Pinter consented and appeared there on May 4, placed two sovereigns in a crucible, covered them with the powder and heated furnace. Streeter, however, had become suspicious and when the gold was simmering he gave a signal which brought two Scotland Yard detectives from concealment in the workshop and Pinter was arrested. When arraigned to-day Pinter insisted he could increase the weight of gold and asked if it was just that he should be compelled to divulge his secret in court. Thereupon Streeter called attention to the fact that Pinter, while claiming to increase the weight of gold, refused to make the increase with

CONSIDERABLE OBJECTION. Want of Harmony in the Camp of Logis-OTTAWA, May 12 .- At a conference of Senators and members of Parliament interested in prohibition held in the tower room this morning, the action of the Alliance Committee on Logislation at their meeting last week was endorsed and it was decided to introduce the immediate prohibition resolution agreed upon at the earliest practicable moment. There were some differences of opinion on matters of detail. The meeting was rather stormy at the outset, as the resuit of the announcement made by the chairman, Mr. Jamieson, that he intended to move the resolution adopted by the Alliance Committee, thus shutting off any alteration which this meeting might propose. A number of members opposed to immediate probibition objected to the resoution and held that the present meeting was altogether useless if they were not to be allowed to declars what shape the Paritamentary action should take. Amongst mose strongly objecting were Mesers. Taylor and Trow, the chief whips of the Governmen and Opposition respectively.
