An Italian present enraged at the insult to the dead, struck the Writer in the face and assisted the guards to expel him amid the anathemas of those present. The other pilgrims tried to resoue their companion rom the guards. The crowds attracted by the disorder, attacked the pilgrims with knives and stones, filling the air with imprecations of "death," etc. The guards had the utmost difficulty in protecting the pilgrims from the franced Italians.

M. Harmel, the leader of the French workmen's pilgrims, stilled on the Minister of Interior to-day and disclaimed any sympathy with the outride of yesterday. He expressed deep regret for all the occurrences in connection with it. o'Eight trains, early this morning, were in readiness to take the pilgrims out of Rouse, but as popular feeling had calmed down oppoderably the pilgrims were informed that Her departure from their original program was becomery.

Thousands of citizens marched in proc sion to the Pantheutrin Rome to-day to deposit a wreath on King Victor Emanuel's tomb, where on Friday last a number of French Catholic pilgrism made an insulting demonstration. While the crowd was in ome of the altars und made violent peeches, denouncing the Vatican and houting "Down" with the priests! Sunday Evening Meeting Greatly Dis turbed by Students. New York, Oct. 5 .- A remarkable Sun day evening meeting was held by Francis Train in the hall of the grand opera house last evening. The hall was crowded; many prominent persons were present. On the right of the stage were seated about fifty young students. They came with the professed in-tention of disturbing the meeting and they succeeded. Mr. Train was tendered an ovation upon entering the hall. It continued until he left at the end of the meeting. When he attempted to speak the applause became deafening and he invariably took stored. At times he became profane in his remarks about the disturbers, who only increased their shouts of derision. At last he gave in, and stopping his lecture he call-ed upon the stage the six fasters who begin their fifty days fast this evening in excited the laughter and cat calls of the gang by their woeful breaks. No arrests were made.

When the proper period comes the general sense of the country will ratify the judgment already given at nearly a hundred points. At the conclusion of Mr. Gladstone speech there was an outburst of cheering which lasted several minutes. NEWCASTLE, Oct. 4 .- The town hall yesterday presented an animated spectacle, the occasion being the presentation of the freedom of the city to Mr. Gladstone. The building was packed. The ladies present almost equalled the gentlemen in numbers. Members of Parliament who had taken part in the proceedings of the National Liberal Federation; Lord Armstrong, inventor of the Armstrong gun; Bishop Wilberforce of Newcastle; Sir Isaac Lowthian Be and a majority of the corporation of Newcastle had seats on the platform.

As Mr. Gladstone entered, accompanied by the mayor and mayoress of Newcastle and John Morley, the immense audience ing. Mr. Gladstone and his party proceed ed to the platform. The mayor delivered a long enlogy on the life and work of Mr. Gladstone, and declared Newcastle did it self honor in honoring the great Liberal leader. He then presented Mr. Gladstone with the parchment making him a citizen Newcastle and the latter signed his name to the list of freemen of the city. Mr. Gladstone then spoke in praise of local self-government and of free trade. He was enthusiastically cheered. Upon leaving the town hall Mr. Gladstone received an ovation from an immense concourse of people. After luncheon Mr. Gladstone started for Ha-

Referring to free trade Mr. Gladatoue "Our children and kinsmen in America, to whom we have looked and might still look to teach us many a useful legislative lesson, have set us in this matter an example of a retrograde nation. They have thought for a moment, though, I believe, only for a moment, that the secret of perity was to be found in fixing by the lovernment the channels in which prise should run and the forms in which ingenuity should be exercised." tinuing, Mr. Gladstone said he hoped that in the long run both England and America would be so influenced by the example and triumph of their immediate predecessors. "Although," he added, "there remains much to do, yet a great amendment has al-ready been achieved by the change from protection to freedom. "England, among the great nations of the world," Mr. Gladstone remarked, "had become almost the solitary witness of the principle of freedom as applied to trade, as she has long been in Europe the solitary witness of freedom of social and political institutions. England was faithful to her task as the witness of social and political freedom, and in time others followed her example. Had England been abashed by authority or overborne by the examples of other countries, the English people would not have been at this moment free. But she persevered in her work, and the world has been content to tread in her steps. That stewardship in regard to free dom in general we have now in regard commerce. A new edition (the fourth) of his work on Church and State was just out. Scotland at that time had no public school on the English model with no public school on the English model with a training college for students intending to take orders in the Episcopal Church. Glen Almond College was designed to supply the omission, and has done so well that to-day, when the Church of Scotland is threatened with discatablishment, a new wing is found necessary, and Mr. Gladstone was there to lay the foundation stone.

I would, again, rise no more. The body was recovered ask them to try the local improvement law within 30 feet of the spot pointed out by young Tribe. The body was perfectly for tour brick houses and if the street bad nude and shows no signs of any special et been opened they would surely been built at fort or struggle. The body will arrive in a cost of $4,000. As I would surely have Teronto in charge of Undertaker Stone and | been taxed for $3,000 by this time I should James Dixon, brother of deceased, on the bave paid myself (not mentioning any others on the street, one of whom would have built six houses) $250 of the $700 it would have cost to open it. Let some of our good financering aldermen study it out and see who are the losers. -J. C. Swain.

Tracing His Trunks, Smith's Falls Record, The trunks of F. T. Frost, Smith's Falls, reported lost, were discovered, after a long search, by Mr. Hammond, superintendent have been at work since Tuesday and have of the Rome & Watertown railway. He traced them to Terrace Park, near Morris town, and as the company have no station at this point there was no eatry made of their going there. However, by some mirtake they had been sent there from DeKall Junction instead of to Morristown, but there all trace of them came to an end. An old man at the park had seen the trunks unloaded there with a lot of baggage balonging to the visitors at the park, and night turned him over to the sheriff and he | had noticed the name Frost painted on the ends of them. Mr. Hammond and two detectives set to work to trace them from the park if possible, and what the detectives could not do the able superintend ent managed to do. He heard of a well-todo man of excellent reputation who lived at Potedam, but who was known to have driven backward and forward from his home to the park a good deal during the searon, and to him he went if perchance he might get any information from him. He knew pothing scent had to be started. After spending several days in a vain search Mr. Hammon ed the trunks, giving him until the next morning to deliver them. To his actorish-ment he produced them from his house. He had stolen them from the park platform.
