Parisian Indoor Dress in Crepon Challi or Fancy Woolen. This attractive model for a house dress esigned by Worth, combines style, simplicity and comfort in most admirable ashion. The original is a gay and pretty rown of soft, clinging wool of a rose red shade, with large bows of pale moss green ribbon. The collar and square plastron are of Russian embroidery of bright colors wrought in cross stitch-a trimming seen on many of the new dresses. In design it is an easy fitting princess dress with but few seams and buttoned invisibly all the way down from under the front fitted by darts and booked down the middle, the top being covered with embroidery. Over this the princess front is drawn plainly, without seams, and turned down diagonally at the top in a graduated revers that is faced with the red material.
