CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

A YOUTHFUL BEEKEEPER.

How a California Lad Became the Owner of a Rousing Colony of Bees.

Here is a story that is told by that veteran beekeeper, Mr. I. A. Rood, in Gleanings in Bee Culture. Quite a young boy in the neighborhood of San Jacinto, Cal., evinced a liking for bees. He read everything he could lay hold of on the subject; watched beemen; listened to their talk until he was ready to put his knowledge to some practical use. His father, however, objected to purchasing a colony, saying they would find plenty of stray swarms at the proper season; and so our friend watched and waited.

BRINGING HOME THE BEES IN HIS TROUSERS.

At length a swarm came one day when he was at work in the fields, quite a way from home. He threw sticks and dirt among the bees, as he had read about, in order to make them alight, and finally scooped water with his hat, from a puddle, threw it among them, and was at length rewarded by seeing them alight and cluster on a bush. What should he hive them in? If he went somewhere for a box he feared they would start off again before he returned. It was hot weather, so he took off his trousers, tied up the legs and hived the bees in them. They evidently considered this a very fair hive, for they stayed in the trousers while he trudged all the way home with them. His good mother saw him coming and helped him hive them in good shape.

By the way, boys, is there any truer or kinder friend to a lad of thirteen than his mother? After the bees were hived, then the mother looked after the boy. The weather was hot and the road dusty, and poor Willie's bare legs were covered with a mixture of perspiration, dust, and occasionally a bee sting. His enthusiasm, however, was enough to help him hold on to his prize, and now he has a rousing colony of bees in a movable comb hive, and bids fair to be, in due time, one of the shining lights. His name is Willie Guthridge, and here is a sketch of him, as he brought home his first swarm.

A Beloved Prince.

Many stories are related of the Emperor Frederick of Germany, known to the people while he was crown prince as "Unser Fritz" or "Our Fritz," which show why he was so loved by his subjects.

He was always kind to the poor, the sick and the helpless, and one can easily understand how, during the war of 1870, the terrified French peasants so quickly learned to feel confidence in the commander of the invading army.

One day while he was crown prince he was paying his accustomed visit to the school at Bornstedt, and talking to the children, when a telegram was handed in to the schoolmaster, informing him of the sudden and severe illness of his mother.

"Go at once," said the prince, "and leave the school to me!"

The poor schoolmaster at first hesitated, but was at length persuaded to hurry off, and the prince continued the instruction of the astonished but delighted scholars until late in the morning, when the clergyman arrived and relieved the prince from his duties as schoolmaster.

Summer Showers.

Four loving playmates stood by a wall;
Down came the rain with a sharp, quick fall.
"I will drench you," it said, "if I can."
Ethel and Charlie, Eric and Jack
Under the umbrella they pack,
And fast to the shelter they ran,

Ethel and Charlie and Eric, too,
Are all small people, just like you;
But Jack is a great dog, you see,
Loving and gentle, faithful and wise,
With a very large heart, just suited his size,
Given up to his playmates three.

DOWN CAME THE RAIN WITH A SHARP, QUICK FALL.

Said Charlie: "I hate these sudden showers.
I'm sure they'll only spoil our flowers;
Do just look at the heavy rain."
But Ethel said gently: "The rain is kind.
It falls that we may one day find
Our beautiful flowers again."

Said Eric: "The rain doesn't do us good;
The sun brings the flowers and corn for food;
Mother told me, so that is right;
And I love the sun and the sky quite blue,
And, dear old Jack, so I'm sure do you
Love the world to look all bright."

The sister smiled and said: "The rain
Will pass away and the sun shine again;
Look! the change is coming now,
Without rain or sun what should we do?
We should love them both, and Jack thinks so too."
And Jack gave a low "Bow-wow."

Holloway's Pills.

The greatest wonder of modern times. They correct bile, prevent flatulency, cleanse the liver and purify the system, renovate the debilitated, strengthen the stomach, increase the appetite, invigorate the nerves, promote health and reinstate the weak to an active state of feeling never before expected. The sale of these pills throughout the globe astonishes everybody, convincing the most skeptical that there is no medicine equal to Holloway's Pills for removing the complaints which are incidental to the human race. They are indeed a blessing to the afflicted, and a boon to those who suffer from disorder, internal or external. Thousands of persons have testified that by their use alone they have been restored to health after other remedies had proved unsuccessful.

Apropos of the Season.

"Edgar, love," said the bride as the train moved away with them on their wedding journey, "I want you to make me one solemn promise."

"Haven't I just done that, my own?" counter asked the bewildered bridegroom.

"But this is something else. I want you to promise that—that"——

"That I will never marry again if you should die!"

"No, indeed. That you always will be good to dear little Fido."

The bridegroom said something, but it was lost in the rattle of the train and the recording angel forgot to put it down.—Detroit Free Press.

"I know a bank where the wild thyme grows
And I know a forest and from it flows,
A thirst-quenching stream,
Banana flavored cream.
You speak of Wilson's fountain I suppose?"

THE INFANT'S APPEAL.

Though Unuttered or Unexpressed, It Should Touch the Mother's Heart.

What a time of distress, pain, agony and suffering for the weak and helpless babe!

You recognize the fact, mother, that this is July weather—the heated season—when the sun pours down its fiercest rays on things animate and inanimate. You are sweltering, hot and uncomfortable. Have you ever thought of your baby's condition?

If you have not, mother, let us draw your attention to the fact that baby is a terrible sufferer just now. Look well in the little face as you have baby on your lap, or while it tosses in its cot, and, if you cannot discern restlessness, trouble and suffering you are no judge of baby nature.

The true mother should easily understand that appealing look—that craving for something that baby's life depends upon.

That mute appeal calls for a satisfying diet—a digestible food during the terribly hot weather. Baby has been fed on cow's milk of a very poor quality, which hardly appeases the pangs of thirst, much less satisfying its hunger. Baby, perhaps, from three to five times a day, is fed on some of the common artificial foods. It is more than likely that these articles of diet—stale milk, skimmed milk and poorly prepared foods—have caused some intestinal derangement, perhaps irritation of the digestive organs or inflammation of the stomach.

Baby's mute appeal calls for relief from these troubles that lead on to death and the grave. Baby asks for a food that it can relish, a food that will strengthen and invigorate during the depressing heat of summer. In short, baby silently appeals for Lactated Food, in order that it may live and thrive.

Will you respond to this desire of the baby, dear mother, or will you see it withering away with disease? If baby is fed on Lactated Food, it surely escapes every summer complaint, and becomes bright and happy.

It will be well to remember the words of one of our best Canadian physicians, who regularly prescribes Lactated Food. He says:

"Mothers in Canada should bear in mind, that Lactated Food is meat and drink for the young infant; it is a blessing to all tender children during the heat of summer."

Didn't Want It Read.

Norman McLeod was once preaching in a district in Ayrshire, where the reading of a sermon was regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister could be guilty. When the congregation dispersed, an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear onything sae gran'? Wasna that a sermon?"

"Oh, aye," replied her friend sulkily, "but he read it."

"Read it!" said the other, with indignant emphasis, "I wadna hae cared if he had whustled it."—Exchange.

One Good Turn Deserves Another.

Fellow Passenger—Pardon me, your necktie has been sticking out for some time. I refrained from telling you sooner because those young ladies seemed so much amused.

Farmer—Thankee; an the oil from that lamp has been droppin on that light overcoat o' yourn for the last ten minutes, but every one seemed so tickled that I hated to spoil the fun.—London Tit-Bits.

An Embarrassing Delay.

"I—er—I didn't bring the ring to-night," he said in an embarrassed tone.

"Why, Henry! Why not?" she asked in a severe tone, and with a reproachful look.

"Well—er—the fact is—er—the other—the other girl who—er—who had it hasn't—er—hasn't sent it back yet."—Harper's Bazar.

Waterproof.

Toto stands in ecstatic contemplation in front of an india rubber warehouse.

"Mamma, say, what's that?"

"That is a diver's costume."

"Oh, do buy me one, mammy dear!"

"What for?"

"For when you wash me?"—Exchange.

PAPA WAS THERE.

And When Reginald Came He Was Received with Open Arms.

Mr. Daniel Charters is one of the best farmers in Essex. He is a good father, and since a recent episode he has been recognized as a clever amateur detective. For some reason or other his fair young daughter favored the attentions of a young man, and she chose to keep the fact a secret.

Her papa, in his quiet way, allowed the usual amount of haywood to remain in his hair while he got all the facts in the case of his daughter's secret love affair. Then he kept a secret eye on her, and thus discovered that they were to elope on a certain night.

Accordingly, as darkness came on, he took a seat at the window just under that of his daughter's room. She had been particularly lively that day, and so had her father. She laughed and joked with him a good deal, and he in turn laughed and joked with her.

The shades of evening came and the moonbeams fell athwart the potato patch. Afar in the woods the owl hooted and across the sky some dark clouds scooted. Up the lane came Reginald Vane, and he paused at midnight beneath the window of his rural sweetheart.

The old man reclined on the floor near the window under which the eloper was crouching. While in the state of crouch the young man was seized with fear and a horny hand, which shut off his breath. Then the gallant floated in at the window head first, accompanied by a few moths and a hand firmly attached to the upper story back of his trousers.

The farmer then gave the young man into the charge of his son and got outside the window. He had just got outside, and crouched well down, when he heard his daughter's window gently open. Then he heard her say:

"Reginald, dear, is that you?"

"Yes, darling, Reggie is here. Hasten before the old man wakes and catches us," replied her papa, in a hoarse whisper.

"Well, here, catch this," said the daughter, casting out a bag.

"All right," said her papa, catching it.

"Now what shall I do?"

"Just hang by your arm and drop. It won't hurt you, dear."

"Yes, I will. But you must look the other way."

"All right, I will."

She dropped into her father's arms, screamed and then they went into the house. The father asked for an introduction to the prisoner, and then fixed him so firmly in a rain barrel full of water that he remained there the rest of the night and a portion of the next day. Neighbors were brought over to look at him while he was on exhibition in the rain barrel, and at noon a photographer appeared and took his photograph. The eloper was then released and allowed to leave the farm in peace.

The daughter is still on the farm making cheese.—Yankee Blade.

A Mistake Somewhere.

"Miss Gracie," he said, with an engaging smile, "did you ever try your hand at one of these progressive conundrums?"

"What is a progressive conundrum, Mr. Spoonamore?" inquired the young lady.

"Haven't you heard of them? Here is one: Why is a ball of yarn like the letter 't?' Because a ball of yarn is circular, a circular is a sheet, a sheet is flat, a flat is forty-five dollars a month, forty-five dollars a month is dear, a deer is swift, a swift is a swallow, a swallow is a taste, a taste is an inclination, an inclination is an angle, an angle is a point, a point is an object aimed at, an object aimed at is a target, a target is a mark, a mark is an impression, an impression is a stamp, a stamp is a thing stuck on, a thing stuck on is a young man in love, and a young man in love is like the letter 't' because he stands before 'it,' Miss Gracie."

"I don't think you have the answer quite right," said the young lady. "A ball of yarn is round, a round is a steak; a stake is a wooden thing, a wooden thing is a young man in love, and a young man in love is like the letter 't' because, Mr. Spoonamore"—and she spoke clearly and distinctly—"because he is often crossed."

The young man understood. He took his hat and his progressive conundrums and vanished from Miss Gracie Garlinghouse's alphabet forever.—Chicago Tribune.

We offer ladies' fast black hose, two pair for 25c, worth 40c; boys' heavy ribbed black hose, perfectly stainless, double knees and heels. See them. Children's hose in three qualities, warranted fast black and very cheap. Any parasol we have in stock at cost price. We are bound not to carry any over to next year. Prints, sateens, challies, all reduced, a 50c challie for 20c less than half price. We will give the biggest bargains ever seen anywhere in dress goods, and we have good value even at the old prices. Remember you can buy dry-goods at less than bankrupt prices at R. McFaul's clearing sale.

Reassured.

Lady (whose young niece is about to go for a sail with some members of a rowing club)—I should like to go with you, only I am so afraid of drowning. Are the gentlemen good swimmers?

Gentlemen (in chorus)—Oh, no; we can't swim at all!

Lady—Then I think I'll go with you, for in that case you are sure to be careful.—Plaudereke.

NEW DISCOVERY by ACCIDENT

In compounding a solution a part was accidently spilled on the hand and on washing afterward it was discovered that the hair was completely removed. We at once put this wonderful preparation on the market and so great has been the demand that we are now introducing it throughout the world under the name of Queen's Anti-Hairine.

IT IS PERFECTLY HARMLESS AND SO SIMPLE ANY CHILD CAN USE IT.

Lay the hair over and apply the mixture for a few minutes, and the hair disappears as if by magic without the slightest pain or injury when applied or ever afterward. It is unlike any other preparation ever used for a like purpose. Thousands of LADIES who have been annoyed with hair on their FACE, NECK and ARMS adopt its use. GENTLEMEN who do not appreciate a beard or hair on their neck, find a priceless boon in Queen's Anti-Hairine which does away with shaving, by rendering its future growth an utter impossibility, sealed from observation. Send money or stamps by letter with full address written plainly. Correspondence strictly confidential. This advertisement is honest and straight forward in every word it contains. We invite you to deal with us and you will find everything as represented. Try this out and send to-day. Address QUEEN CHEMICAL CO., 174 Race Street, CINCINNATI, O. You can register your letter at the Post Office to insure its safe delivery. We will pay $500 for any case of failure or slightest injury to any purchaser. Every bottle guaranteed.

SPECIAL—To ladies who introduce and sell among their friends 25 Bottles of Queen's Anti-Hairine, we will present with a SILK DRESS, 12 yards best silk. Extra Large Bottle and samples of silk to select from sent with order. Good Salary or Commission to Agents.

We have tried Queen's Anti-Hairine, and find it does all the above company claim for it.—EDITOR.
