TALKING OF MIRACLES.

THE FARE NEITHER IMPOSSIBLE OR INCREDIBLE,

Large Audience to Hear Dr. Sexton Last Night-Miracles an Ercential-Part of Christianity and Cannot be Hemoved-Are the Witnesses Competent who Tell of Miracles.

Lost evening the Rev. Dr. Sexton lectured a Brook streat Mothodist church. His subact was "Miracles Neither Impossible nor soredible." There was sgain a very large andience to listen to the distinguished speak - afternoon and might have been drowned had or. The chair was taken by the Rev. D. C.

sanderson, pastor of the church. The doctor commenced by stating that christianity must stand or fall by its miravies. So-called thinkers had eliminated the supernatural element from the new testaculous element was an essential part of it and leading druggiets, could not be removed without destroying the entire scheme, Even Channing, Unitarian as he was, admitted this. The line usually taken by those who deny the possibility of miracies was one which displayed an utter lack of the knowledge of logical Toys. Dods, Cars, Horses, riss, stoves, Engines, tups. Saucers. Vases, Blocks, Cubrs, Gamos, Fancy seois, Blush Gods. Abums, Wok Boxes and the shousand odd things to be found in assertion that modern scientific observation proof and of the process of sound reasoning. assertion that modern scientific observation had demonstrated the uniformity of nature, and that consequently as mirroles were breakers of that uniformity, they must be impossible. This argument was based upon two propositions, and its demerit lay in the onstrated. Professor Bain, himself a Free-thinker, had said : "Observation can prove that what has been, has been, but it cannot prove that what has been will be.' Hustey, too, dealing with this very qu. stion of miracles had said, "I am unaware of any. thing that has a right to the title of an impossibility, except a contradiction in terms." Secondly, it was not true that mirscles were in the scientific sense of the phrase breaches of the uniformity of nature. All that the of defendant. uniformity of pature implied was that, whenever and wherever the same circumstances return the same results will also reture, but with other circumstances there will be other results. This was held by the most ardent christian as firmly as by in the St. John's church, Bath. As ordered in support of his position. The position of interesting. Spincza was that miracles were impossible for the reason that there was no transcendental beginning. But modern'science had demonstrated that there was for this fact had been abundantly shown in the dissipation of energy. Outside of mathematics the term impossible could not be justified.

Nor were miracles incredidle despite the dictum of Hume, indeed Hume's argument, although it had done duty with sceptics for so long a period was a most fallacious one. Miraoles it affi med were contrary to ex. now. perience, whilst lying was not, and hence it was more reasonable to believe that a man who declared that he had seen miracle was testifying falsely than that a miracle occurred. Upon principle everything might be disputed which had not fallen within our own actual and individual experience. Ten thousand ed because they were contrary to our in | deceased sister. dividual experience. The lecturer gave numerous illustrations of this. The whole thing resolved itself into a question of testimony. We had no experience of the past whether miraculous or not and could have

be conclusive or not, that was a matter for | ders by the R. T. of T., which event was a the individual judgment. Even John Stuart Mill, sceptio as he was, had said that no a priori argument against miracles could be found. The lecturer then referred to twenry-five members on account of the W. Cunningham, of the telephone office, some scripture miracles which were said to | meetings. be impossible because of the character of the miracles themselves. These were mainly the universality of the deluge, and Joshua's command for the sun to stand still. These were explained at some langth,

At the close of the lecture so many ques tions were handed in that it took the doctor a full hour to answer them.

A VERY FINE BALL

The Employees of the Kingston & Pembroke Railway at Play.

The K. & P. ball in the city hall, last night, probably eclipsed asything given by the association in some years. The occasion was the fifteenth annual event, the origin of which was begun in 1878 by W. Coon, at that time paymaster on the road. For the first five years Ms. Coon supervised arrangements, when upon accepting a position as conductor on the C. P.R., the present master ceremonies, Napoleon Parent, became connected with the company in the same capacity, and since then has ably filled the role of secretary treasurer. A good patron age was anticipated this year, and the society, for the affair was under the auspices of the mutual aid association, made a spedal effort to revive the popular feeling of former years, and apparently the intentions of the young men were met. The capacious hall, elegantly decorated with Jrapery and bunting, certainly had the appearance of a fashionable ball room.

There were at least 100 couples on the floor and the mezy intricacles of the merry dancers as they whirled round the place was a spectacle well worth witnessing. The contumes of the ladies in general were handsome and in some cases elaborate, probably GOOD SELECTION OF the most costly and attractive being the oream satin with long train and slippers to match, worn by Mrs. Hetch, Parham, late of Montreal. This lady was the recognized belle of the ball. There was an especially arge attendance from along the line of the K. & P. R., over sixty couples, thirty couples of whom came from Lavant. The thirty one dances on the programme included quadrilles, wal z and lolanthe, cale lonians, tolan STUDENTS PREPARED FOR DEPART. the and galop, Saratoga lancers, waltz and Jersey, waltz and bon-ton, waltz and polks, waltz and mazarka, waltz and rye, jureny

> By no means the least attractive of the whole affair was to be found in Octario hall. Johnson Brown, of the Stapley house, caterer of the occasion, is complimented on the spread he laid before the dancers. A better arrangement of the tables could not have been made and with searing capacity for eighty couples at a time the commedious apartment had very little spare room left, The bill of fare was complete and the fifteen or twenty waiters attended to business in a way worthy of comment. The repost was partaken of by all during the intermission which occurred at twelve o'clock. The affair concluded at an early hour this morn

Yesterday afternoon the see house con mir ee of Outario diocese met, with a large attendance, and universal interest was manifested as the scheme had reached crisis. The original voluntary assessment of parishes, for $4,000, had but partially succeeded, because the parish or mission attracts sympathics from general diocesan objects; then a canvasser was engaged, but the cost of collection over scattered parishes made this plan too expensive, and then for six months the scheme has rested. Over $3,-000 was contributed, and unless positive steps were taken this might be lost. A general lovalty to the prospect here asserted itself. A BUDGET OF VERY MUCH INTER-EST TO READERS. The Movements of The Clergy And Laymen-They Like Major Mayne - Au notel May Have a New Proprietor-Feared The Child Was in a Trance. WOLFE ISLAND, Nov. 22 -On Sunday the Presbyterian appointments were filled by Messry. Sinclair and Miller, of Queen's college, Kingston. The services of the young men were much appreciated. The latter formerly officiated here and his congregations were pleased to have another epporunity of listening to him. The choir recfered effective services with Mr. Lang as leader and Mrs. Spankie as organist. As no resident clargyman has yet been secured the Sunday services in Trinity church are still conducted by Major Mayne, of Kingston. The major seems to be so satisfactory that the people do not appear willing to subscribe the salary required to procure a permanent rector. Rural dean Carey was over on Monday to administer the rites of baptism to a number of small children. Rev. Mr. Short, of Kingston, is expected to conduct the services in the Methodist church next Sunday. Owing to the shocking state of the roads the special meetings, conducted by Rav. Mr. Roadhouse, at the lower appointment, had to be discontinued. They were attended by good results. Miss Minute Keeys, visiting friends for some time to Chatham, returned home yeaterday. Several young ladies, while out walking one dark night recently, were terribly frightened by an imaginary druaken man. They fied, minus their rubbers, into Bogert; finance, Rev. S. G. Bolton intends retiring from the hotel business next year and will follow farming for a change; this was his former vocation. He will conduct Mrs. Abbott's farm at the Cold Springs. H. Davis, who has been enaged in the fishing industry at Pigeon Isle or a number of years, has gone out of the business and will also follow agricultural pursuits on the Cuff farm next year. He has already moved out and taken possession. John Davis nets a good income from the sheds and stables which he erected for the accemmodation of the farmer's borses on market days. John Watts, carpenter, in the employ of Calvin & Co., Garden Island, is gaining a reputation as a boat builder of no mean ability. In his spare hours during the past season, he built several fine skiff a for parties living near. The stock in the Rathbus Co's yard has been made more com-
