I know a young pair who are wedded and true—
For it sometimes happens that way;
Who wrestle each day with the wolf at the door—
For it sometimes happens that way.

But I'm sure that they quarrel, and I've heard that they fight—
Well, it sometimes happens that way.

There once was a maid with a mother-in-law—
For it sometimes happens that way—
Whom he daily subdued with a vigorous jaw—
For it sometimes happens that way.
Though we all know she should have been savage and grim,
And a gigantic terror who tyrannized him,
Yet she really was docile and lacking in vim—
For it sometimes happens that way.

There once was a man who went to a "show"—
For it sometimes happens that way—
Though he was baldheaded he took the back row—
For it sometimes happens that way.
And he didn't sneak home in fear of his life,
Nor, when asked where he'd been, tell lies to his wife;
In his actions she saw no occasion for strife—
For it sometimes happens that way.

The Conservatives' View Of It.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—No one should suppose that because Sir W. Harcourt has been ostensibly busy with the reception of the "old gang" and the new radicals he has, therefore, been the only one of the liberal Hautenant who has been doing the necessary work of sorting the more extravagant crotcheteers from among the miscellaneous crew whom Mr. Gladstone has to conciliate. Mr. Morley has been equally, if more quietly, active. His particular rule has been the conciliation of the anti-Parnellites and the attempted siege of the Parnellite determination not to compromise. In the latter it is needless to say he has quite failed. In the former task has been singularly delicate. It is admitted that some thirty of Mr. Healy's henchmen are necessarily more concerned about board and lodging than about the immediate issue of home rule. It may well be imagined that Mr. Morley has had need of such diplomacy as hepossesses. What his success has been the public will learn at the beginning of the session.

TELLING OF THE VOYAGE

THE COLUMBIAN RUNNING FROM NEW YORK TO CANADA.

An Interesting Time Meeting Porpoises, Icebergs, Storms, etc.—Calling at St. Johns, Nfld.—Our Informant Telling of the Sights There—A Heavy Storm.

In conversation with a Kingstonian who took in the trip, a reporter learned the details of the Columbian's voyage from New York to Montreal, via Newfoundland. The cruise proved a most eventful one, and those on board will not soon forget the experience along the coast. The steamer left New York harbor Friday morning, July 15th, at one o'clock, with Capt. O'Brien, New York, pilot of Hell-gate fame; Capt. Burnier, Quebec, and Capt. Batten, of Kingston, official mariners. Capt. O'Brien sustained his reputation as a first-class pilot on the trip. Hell-gate and Long Island Sound were passed without having met with bad weather, but towards evening when a soft breeze was blowing a dense fog sprung up and the vessel was obliged to cast anchor in Vineyard Sound, the place where Vanderbilt's steamyacht went down in a storm a few days ago. About eight hours delay was occasioned here and after a few hours pleasant sailing the Bay of Fundy was reached. Rough weather was encounter here but still the crew considered themselves very lucky as before leaving New York it had been said that the worst of the sea was to be met in the bay. The north Atlantic ocean was entered Sunday afternoon and the steamer was laboring in a heavy sea about midnight, when a large coasting tug with a tow loomed in sight. The tug showed her red light in approaching and the Columbian accordingly did the same. The tug, however, as she drew nearer righted her helm and showed her green light. Capt. Bernier, who was on watch at the time saw it was too late to change his course and threw his wheel hard-aport. Seeing this the tug resumed her former course with the result that a collision was barely averted. Cow Bay was reached at eight o'clock Monday morning and those on board were given the privilege of viewing the celebrated Archibald coal mines which have an output of 100,000 tons a season. At this port the settlers, who are mostly Scotch, will not load a vessel on Sunday. If a steamship runs short of fuel in that neighborhood she is obliged to lay there until Monday morning. Glace mine was also viewed and Cow Point lighthouse, the entrance to Sydney harbor, was reached a few hours later. A peculiarity of this harbor, and a novelty to visitors, is the existence of the world-famed Sydney coal mines which extend beneath the bed of the sea almost across the channels. Sydney was left behind at twelve o'clock that night and for the next few days the four Kingstonians enjoyed the sight of a crew suffering from sea-sickness. The cooks and mess room hands, especially were much "the worse of wear," which left the others to "fish for themselves." Tuesday morning a school of porpoises were met. At 6:30 o'clock the noted St. Pierre Islands showed ahead and it was then a very ludicrous spectacle was presented on board ship. The cooks and waiters rushed on deck and sang joyous melodies at the sight of land. They fairly went crazy to think that "Europe" had been passed. Between St. Pierre and Newfoundland, in the narrows, large number of whales and several icebergs were encountered. Everybody was out on deck at this time. The Columbian sailed into Newfoundland with the stars and stripes floating in the breeze. Upon the steamship's approach a gun was fired and the flag dipped thrice. St. John's was reached at two o'clock Wednesday, 1,128 miles having been covered. During the twenty-eight hours spent there sights were met which will not soon be forgotten. The city, one-third in ruins, had the appearance of a vast cemetery with chimneys as tombstones. A description of the disaster is beyond the power of pen. Thousands could be seen wandering around, while tents and huts were the only abodes. The city was in charge of jack tars who patrolled the place with fixed bayonets to protect the unfortunate inhabitants, who were fearful of pillagers and low mobs ready to steal whatever they could lay their hands on. All liquor stores and saloons were ordered closed to put the mobs under control. A relief committee of which James Howe, a retired merchant well known in this section, was a prominent member, were busy looking after the wants of the distressed. The destitution of each family was inquired into and a supply apportioned accordingly. A peculiar feature, which seemed to please the Salvation army, was that in the midst of the ruins stood their little frame meeting house untouched by the fiery elements. They looked upon this as an act of Providence. The Roman Catholic cathedral, one of the oldest churches on the continent, was also saved. It is said that in olden times when there was strife between Protestants and Roman Catholics of that place the British men-of-war had only to point their guns at this cathedral and the riot would instantly subside. The committee expressed themselves as greatly pleased by the spontaneous efforts extended from Canada. The St. John's government furnishes 2,000 feet of lumber and other necessary material to erect huts for those unfortunates who have property to build on. The WHIG's informant says that the annexation sentiment is very strong in Newfoundland, a great deal more so than the question of confederation was. The feeling in St. John's seems to be that the middle classes are the greatest sufferers from the fire, as the poorer inhabitants were so destitute as to have nothing to lose. The huts are being erected in the park while the tents are pitched on Quidi Vidi lake, headquarters for yachting and a regular pleasure resort. For mountainous scenery Newfoundland beats the world.

The Columbian measured and registered and converted from a United States bottom to a Newfoundlander. The steamer left St. John's at six o'clock, Thursday night, the harbor commissioners and Lloyd surveyors accompanying the boat as far as the narrows where the wine was broken. They returned by steam launch. Several large icebergs and whales were again seen. A very heavy sea was met, and after a couple of hours run it was found necessary to run into Bull's Bay for shelter. The steamer laid there until three o'clock the following morning. Fair weather was then enjoyed until after leaving St. Pierre islands, when a storm came up and the worst weather met was then endured. From Friday night till Saturday afternoon land was lost to view. Capt. Bernier said this was his one hundred and twenty-eighth trip out of Newfoundland, and he had never seen the weather so rough. The Columbian was the lightest-draught steamer to enter Newfoundland. Capt. Batten took charge of the vessel when the sea was at its heaviest, and to him, perhaps, is due the safe arrival of the Columbian in Quebec. With the exception of the gangways being crushed in and the coal washed around the decks no other damage was sustained. After weathering the storm the staunch little craft reached Cape Ray. At Green Island, in the St. Lawrence river, a heavy fog was struck, occasioning a delay of several hours. Quebec was reached Tuesday morning, where the ship was scrubbed thoroughly, and left there Thursday night with the directors and guests on board. Fireworks were let off along the river and Montreal was reached the following morning, where numerous salutes greeted the Columbian and her crew.

Pipe Smokers.

You may be satisfied with the brands of tobaccos you have been using for years. Grant it that you are satisfied. As there is always room for improvement, we ask you to try our OLD CHUM PLUG, or CUT smoking tobacco; we believe you will be BETTER satisfied. In any case, a trial won't hurt you. Don't delay upon the order of buying, but buy at once.

The Sons of England will hold a monster picnic at Tremont Park on August 8th. Lodges from Kingston, Brockville and Smith's Falls will be present.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Will Try For It Again.

It is now understood that the present incumbent of the mayor's chair will seek a second term. The press will, of course, be excluded from any election committee meetings.

The Route Almost Caused a Riot.

Yesterday two leaders in the dispute about the navigation of the Canadian channel had a hot argument, and at one time it looked as if a fight would ensue. One of the spectators threw his hat on the boardwalk, saying the hat was all the other would strike. He would not strike anything alive. Friends parted the men.

A Baseball Contest.

A baseball match occurred yesterday afternoon on Barriefield common. The employees of No. 3 elevator played against those of No. 1. The latter made forty-eight runs in four innings and the No. 2 men made only eight runs in four innings. The battery for No. 1 were L. Disk and A. Walter; for No. 2, W. Cockade and F. Ewart.

A Grievance Redressed.

The medical practitioners' grievance has been removed by the passage of an order-in-council, appointing every duly qualified medical practitioner, whose name is registered on the medical register of the province, in which he resides, an authorized medical practitioner for the purpose of issuing certificates as required by the civil service act. Dr. Sullivan, of this city, hitherto had the sole local appointment.

A Woman's Branch.

A meeting of Catholic ladies occurred in St. Patrick's hall, last night, to organize a woman's branch of the I.C.B.U., Rev. Fr. Kelly presided and Ald. Behan was secretary. The benefits of the society were fully explained and in a few minutes over fifty names were enrolled. The officers elect are: President, Mrs. T. Ronan; vice-president, Miss Eggleton; financial secretary, Miss Gallagher; secretary, Miss Ronan; treasurer, Miss Behan.

Use the Press Freely.

A. F. Barker, of Clayton, president of the Thousand Island steamboat company, was in the city yesterday. He said the best means by which to enlighten people how they should vote is through the medium of the press. Instead of having public meetings in election times it is better to form clubs, raise money for newspapers and send them to the voters free. More could be done to enlighten people on public questions in this way than by any other way.

What Is Up Now?

The city solicitor says that it was not necessary for Ald. Wilson to have come to the city yesterday to settle the difficulty in connection with the leasing of market No. 2. It became at the request of Ald. Oberandorffer he should pay Wilson's expenses. Speedy action had to be taken on the toll matter, because a policeman had to be kept at the market in question continually. In leaving the reporter the city solicitor said: "There is a 'nigger' in the fence somewhere, but I cannot give you particulars for publication."

Picture of the Wreck.

The engines which were in the collision on the Kingston, Napanee & Western railway cannot be repaired. They are only good for scrap iron. We have been shown a picture of the wreck. The light engine was thrown back until it rested upon the cab at an angle of forty-five degrees. The engine of the regular train ran up the special until its drive wheels were completely off the track. The cab was jammed in against the freight car next to it, and in this crush engineer Christie was killed.

Convicted And Fined.

Mortimer Meeks, Bellrock, writes that George Summers, blacksmith, Mountain Grove, was convicted, on Friday last, before Jesse Stribley, J.P., of Sharbot Lake, for a violation of the game law and fined $5 and costs. The costs were $16.50. He was charged with buying minks, offered them for sale and confined them in a cage until they died. Mr. Meeks noted the letter of "Ossa" in last week's issue and adds: "This is the respected villager referred to by 'Ossa,' and I am the deputy game warden who did not know a mink from a weasel."

Prof. Knight in Europe.

Prof. A. P. Knight, since leaving Kingston, has spent some time in Clark university, then studied for three weeks under Prof. McKendrick in Glasgow university, and is now at St. Andrew's with Prof. McIntosh, the great British authority on "Worms." Comparing these places and Wood's Holl, where he spent all last summer, he writes: "The facilities for doing work at Clark and at Wood's Holl in general biology far surpass anything I have ever seen elsewhere, in physiology, Glasgow ranks first. At St. Andrew's, the marine laboratory, belonging to the Scotch fishery board, is open every day, and I am utilizing every minute. Prof. McIntosh is a kindness itself. I shall go from here to Edinburgh."

Life Is Not All Sunshine.

If Lieut.-Gov. Kirkpatrick looks anything like the Toronto World presents him the citizens of Kingston, who have generally admired the gallant colonel, should indignantly rise and insist on his coming back from life among savages. Our chingle block artist is away from home, hence we cannot reproduce the picture save in verbal description. In the first place G. A. has lost an ear; and he don't seem to have even a patch of plaster over it. His hair is thin and his moustache drooping and sparse. His eyes are weak and suffering from sleeplessness. His nose looks like as if it had been jammed severely against the gate post of government house. The general appearance is one of gonseneq; it would more fittingly represent one of the early governors, risen from the tomb, than our beloved, genial and esteemed fellow-citizen.

Ice Cream and Temperance.

The members of St. Lawrence division, No. 2, Sons of Temperance, spent a happy time in their hall, last evening. About sixty members were present. After the initiation ceremony and the usual routine business was concluded, the members were treated to a bountiful supply of ice cream by a leading man. The evening being warm his hospitality was appreciated. Readings and recitations were then given by several of the members. Rev. Dr. Griffith, an active worker in the division, made a stirring address complimenting the younger members on their uniting for work in the cause of temperance and pointing out to them what the work of their lives should be and the pleasure they would enjoy in doing their duty. He made pleasing reference to the late vote on the temperance question in the north-west province.
