Drains

THE HEALTH of cities and towns enters so largely into the prospect of their future advancement, that sound policy dictates the adoption of any means likely to improve the general healths or remove evils that are known to exist.

Medical men and sanitary engineers are unanimous in tracing the source of epidemics of contagious diseases to the door of imperfect drainage, and the vast amount of money already spent and now being expended in the great cities of Europe and America in perfecting the sewerage systems is proof of the importance attached to this subject by the greatest engineers of the world.

In London, Eng., between 1855 and 1860, $20,000,000 was spent in drainage—the result being that the death-rate was reduced from 55 to the 1,000 to 23 to 1,000. This reduction of mortality was affected among the same occupants without any change in their habits.

It is all important that our Drainage system should improve with the City's growth. Not only must special attention be given to the proper position and arrangement of sewers, but the quality of material used in their construction is also of vital importance. The vitrified Salt Glazed Drain Pipes made by the Standard Drain Pipe Co. are without doubt, the best made in Canada and if we are to judge from the tests by prominent engineers, they are superior in quality and appearance to any imported pipes. We always keep on hand a full stock of Standard Pipes and Fittings and are prepared to give advice as to the construction of Drains and all Sanitary Fixtures. Get our prices.

I cannot praise your Pimple Pills enough for what they have done for me. My face was covered with Pimples and I was ashamed to go out, besides they were very sore. My sister, Mrs. Fish advised me to try your Pills, and after using one bottle I was a great deal better and the second bottle has cured me. My face is just as smooth as it ever was. THE ARIZONA KICKER.

The Editor Announces His Determination About the Postmaster.

IT MUST COME.—We shall have to shoot the Postmaster of this town, and we shall have to shoot him stone dead. We have sought to dodge the issue in every possible way, but it will not be dodged. Two years ago, when he was appointed, we stated that he was totetally unfit for the position, and ought to refuse it. It wasn't three months before we had to shoot him in the shoulder in the interests of our subscribers. Four months later we felt it our duty to shoot him again to expedite the mail service. Ninety days since we got the drop on him again, and but for his promises of reform we should have created a vacancy in the postal service. Saturday last we received a score of complaints from subscribers regarding the non-arrival of their papers. The package for Lone Tree had not reached that office at all. Clinch Valley was sixteen papers short. Of eighteen papers sent to Turkey Bend only eight went through. We called at the Post Office to make our statement and asked for an explanation, but the Postmaster refused to see us. He sent out word that he was running that shebang, and if we didn't like his style we could move on to the next town. He also added that if we came prancing around again he should open on us through the general delivery window with two six-shooters.

Saturday evening we called a meeting at the Kicker office, which was attended by twenty-two of our most prominent citizens. We made our statement of the case, and, after considerable discussion, this resolution was presented by Judge Baxter and unanimously adopted:

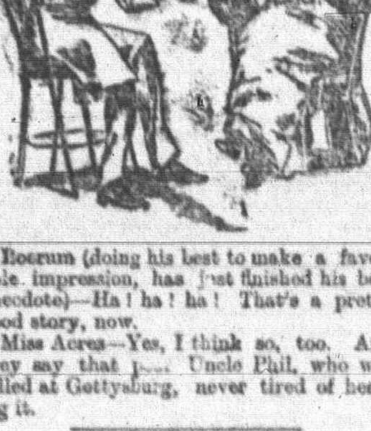
Resolved, That it is the duty of the editor of the Kicker, as a man, a citizen, and an editor, to shoot the Postmaster on sight.

We do not wish to rush affairs of this kind. Sunday afternoon we sent a copy of the resolution to the Postmaster and asked him to get his official affairs in shape as soon as possible, and Monday morning we telegraphed Mr. Wanamaker that there would probably be a vacancy to fill before the week was ended. We owe a solemn duty to our subscribers and we shall not shirk it. When a person subscribes for the Kicker we guarantee to get it to him regularly every week, even if we have to clean out two or three Post Offices to do it. Should the Postmaster call at this office and make reasonable excuses and promise better things for the future we should probably be inclined to leniency, but if he doesn't show up within a day or two there will either be a new editor of this paper or a new Postmaster in the shanty on Apache avenue.

AS A SOUVENIR.—From and after Sept. 1 each subscriber to the Kicker will receive as a souvenir a beautiful lithograph, 8 by 12 in size, of our private graveyard by moonlight. There are ten graves in all, five on each side of the main walk. The whole lot is a beautiful grass plot, with trees, shrubs and flowers in profusion, and a white picket fence surrounding the lot. The total cost up to date has been about $1,000, but tourists who have travelled in every country declare that they have seen nothing to begin with it. We believe there is an editor somewhere in Idaho who has a private graveyard with three graves in it, but we have been told that he killed his victims with a pickaxe while they were drunk.

The lithograph represents a full moon shining down upon our p. g. and bringing out every detail as clearly as if seen under the noonday sun. A sort of halo is thrown upon each grave, and the trailing arbutus and blossoming violets produce a softness of detail which goes right to the heart of the beholder.

His New Story.



Bocrum (doing his best to make a favorable impression, has just finished his best anecdote)—Ha! ha! ha! That's a pretty good story, now.

Miss Acres—Yes, I think so, too. And they say that poor Uncle Phil, who was killed at Gettysburg, never tired of hearing it.

Gladstone as a Joker.

To be able to make a joke well is a delightful gift; to be able to take one well is hardly less desirable. Mr. Harry Furniss, the distinguished comic artist of the London Punch, recently a visitor to the United States, relates a little incident which shows that Mr. Gladstone can do both, says the Youth's Companion.

The "Grand Old Man," it is well known, has a rather long neck, and habitually wears a collar of the kind which has been given his name—a collar snowy, immaculate, extensive and characteristic.

Mr. Furniss, in his innumerable clever caricatures of the great statesmen with which he has enlivened the pages of Punch, has never failed to make the most of this article of apparel, widening the band, accentuating the points and experimenting with all the ridiculous effects of which he is capable.

Sometimes he sketches a collar of such vast proportions that the merest glimpse of the head within it is visible, yet manages so artistically that that glimpse—be it an eye and the bridge of a nose, an ear and an eyebrow, or only an outline of the top of the head—is yet unmistakably Gladstonian.

It has been the custom for the most regular and frequent contributors to Punch to meet at a weekly dinner with the editor, there to communicate their ideas to one another, criticise, suggest, and arrange in the most sociable and pleasant manner a rough plan of the next number to be prepared.

At one of these little dinners not long ago Mr. Gladstone was an honored guest, and there was some previous speculation as to how he and Mr. Furniss would enjoy the meeting.

Mr. Gladstone proved equal to the occasion. He came, and hardly was he seated at the table when the company became aware of a change in his familiar personality. A second look revealed its nature. Mr. Furniss started; somebody tittered. There was a smile, a ripple and then a roar of laughter.

Mr. Gladstone had on the smallest, slenderest, and most inconspicuous of narrow, turn-down collars, assumed for that occasion only, and was quietly enjoying the artist's discomfiture.

Mr. Furniss soon recovered himself and appreciated the joke as much as any one else, but it is probable that Mr. Gladstone, in Punch, at least, will not again make a change in the fashion of his collars.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package—enough for five weeks.
