ODESSA NEWS

The Tidings From a Nisk Village in the ODESSA, Sept. 29.-The harvest home dinner, under the auspices of the Methodist church, was an unqualified success. The dinner was all that could be desired, there being an abundance and a variety to please everyone. The programme was grand, and one of the best ever rendered here. The singing of Profs. Abbs and Davis, Toronto, Miss Tilley, Napance, and the choir was choice. Everyone seemed to be in the best spirits and trim, and acquitted themselves in a manner that delighted the large audience. The addresses of the Revs. Mallett, Morven, and S. J. Shorey, Napanee, created an impression for good. The proceeds amounted

Robert Liddle, a well-known character this district, died at the home of Mr. Morgan, three miles west of here, aged eighty-tive years. Mr. Hegadorn, an old resident of this place, died last week at the advanced aged of eighty-four years. He was buried with Salvation army ceremonies, the funeral and procession being both a credit to the family and to the place. Wilson Buck anded his honeymoon by pounding his faithful spouse. Mrs. Buck, not relishing this kind of fun, promptly laid information against him for assault. On the day of the trial she repented of her action and once more the devoted pair are clasped in each other's arms. Long may they live. The first of the parior entertainments was held at Mrs. Jones' and was a grand success. A good programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and recitations, was presented. A song by Mr. Chancy was ex-cellently rendered. Recitations by Miss Flo Walker, Miss F. Maston, Miss Wolbanks, and a quartette by Prof. Metzler, Miss Ham, Miss Watts and Mr. West were grand. Instrumental duetts were beautifully rendered by Mr. Chance and Miss Minnie Jones and Hicks brothers. Games were the order of the evening. Everything went off splendidly and all enjoyed themselves. These entertainments will be continued every two weeks. WHAT HE WILL DO.

Mr. Rousseau Will Sue the City for

A special meeting of the city council will be held this evening to discuss the report of the water works committee respecting the suction pipe. Mr. Rousseau the contractor, intended going to Montreal last night but intended going to Montreal last night but when he heard that a council meeting was to be held he postponed the trip. He is desirous of addressing the council for the purpose of giving his side of the case. Mr. Rousseau thinks he has got the cor peration in a tight spot. He contends the pipe was passed at Montreal by Mr. Mo-intyre, employed in the city's interest. While Mr. Rousseau admits the pipe did not stand the required 75 lb, pressure, amerts it will bear under water the specified 20 lbs. pressure and 100 lbs. additional. He has already connected the pipe with the sumping station, and has commenced work of laying the pipe, "What will you do if an injunction is issued by the city restraining you from lay-"I will sue the city for big damages," replied Mr. Rousseau.

Toronto. The event was one of very great interest and was attended by the elite of the city. The church was bandsomely arrayed for the joyous ceremony, conducted by Rev. M. M. Harding of St. George's outhedral. The groom, accompanied by Meers. R. Cowan, I oronto, and E. Macnachtan, Cobourg, were promptly on time and were followed to the altar by the bride leaning upon the arm of her uncie, Andrew Deacon, of the postoffice staff. She was attired in white corded bengaline trimmed with chiffon, snow drops, lifies of the valley and orange blossoms. She looked particularly sweet. Misses Mc-Gill and Cartwright were the maids of of roses. There were many guests, becom-ingly attired, and altogether the wedding was one of the choicest of the many weddings in Kingston this year. Queen street Methodist church was prowded at high noon to-day, while hundreds of old and young ladies and school girls swung about the many entrances watching the procession of invited guests entering the edifice. It was 12:30 o'clock when the bride, Miss Flora Britton, her father and sister reached the church. Inside here was a scene of great beauty. The guests, one hundred or more, very finely attired, the ladies senting a variety of colors and that attracted much attention. Messrs C. Strange and W. Kent acted as usbers. Five hundred persons were standing upon the seats trying to secure a glimpse of the altar. There was a murmur when the bride arrived, and was conducted to the altar amid the strains of the Swedish wedding march from the organ, presided over by H

Howell with great ability and taste. The groom, P. H. Gilbert, with Stanley Smith, of Montreal, as attendant, were in waiting. Then the couple stood before an arch of cedars with the monogram "B. A Denver, Col., despatch says : Pretty Mrs. Samuel Mateer, only twenty-five years of age and but lately a bride, is now sleeping her long, last sleep at Riverside, con-signed thither by the hasty act of her own hand, with no time to repent and try to avert the consequences of her awful deed.
The daughter of an English army surgeon, highly educated, cultured, speaking six languages and a capable artist in painting and drawing, in one moment she annihilated her life and talents which should have yielded her happiness among the higher and educat-ed classes of humanity. Last August Samuel Mateer, a native of Kingston, Canada, married the above men-tioned lady, who was then Miss Winchester. He is foreman in Tadman & Marke's bakery,

Champa street. He did not know very much about his wife except that she was gifted and ambitious -- so much so that, not content with what he earned, she also fretted to add to the income by her artistic efforts. Not much can be ascertained as to the domestic relations of the young married pair, but whatever they were they came to an abrupt conclusion last Saturday morning. Last Wednesday night Lieut. Clay, at police headquarters, received a telephlying dead upon the ground with a revolver to cut her throat. She cried and begged clinched in his right hand. I had been drinking the night before. I asked her what was the matter, and she replied in some manner that I don't remember now. I went to lie down and a few minutes later my wife came to me and said : 'Sam, take me in your arms once more. I have taken a dose and will become unconscious in a short time.' Just after she spoke she became unconscious. I had a doctor summoned, but he did not save her life. I can show you the papers she received from Lyons for the
