SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Interesting Events in the City and Elsewhere—The Facts Whittled Down.

Yesterday Joseph McConnell tried his J. A. Allen colt on the Midland Central fair association track, and completed a mile in 2:50. The colt is only four years old.

The Watertown Times reported that the Cape Vincent baseball club played the Princess street nine, Kingston, at Simcoe Island. The results was 14 to 16, in favor of the Canadians.

Impromptu sweepstakes were made up yesterday, at Barriefield, and competed for by many of the best shots at the 200 and 500 yard ranges. Cadet Farley took the prize at the former with 22 out of 25 possible points, and Capt. Cochrane headed the list at the last range with 24.

The Frontenac boating club, started under highly favorable auspices, met last evening at the Hotel Frontenac with C. Strange in the chair. C. E. L. Porteous announced the report of the site committee, which had viewed several places along the front, and had informally decided on one of them, but wished for an extension of time for definite terms as to rental, etc. A meeting of all members and patrons will be called at an early date, and to make the scheme solid a joint stock company will probably be formed. A committee was named to secure the attendance of everyone interested in boating in the city.

ON AGAIN TO-NIGHT.

The Presentation of Ben Hur Was Very Entertaining.

The people of Kingston know a good thing when they see it. That's why they crowded the opera house for three nights and jammed it at yesterday's matinee. To accommodate all an extra performance is set for to-night. The exhibition last night was superb. The marching and dancing was marvellous and the transformations, created by the change of light, wonderful. Everything went off without a hitch. The statuary was fine, the living figures as motionless as marble. The closing allegory was captivating. The opening shells and shifting scenes disclosed beauty in great variety and loveliness. Miss Ronan was tendered a bouquet and applause. Miss Clements admirably portrayed "Esther." The Roman soldiers, the blackbirds, the priestesses and the gondoliers were enthusiastically applauded.

The music was good and well presented. True it was not really modern, neither was the play. The projectors, of course, erred in not coming to Kingston to have the scene arranged, but it was their misfortune in not knowing that we had persons, beyond the commonplace, yes the "very commonplace"; men whose ears were alone alert to the sensuous strains of "German melody." But Telgmann and party ably presented what was not before them.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Improving the Church.

The interior of the Jubilee church is being extensively improved. The seats are being raised on an incline from the front, and the choir gallery will be moved behind the pulpit.

He Got in the Way.

Yesterday morning, just when the chemicle engine was leaving the fire station in a hurry, a drunken man came staggering along and had not Wm. McCammon dragged him out of the way the horses would have raced over him.

Will Put in Claims.

On Saturday through the unevenness of Princess street near Alfred street, two vehicles were disabled. One was loaded with hay. Wheels were wrenched off both waggons. The owners of the rigs will put in a claim to the city council for damages.

More Chinamen Cross the River.

At daylight on Tuesday two waggons, each containing seven Chinamen, passed through Cape Vincent en route for Watertown. They stopped long enough to inquire for the right road, but before proper authorities could be notified they had made their escape.

He Saved The Place.

Yesterday fire started in the roof of P. McGarvey's residence, on the Storrington road, and would have done a great deal of damage, had not James Seabrook, who was driving past at the time, rendered assistance. He put out the blaze by dashing water on the roof.

A Bull on a Rampage.

On Saturday a bull owned by a butcher here, while being driven to the city from Cataraqui, attacked a boy on a bicycle. The lad, hoisted over a fence, escaped without injury. The wheel was completely destroyed. Later the bull gored a horse belonging to a man from Sydenham. It will likely die, and the butcher will have to pay the loss.

Looking For Smugglers.

For several days a gentleman, employed in the interests of the customs department of the United States, has been in the city making enquiries relative to the smuggling of opium from this point to New York state. In looking over a hotel register he discovered that the man suspected of doing the smuggling had been in the city several months. The opium is supposed to come here from British Columbia.

A Better Day Truly.

R. M. Horsey returned from Montreal on Tuesday after a visit of two days. On Sunday he attended Trinity church where he saw his son, Herbert, ordained a priest with other candidates. He was astonished to see the parade of the Salvation army. The soldiers marched past the spot where Hackett, the Orangeman, was killed. To Mr. Horsey the scene suggested the ushering in of a better day for Montreal and its surrounding districts.

He Was Injured.

Yesterday, about noon, William Pipe had a narrow escape from being killed. He was driving his father's ice waggon, drawn by a team, up Princess street, when he fell off and rolled under the horses' feet. One of the animals stepped on his breast and legs. When pulled from under the horses he was bleeding freely from a large wound on his forehead. He received other bodily injuries. He was carried in a semi-conscious condition to his home.

Some of Her Notions.

Miss L. M. Smith died in Belleville on Monday of consumption. She was a resident of Kingston with her mother. The couple are worth $25,000. The young lady was an eccentric person. She left instructions before her death that her body was to be embalmed and placed in an elegant casket. The deceased also left instructions that her remains were to be placed in a brick vault. She could not bear the thought of sleeping in the earth after death.

Adjusting a Claim.

Yesterday Mr. Stewart, inspector of the Citizens' insurance company, and J. T. White, the general agent, visited G. S. Blake's premises, near Sydenham, and adjusted a claim in connection with a loss by fire. His barns and agricultural implements were destroyed. He was paid $300. The insurance men went fishing on Sydenham lake and spent a few enjoyable hours. Mr. White caught a tremendous pike. It measured 2 ft. 6 in., and weighed over 10 lbs.

He Did up Many Persons.

Full particulars regarding the thefts of William Reid, who was sent to the Central prison for a year yesterday, were apparently not known at the time of his trial. The officers at the police station were kept busy yesterday afternoon attending to the numerous callers who enquired anxiously for different articles, as bunches of keys, table knives, etc. Among the losers were Dr. Curtis, who is minus a new suit of clothes, and T. C. Wilson, who is the creditor of young Reid for the amount of ten months board. Mrs. Beall also reported the loss of some knives and spoons, supposed to have been taken by Reid when he was employed lighting the fires at her residence last winter. The man's track, in the police station, was thoroughly inspected by the officers, and some of the articles were found therein and identified by their owners.
