Pain and suffering was, the hold which the doctrine of the resurrection has upon them. The literature of the were customs which have fallen all too soon nto disuse. One of the most cheering and aggestive was that of Eleter greetings when expressions such as "Christ is Risen," and "Christ in Risen, indeed," were exchanged by persons and with an earnest nses betokened by the manner of their delivery. A custom such as this could stand perpetuation, since Easter must always remain a red letter day in church chronology, and the desire of these for upon whom it has hallowing influences should be to mark it by caremonies of the most impressive descrip

SCRIVER'S ELECTION. Lot there be no misunderstanding in regard to the result of the election in Huntingdon. The government met a severe and decided defeat. There can be no doubt of this in view of the tremendous efforts put of forth to capture the constituency. The Witness tells us: "The Indiana of St. Regis did not vote, resisting the importuni ties of Mr. McCormick's canvassers to do so. His majority in Dundee was obtained by the expectation that he would, if elected secure assistance from the dominion treasury to extinguish the Indian title on the lands of that township. The electors of St. Aujoet were influenced by the promises of a new wharf and of a grant to build a great drainage canal from La Guerro to Chateauguay, Would get well at once if it were rubbed and those of Ste. IN MEMORIAM

The Late Issae Clow Portland, was born in 1819 at Kinderhook, near the city of Albany, N.Y. The family emigrated to Canada in 1820, took up land in the township of Portland, which as that time was a wilderness. He was one of a family of thirteen children, only three are now living : Heary Clew, of the township of Portland; Abraham Clow, of the county of Northumberland, and Mrs J. Johnson, of Athol, Prince Edward county. Before many years the children had the minfortune to ose their mother and consequently became scattered. Issae, on arriving at manhood's estate, married a daughter of the late Thos. Signworth and settled on a bush lot about two and a half miles east of the village of Hartington. By industry and the blessing of God they soon had a comfortable home. Prosperity smiled upon him and he was anabled to add acre to acre until he was the owner of 400 acres of land. Their union was blessed by eight children, five sons and three daughters, all of whom are living. In 1879 the family lost their mother and Mr. Clow continued to live on the homestead until the family were all provided for. Early in the winter he complained of distress in his head and had fits of melancholy which rapidvarious offices which would give the city by grew worse. He was over kind and upright in all bis dealings; he loved his bible, reverenced his God and was ever ready to throw the mantle of charity over the faults of others never forgetting his own.

One would imagine that the duties connected with these would be more than enough to fill one man's life. But Dr. Barker has found time to take the greatest interest in the County Medical society, of which he was president for several years. It was largely owing to his exertions that the beautiful home of the society was successfully built in West Forty-third street. Briefly described, the treatment for diseases of the spine which Dr. Sayre invented, and which has made his name famous throughout the medical world, is this: By a system of loops and pulleys the patient is suspended by the armpits and head until the weight of the legs stretches the back to the "point of comfort." To hold the extension thus gained Dr. Sayre applied the plaster of Paris bandage wound round unport the back. As soon as the spine had taken the new shape the operation was repeated, until in the end a cure was made.

His style in operating is most brilliant, and his is unusually suc Dr. Weir is consulting physician of the New York Infirmary, and he has an enor mous private practice. He is a man of wonderfully gentle manner, and he has a look of extreme ability on his clever face. Ranking easily among the great physicians of New York, Dr. Mary A. Putuam-Jacobi is an example of what a woman may do if she has the brains and the persever ance. Dr. Jacobi took her degree in Paris in 1871, and began practice in New York-at dies and treatment, was strong and bold a time when there was far more prejudice enough to take hold of the remedy that had against women as physicians than there raised up in the past thousands from the Mary Putnam worked on until her ability faith is indeed, well worthy of success in and genius forced the County Medical so ciety to admit ber as a member. From this point the work was easy. society. Her triumph was complete. Dr Putnam-Jacobi is a consulting phy sician of the New York Infirmary, and she has a practice which taxes her strength to the utmost. She is the wife of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, and it will interest women to know that she is one of the best housekeepers i New York. She is a profound scientist, clever diagnostician and a most successfu

The list of the prominent physicians the city would not be complete without the name of Dr. T Gaillard Thomas. Dr. Thomas has won fortune and, what is far more to him, fame as a gynecologist. I his specialty be stands among the first three in America, and New Yorkers like t think that in that little group his name leads. Dr. Thomas has such an enormous practice in his own line that he has but lit tle time for general work, and attends none but those who are old friends. The treat ment which Dr. Thomas has originated for some diseases has been followe, by al physicians, and is today considered the
