Sentenced For Seven Years. TORONTO, March 29 ... Several years ago Thomas Williamson, reeve of Markham onty, acted as foreman of the grand fory of York county. He discharged the duties efficiently. Judge Falconbridge made bis first appearance on the beach on that nocasion. Yesterday the same judge sent Williamson to Kingston ponitontiary to serve seven years for forgery. Many petitions for clemency were arged but the judge said Williamson was an elucated man and there was no reason for the court to exercise clemency. Williamson, as a plea, said his errors were the result of the use of liquor, apium and landanum.
