interest was given to the race, for Fits-James joined the leaders, while Loan taka had gradually improved his position within hailing distance. And thus they swung into the stretch: Major Domo a half length to the good, while Demuth, Cassius, Fitzjames and Loantaka were all on nearly even terms. The excitement was in-

It was anybody's race, and at the last furlong shouts of "Major Domo wins!" "Fitzjames wins!" "Cassius wins!" "Demuth wins!" "Loantaka wins!" were heard from all parts of the stand.

Then all of a sudden Bergen commenced to work like a demon on Loantaka, and stride by stride he passed his horses, and at last was on even terms with Major Domo. For 20 yards the struggle was magnificent, then Loantaka drew to the front and won by a length and a half from Major Domo, who lasted long enough to beat Cassius a length for the place. A length away came Fitzjames, who was followed in order by Ban-Irish politics for over 60 years. He was a quet, Tenny, Riley, Demuth; Isaac Lewis and TeaTray, whose abominable temper had prevented him from making a better show-

Canada's Extravagant Legislators Brantford Expositor. The Globe very properly condemns the or der that has been given for 215 real English leather trunks, to the value of $40 each to go along with stationery that is supplied members of the house of commons. There is great abuse in this matter. Not only do the members receive what stationery they require during the session, but they get in addition a trunk of stationery, for home use. Why this should be done at the country's expense it is extremely difficult to state. and the substitution of the costly trunks referred to for the cheaper ones heretofore used, will only direct attention to a very glaring abuse. By the way it is said certain members of the Ontario legislature were also clamorous for real English leather trunks, but their aspirations were promptly squeiched by the commissioner of crown

IN MEMORIAM The Late William Crowler, Chicago, It becomes my painful duty to chronicle the death of William Crowley (well and favorable known in Kingston) after a linger ing illness, and at the early age of twenty-Books wo years. Born and raised in Chicago he was a sample of what good parental instrucion will accomplish, even if the child be reared in a city of Chicago's magnitude and notoriety. Willie Crowley was a model RECEIVED EVERY WEEK young man, and whose life and actions could safely be copied by the rising generation of young men. Of a kind and loving disposition he was a devoted son, an affectionate brother and a loving and amiable companion. Since he was eleven y are old he carned his own living and turned in his earnings to For Sunday Reading, Books for every day support a widowed mother and three rounger children.
