REDUCING THE STAFF.

It is announced from Ottawa that the Intercolonial staff is to be still further reduced, "and that a strong effort will be made to make both ends meet in the fiscal year which has commenced so that there shall be no more deficits." So far so good, But the Intercolonial railway has been run badly in more senses than the employment of a larger number of men than its business has called for. Being a large political engine votes have been made by the appointment of an army of hangers-on to positions, the salaries connected with which have aggregated a large sum annually, contributing to the deficits which have had to be made good out of the treasury of Canada. But there have been other defects in management Too many people, and of one political party, have been travelling free, and, according to later accounts, too many tories have been using the railway for personal ends and not paying for it as they should. There is need of a thorough reform on the I.C.R., one that is not likely to come to it as long as it is manipulated by politicians, as it is to-day. Mr. Schrieber has told the royal commission some of the disabilities under which he has labored as the manager of the road, and it is for the government to have these removed, and the railway run upon a business basis. This can best be done by placing the affairs of the railway under the direction of a non-political head, and declining to interfere with him on any account. Such a head Mr. Haggart is not, and can never be. He is not the man to reform anything.

A RUTHLESS ATTACK.

The Toronto World fell on Mr. Ball, the county attorney of Oxford, accused him of preaching annexation, and invited the attorney-general to sit upon him. Mr. Ball answered sharply, informing his assailant that he has not preached annexation under any circumstances, but admitting that he had privately expressed the opinion that the policy of the dominion government was making annexationists of many of our best citizens. Therefore the World proceeds to abuse the liberals in the most insane fashion, thus:

"We freely admit that Mr. Ball has never had the indecency to appear in public in advocacy of annexation, and that makes a wide distinction between him and Mr. Myers, and makes it unnecessary for Mr. Mowat to take any action. For our part we would not, if we could, suppress the utterances of a single annexationist in the dominion. Full scope to them. The more they are allowed to declare themselves without fear of consequences, the more it will be seen what a seamy and paltry sprinkling of sorehead is they are. Show us an annexationist and we will show you a sorehead. The vast majority of reformers are Canadians to the core, but fourteen years in the cold shades of opposition has sadly chilled the patriotic ardor of a small disaffected fraction of the party. Yet this unhappy crew has tainted the whole mass of liberalism with disloyalty and discredited the entire party in the public estimation."

It would have been infinitely more to the credit of our contemporary if it had admitted that it had blundered in assailing Mr. Ball under a misconception as to his political bias than to add insult to injury by reckless talk about the party it opposes. Since the days when Abbott and Macpherson and others signed the famous manifesto there have been annexationists in Canada, and they have been as conspicuous in one party as another, and it is therefore an outrage to insinuate that they are liberals and sore heads, an "unhappy crew that has tainted the whole mass of liberalism with disloyalty." Does anyone believe that? Mr. Blake, in the open letter which he wrote to the electors of Durham in 1887, pointed out that the trend of unrestricted reciprocity was towards a political union, and he was applauded by the tory papers, and his remarks printed in large type in the campaign literature of the party. The same man, however, in the same open letter, asserted as a positive conviction that Canada, as at present governed, and with its present fiscal policy, was drifting inevitably towards annexation, and no one dared to say that he was disloyal. He was simply passing an opinion for which he gave a reason, and without giving any evidence that he was interested in what he held was sure to come to pass. Mr. Ball, of Oxford, did no more, but he has not been as fairly dealt with. He is wantonly assailed in the first place, and when he puts the World right and shows how grievously it has wronged him it goes off at a tangent, tries to be as discourteous as possible, and takes a fling at the liberal party of which it should be ashamed. It had a plain duty to perform, namely, to apologize to Mr. Ball for its ruthless attack upon him, and that duty it failed to perform. The more to its discredit.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Church Methods.

SHARBOT LAKE, June 28.—(To the Editor): The letter on above subject is evidently the outcome of a sympathy such as is felt for each other by the occupants of one boat. The truth enunciated therein is patent to all who have a habit of circumspection.

The refuge which enjoins each of us to "Do good unto thy friend while thou livest and according to thine ability stretch out thine hand to give to him" is good, but would be improved by the addition of the reminder that he dat qui cito dat, and that if gifts were deferred he whom we delight to honor might die, and then what benefit to him could be obtained by too late opening the purse strings to erect a memorial to one neglected during life. Having been for many years next to the helmsman in a clerical barque, I can speak from experience of the way in which the sustenance of the clergy is considered an irksome burden, instead of being looked upon as it should be, as an avenue through which gratitude to the Giver of all good could pass in a tangible form. One thing might very advantageously be done, I think, which would greatly ameliorate the condition of the clergy, always, of course, supposing that each pastor of the good Shepherd's flock was actuated in taking orders solely by the anxiety to save fellow-sinners, and thereby to add to the number of those who would glorify their Father's name, and not merely for social position, nor for a living. Taking St. Paul as an ensample, who worked at a trade, and could be independent of the caprice or miserliness of his hearers, I would suggest that every parent should let his children learn some trade in addition to their profession. If they show a tendency for any of the learned sciences, it would never harm them to have the practical knowledge if they did find themselves affluent enough to dispense with the use of it. Further, a reader for holy orders would in no way degrade himself, nor incapacitate himself from taking his proper place in society, by combining the study of agriculture and the management of necessary domestic animals with that of the dead languages and the history of the church, which latter, beyond what is provided for us in the bible, occupies far too much attention in the minds of the clergy of the present day. They would enlist more recruits into the ranks of the church army by a simple, apostolic following in the footprints of Him who gave us the perfect pattern for daily life, than by preaching against other forms of worship in their sermons on that "day, most calm, most bright," which sermons would have a more beneficial effect if, as in those by Drs. Arnold and Robertson, they inculcated the plain practical duty of every christian. How much better the world (which is often condemned for being so wicked) would be if each of us remembered that we are ourselves the atoms which compose the aggregate, and that just in proportion as we each strive hourly to—even ever so little—copy the rules for a holy life laid down in the twelfth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, just so much the better will that bad world be.

The dignity of true humility in an apostolically simple life, trusting to the Father for daily food, would enforce general respect in spite of a possible "threadbare coat" which ensign of impecuniosity would be less frequent if their wearers would exercise sufficient force of will to remember who dignified labor and would take pleasure in tilling ground for the necessaries of daily life, which Adam found could be all obtained from his garden, and I do not suppose he was any the less a gentleman, nor was Eve unladylike, because they worked their land for pleasure and profit.

Then comes the question of "Where is the land to be worked?" I believe any good church farmer would willingly give five or even ten acres out of his hundreds or hundred (I would, if the opportunity were afforded me) on which all the church members could combine to build a hygienically planned, commodious, though unpretentious parsonage, which should be a free gift to the parish forever, by which means each successive clerical occupant could, at any rate, by his own hands keep the wolf from the door. The bodily exercise required in the effort would not be excessive, and, while allowing plenty of time for study and parochial visiting, would tend greatly to reduce and even eliminate those bêtes noires of the brotherhood, dyspepsia and laryngitis, both of which ailments are much alleviated by a generous fruit and vegetable diet.

I had no intention of writing so long a letter, so I must apologize.—J. OLDLADY.

The Doctors Extend Their Time.

The doctors have kindly consented to extend their generous offer of free services for three months to all who call before July 7th. This is done because so many have called and been unable to see them; 923 invalids received treatment during the past twelve days, while 203 were rejected as incurable.

This eminent staff of German and American physicians have had unparalled success in Montreal and New York, having cured thousands of cases of male and female weakness, catarrh, and catarrhal deafness, where others had failed, have opened a permanent office in Kingston at No. 92 Queen street. All who visit them before July 7th, will receive services for three months free. All forms of chronic diseases are treated, but no incurable case accepted. If your malady is hopeless, they will frankly, kindly tell you so. Go promptly if you wish to consult them, as their offices will be crowded during the latter days of free service. Catarrh and catarrhal deafness positively cured by their German treatment.

N.B.—The Kingston office is permanent, but free services and July 7th. The president and first consulting physicians will have personal charge till October, 1892. Office hours: 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Sundays, 2 to 4.

☞Cut this out and bring it with you.

Were Well Pleased With Kingston.

Toronto News.

"The Wanderers could have walked away with the town," said W. F. Dineen. "Last night we had a 'hard times' procession, the boys being dressed in various grotesque ways, and we paraded to the skating rink where the prizes were presented.

"The reception committee gave us a royal reception and entertainment. They had a large flat rented in Princess street, where refreshments were given away. All the hotel accommodation was taken, and carriages hired, and at our disposal if we wished to use them.

"The bicycle men had possession of the city, and a stranger arriving could not get quarters."

Cured Female Weakness.

Want Damages for Detention.

NEW ORLEANS, July 4.—Joseph Oteri, owner of the steamship Joseph Oteri, which was seized by the Honduran revolutionists, on the 23rd inst., states that he will call upon the federal government to demand fifty thousand dollars damages from the government of Honduras for the detention of his vessel. The ship has lost two fall trips and there is no telling how much longer she will be held. By an agreement entered into between the captain of the ship and Colonel Mulla, the head of the revolutionists, the ship will be paid 150,000 pesos in the event of the revolution being successful.

Gives Good Appetite.

SIRS,—I think your valuable medicine cannot be surpassed, according to the benefit I received from it. After suffering from headache and loss of appetite for nearly four years. I tried B.B.B. with the greatest success, finding it gave me great relief and appetite. I now enjoy good health which I owe to your valuable medicine.

The Population of Kingston

Is about 20,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection on the Throat and Lungs, as these complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect this opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial size free. Large bottle 50c and $1. Sold by all druggists.

Nothing so Good.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in my family for a number of years, and nothing so good for diarrhœa and sick stomach as it has proved itself to be.

MRS. D. A. WILSON, Ridley, P. O., Ont.

Happy Effect.

Persian Lotion preserves the same delicacy and velvet appearance of the skin and freshness of the complexion as at twenty years of age. It also prevents pimples and all eruptions.

One of the most enjoyable surprise parties ever held in Sophiasburgh took place June 23rd at the residence of Mrs. Sarah A. Foster, widow of Aaron D. Foster, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dorland, relict of the late John Dorland, of Hillier. The lady, aged 88 years, has been a widow 40 years, is in the enjoyment of good health and retains her faculties to a wonderful degree. Her brother, Robert Jones, of Hillier, and her son, Robert J. Dorland, of Picton, were present. Four generations were represented at this interesting gathering.

Rev. Father Reagier, Renfrew, has by the advice of his physicians gone to a hospital at Montreal.

Rev. R. C. Horner, evangelist, has his tent pitched in Brown's grove, north of Thomasburg.

SOUTH MARYSBURG.

A Correspondent Gives Some Good Notes From This Township.

SOUTH MARYSBURG, July 4.—The Rev. J. Fairbairn, pastor of St. Philips' church, Milford, has begun a Wednesday evening service in the school house at Greenbush. Nathan Hicks, Pt. Traverse, is erecting a new dwelling house. He has also made arrangements for the sale of his stallion, Netherby, to an American buyer. John B. Grant, Wolfe Island, was at River Bridge last week. The str. Hamilton is making weekly trips from Oswego to this place in the interest of S uth and Smith's bay fishermen, who report the catch of coarse fish large, and remunerative. Through the persevering qualities of deputy-reeve E Grimmon, South Marysburg, is to be the recipient of a two hundred dollar grant to be applied on debt of iron bridge at Milford. The swarming season for the bees is now on, and is proving quite interesting to the keepers. There seems to be a growing interest taken in this industry in the township, several having started the season with from 50 to 100 hives. Many skips died after being brought from winter quarters, their death being caused by the wet and cold of the early spring. A fairly profitable market is found for the honey at Kingston, Montreal and Winnipeg, the principal shippers and producers being A. Wellbanks and W. H. Sloan, of Milford, and Jas. Hughes, of Black River Bridge.

The three cheese factories in this township are now taxed to their greatest working capacity, the daily receipts of milk in all amounting to upwards of 30,000 lbs. This season's sale of cheese have been profitable to the patrons, they having realized from 6½c. to 67c. per 100 lbs. for milk. S. McLaughlin, Point Traverse, Walter Strikes, Royal street, and Mrs M. Huyck, R.R.B., do the manufacturing for 2½ per lb., and pay all expenses, including that of salesman.

Strawberry picking now in order; crop below the average; area about the same as last year. A. N. Kerr, of Milford, S. Pearson and A. E Grimmon, of R.R.B., are the largest producers, the two latter shipping from 300 to 700 boxes daily to Kingston dealers. Diphtheria has been prevalent at Waupoos during the past few months, several deaths having occurred therefrom. Schools and churches have been closed. No new cases at present and prospects are bright that things will shortly be running with their old time cheerfulness. Theodore D dge's carding mill at Milford is now being operated by steam. The flour mills are shut down for want of water.

The new steambarge, now nearing completion at Trenton, is partly owned, and will be commanded by Capt. John Vanalstine, of Milford. S. Ellis, Black River Bridge, has secured the mate's position. Milford now has a flourishing I. O. F. society. Their recent church parade was quite creditable. A large percentage of the land, devoted to barley growing here in ante-McKinley tarif days, is now being prepared for buckwheat seeding, the latter cereal being considered a more certain and paying substitute than the two rowed variety of barley. A few bushels, however, of the latter have been tried this season by way of experiment, but thus far shows a far less vigorous growth than the old reliable six-rowed.

The Picton seed companies have started out their weeders this week. In some few cases their seed peas, from some cause, failed to sprout. A new wharf and grain warehouse has been erected by James Whattam, of Waupoos, this spring. Evidently there will be sharp opposition in grain buying there this fall. Several hundred tons of stone coal has been delivered at Solmes' warehouse, Waupoos, during the past week. A similar bit of enterprise at Black River Bridge and South Bay would be a great convenience to consumers. C. A. McDonell has lengthened his dock and otherwise improved the shipping facilities at his warehouse during the past few months.

THE TEA TABLE.

Read This Down and You Will Be Well Entertained and Posted.

"Hope springs eternal in the human breast," but there is more spring in the legs when a fellow sits down on a tack.

Ask your druggist for Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. No oily taste like others. In big bottles 50c and $1 00.

"My lord," said the foreman of an Irish jury when giving in his verdict, "we find the man who stole the mare not guilty."

Editor (to professional humorist)—Your jokes are like the quality of mercy. Humorist—In what respect? "They're strained."

Wade's mandrake liver pills, sure cure for biliousness and constipation, Wade's drug store, Kingston.

Pope revised—It was a Boston girl of uncertain age who is reported to have said that "Where singleness is bliss, 'tis folly to be wives."

Why he hustled—"Is Jones still in the race?" "No, he ain't still. The other fellow's after him with a shotgun, and he's just a hustling!"

"The trouble with Spongely is he never pays anything," said Grabbles. "Oh, doesn't he, though! Ask him to pay you a visit and see," retorted Hicks.

There is no doubt that pure soda, pure syrups, an attractive fountain. Any syrup you want icy cold; milk shake can be obtained at Wilson's pharmacy.

Callahan—What kind of a place is New York, Phelim? Phelim O Queer—Faith it's a great city, but it's no place for a poor man unless he has plenty of money.

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating, is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

"Oh, mamma, Tommy slapped me in the face." "Well, Helen, what did you do to Tommy to make him do that?" "Nothin'. I only put some sand in his mouth."

Not one in twenty are free from some little ailment caused by inaction of the liver. Use Carter's Little Liver Pills. The result will be a pleasant surprise. They give positive relief.

Relative impecuniosity—I pity you, Jack, when I see your creditors pushing you. That is trouble I never had, Jack—No. You probably never had any credit at all.

"The trouble with Tommy is that he is shallow." "Tommy? Nonsense. If you had ever tried to fill Tommy with champagne you'd have changed your mind about that."

Young Crimsonbeak—Corinne, dear, I (hic) came to ask you for your (hic) hand, Corinne—Mr. Crimsonbeak, I'm afraid you have been taking too many fingers already to day.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill. Small dose. Small price.

Prudent Mother—I trust, my dear, that you do not encourage young men in their attentions. Daughter—Oh, dear me; no. I threaten to tell you every time any one of them kisses me.

A ROARING RUSH

THOUSANDS MADE HAPPY

We laugh the Laugh of Success. Stirring up the ant-hills to look for smaller plunder. Two-penny, half-penny dealers alarmed at losing all the trade.

GOUGH THE BIG CLOTHIER, on the Top of the Heap. None deny it. They can't. What has gained us our fame? We lower prices down to poor men's pockets. We reach the lowest notch in the thermometer of prices. We throw away Clothing to establish our name as the Great Clothiers, the people's philanthropists. GOUGH can be imitated, never approached. We ask the attention of the discriminating public to a few lines hrown out for immediate slaughter:

Men's Serge Suits $2.75, worth $6. 400 Men's All-Wool Suits, ten different patterns, $3.50, $4, $4.50, worth $8. 200 Fine Black and Worsted Suits $6.90, worth $13. 2,200 Pairs Pants from 49c to $3.50. Boys' Suits 75c and up. Boys' Knicker Pants, Shirts, Ties, Collars, Cuffs, Handkerchiefs, Gloves, Underclothing and Hats at 50 per cent. lower than any house in the trade.

Come, pay our great store a visit. We do not ask you to buy unless you are disposed, but simply ask the privilege of showing goods and quoting prices, as customers' gratification is our pride. Therefore, if goods are not just as represented money will be cheerfully refunded. For Big, Bigger, Biggest Bargains on Earth take a friend's advice and follow the crowd to
