A man and his come under its power. It was this latter class the Lord Jesus likened unto the foolish man who built his house upon the sand, and as a consequence both building and builder were utterly destroyed by the storm that, sooner or later, will test the life and character of every man and show if he has been building his hopes for eternity on any fancied goodness or works of merit of his own. In that great day such foundations will be swept away, and it will then be seen that the truly wise are those who, as poor, guilty, sinners came to Christ and, resting upon Him, have found the sure foundation. Mr. Weaver's discourse was Interwoven with many touching incidents, and told in a way that could not fail to make an impression on these who eagerly listened. The
