greer, R. Meek, G Creegan and others, Mr. Greer stating that in his opinion seven-eighths of the poverty among working men was caused by the liquor traffic.

E. H. Smythe was present and stated in the course of his remarks, that he was a convert to some extent to the single tax movement.

The meeting was one of the best yet held.

The chairman announced that the meeting next Sunday would be addressed by the Rev. Buxton Smith. All working men are cordially invited.

MARRIED IN BROOKLYN.

A Former Resident of Newburg an Interesting Bride.

The Brooklyn Eagle, of Jan 21st, contains the following description of the marriage of Miss Lulu Edith, daughter of the Hon. J. D. Carscallen, formerly a resident of Newburg, but now one of the merchant princes of Jersey City. The wedding of Miss Lulu Edith Carscallen to Audley Clark, at the Westminster Presbyterian church, corner of Clinton street and First Place, culminated an engagement which has been a feature of much interest in South Brooklyn society since the early fall. The bride is the daughter of John D. Carscallen, well known in financial circles. She is a pretty and somewhat petite blonde, and since her debut some few seasons ago has been much sought after in society. Audley Clarke is well known and popular among the men in his set, and is a prominent factor in the Polytechnic re-union. He is the son of H. Audley Clarke, a retired banker. Six o'clock was the hour of the ceremony. The chancel was embellished with a tasteful decoration of palms. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Dr. Alfred H. Moment, pastor of the church. The groom and his best man, Walter C. Butler, of Orange, N.J., awaited the coming of the bride at the altar. The latter advanced up the main aisle, leaning on the arm of her father and preceded by the ushers, Duncan Edwards, James H. Mairs, Frederick R. Coffin, James Macdonald, Walter Montieth Aikman, jr., and Charles G. Carscallen. Each wore a diamond scarf pin presented by the groom. The bride was attended only by her maid of honor, Miss Ladd, of Plainfield, N.J., who walked before her, attired in a gown of rich brocaded silk, covered with white chiffon. She wore a white hat and carried a bouquet of white and yellow roses. The bride's gown was of white faille trimmed with Duchess lace, watteau train and puffed sleeves. Instead of flowers she held in her hand a point lace handkerchief and a white covered prayer book. She wore the customary tulle veil, caught with narcissus blossoms, and her brilliant diamond earrings, gifts of the groom, glistened in the light. The groom's gift from the bride was a handsome diamond ring. After the ceremony a small reception for relatives of the two families was held at the residence of the bride's parents, adjoining the church. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will leave shortly for a two months' trip to Nassau in the Bahamas and on their return will reside in Orange, N.J.

THE DECLARATION TO-DAY.

The Indications are That Metcalfe's Majority is Higher Than Published.

To-day at twelve o'clock, Mr. Walker, returning officer at the last dominion election, was to have made an official and correct report of the number of ballots cast. Before the hour for announcement it was found that each of the deputy returning officers had neglected to return his books in such shape as to enable the returning officer to ascertain the number of votes cast for each candidate. The books show 145 ballots, but who they are given for is a mystery.

At two o'clock the final returns were made as follows:
