The mastiffs llford, Cantion and Champion Minting are further examples, all dying when they should have been in their prime. With these and similar examples before them American breeders are having their eyes opened, and so far this year very few in fact hardly any-famous dogs have been imported, although several crack from kennels in England have been advertised for sale, notably that of Mr. A. H. Gosting's famous St. Bernard-kennel. not one dog from which has been purchased to come to America. And now the noted kennel of Mr. Thomas Shillcock, of Birmingham, is on the market, comprising such noted dogs as Sir Hereward, winner of numerous prizes; Donnybrook Fair, Marvel, Lord Leigh, Lord Rosebery, Duke of Armadale and numerous others. This kennel has been advertised in the American sporting papers, but no offer having been made Mr. Shillcock is going out of the busi-

It was the high prices paid by Americans that first boomed the English dog England. Americans now prefer to patronize the home-bred stock, which is the equal of foreign bred, and further, is acclimatized and not bolstered.-Chicago Inter-Ocean.
