Stole Sides Of Leather. Recently Mr. Carrington discovered that twenty sides of leather had been stolen from his tannery. The police have got the matter in hand and have a cluelto the thief. It seems that the thief who carried away hides from Carrington's tannery has been doing his work in a systematic way. The thieving has been going on since the spring. The stolen leather was all sold, not to people in the city, but to persons living outside Mr. Carrington does not know how many hides he has lost. A Lively Episode On Tuesday afternoon a young barber rode to Cataragui on a bioycle. He whyeled on the boardwalk part of the way, and in going down McMichael's hill one of his feet got fast between the wheel and the paddle, and the result was that he fell over into a dicob, head first. He could not yet free of the wheel and could not help himself. Men but had great difficulty in getting his foot away from the wheek. The boot had to be young man was not injured.

WANTS MORE POWER

Discussing Affairs In Which The County Conneil Pays The Costs. Quite a lively discussion occurred in the Angio-American hotel last night, Reave Campbell, of Hinchinbrook, and a conductor got into a debate, first over the value of the county council. The conductor claimed the RO W (Thursday) EVEN. council was a needless expenditure on the ING at 8 o'clock Every community, and that the county could be community, and that the county could be governed more expeditiously and a at great deal less expense by only having township councils. Mr. Campbell contended that this sould not be done, and also remonstrated that the council should have the appointment of the officials when it had to pay their

The conductor argued that politics were brought into the county council proceedings the same as every other governmental body. Mr. Campbell said that politics never entered his head when considering any question, and quoted for an example the appointment of Mr. Avery, a grit, (?) to the wardenship by a tory council. Again Mr. Shepherd, caretaker at the court house, was a liberal, as was also the surveyor of county roads and Mr. Vanluven, county treasurer. Mr. Campbell said he was a life-long tory and had never cast a grit vote in his life, either one half acre of white carro's, for the dominion or local house. Nevertheless he was not one of those men who believed that, when elected by the tories, a man should go to parliament and vote a straight party vote in all matters. When going to parliament last time Mr. Kirkpatrick had only one tie, that of supporting the N.P. Outside of this he was his own boss, so to speak. Mr. Campbell claimed that the county council was not given enough power. If it had more to say things would not be

Ryan, towed by the Nashua, is at Port Huron. The propeller dropped the barge because of disabled machinery. Soon the Nashua ran up a flag of distress, and the steambarge Gratwick went to the rescue. The captain searched for four hours for the missing steamer, but could find nothing of her or the crew. The Nashua was commanded by Capt. Richard Miller, and was owned by the Sturtevant lumber company, of Cleveland, and valued at $15,000. Capt. Miller is well known by Capt J Donnelly, jr., and comes from Uspe Vincent. He has sailed the Nashua for the past three years. There are few mariners in this port who are not acquainted with him. He was very popular, and it is hoped the Nashua may yet be safe. Speaking of large boats Capt. Bates, of the schr. B. W. Folger, says that the prop. Algorquin is a very small craft compared with some of the vessels on the upper lakes. He says the prop. Onoka, plying between Cleveland and Escanaba has a capacity for 3 500 of iron ore. The vessel could carry more but this is impossible as there is only sixteen feet of water at the Lime kiln crossing near Amherstburg. Capt. Bates was mate on the prop. J. R HEWSON HOME AFTER THREE DAYS' ABSENCE

A Strange Haliucination-He Made a Long aramp in Canada While Mentally Derang d- Story of His Wanderings-Out Off Bis Whiskers.

Detroit News. As mentioned J. R. Hewson, the Ernesttown, Out., man who mysteriously disappeared from home, on Thursday last, has returned. He is now confined to his room at the corner of Grand River and Fourteenth avenues, and none but his most intimate friends are allowed to see him. He appears te have suffered from some temporary hal-luionation. Mr. Howson is the proprietor of a little confectionery store and news depot, where everything from a dime novel to a hair pin can be bought. He is, of course, too ill to attend to business, and his wife is in charge. This morning the little store was a very hive of industry, thronged as it was with achoolchildren. Mrs Hewson, smid intersuptinas, A circular has been issued announcing the related the story of her husband's disap-

"There is no truth," she said, "in the report that Mr. Hewson quarreled with his landlord, for they are good friends. In fact, such little difficulties as there may have been were between me and Mr. Conley, but they didn't amount to a great deal. I don't think they explained my husband's dir-

He said he could not do so, as he was in a great burry, so he continued to trudge along, to telephone home, and was informed that the nearest office was in Chatham, ten miles away. He succeeded in getting word to Bis friends. He then took the train for home, of the interior in the state of Michigan, but instead of crossing the river via the care telegraphs that ten Michigan farmers, with he got off and took the ferry. His wife says he never touches intoxidating liquors of any kind. When he walked along Grand River avenue, Saturday night, on his way home, he met his old friend, the patrolman of that district, who did not recognize him. This is not strange for Mr. Howson's good looks had been sadly marred at once. The correspondent will incur un. > FRANKFORT, Ky., Oor. 6 .- There was a rare scene in the court of appeals chamber yesterday. It was the swearing in of a woman lawyer, Mrs. Fiors V. Woodwardlibbetts, of Chicago, with a career remarkable in some particulars. She was born and reared in Paducah. Leaving there to study stenography at St. Louis she was; soon, a teacher in the institution at which she was a pupil and, later, became private eccretary to general superintendent Tibbatts, of the Watern railway. She married him and they removed to Chicago, where he took charge of another railway system. Her every desire and ambition were gratified by her husband and when also expressed a desire to study law he sent her to take the course at Ann Arbor, Mich , where she dis ing off the honors when she graduated a few years ago. Since then she has been one of the most successful praceltioners in Chicago. She is now going home from the east and stopped in Kentucky to visit her friends. She has no practice in the Kentucky court of appeals but some of her friends persuaded her to stop over with the promise that they would get the governor to make the motion.
