He had no special instructions regarding the matter whatever. In Europe he received two letters on the subject of the railway affair, one from the Hon. Mr. Garnean and one from Hon. Charles Langelier. Unfortunately he had destroyed both. The first he heard was through a telegram re-ceived from Armstrong by Chevalier Dro-let, which said that the matter had been settled, but when the Chevaller told himbs replied that it was impossible or he would have received official notification. This was about the 20th of April. Drolet then asked permission to introduce him to a syndicate of well-known French capitalists who had ten millions ready to take hold of the road, but he (Mr. Mercier) could not make them any piosnise. He produced a type-written copy of the letter which he sent to Mr. Charles Lange-lier on the 19th, which stated amongst other things that the Premier hoped the Ministers would follow the letter of the law in every respect, though he admitted that they ought to be better judges than he of the situation. It also begged them to

At the Brunswick Hotel he spoke to Langelier and Pacaud about the Baie des Chaleurs Railway and Mr. Robidoux told him that unless he (witness) would give good securities the syndicate represented by Mr. Thom would not get its charter. He always understood that Pacaud was a go-between with the Government and Armstrong. Subsequently witness met Pacaud in Quebec and he gave witness introductions to Mr. Garneau and Mr. Ross. He also introduced witness to Mr. J. C. Langelier, commissioner. He had several interviews with different members of the Government after. Witness then related his connection with the company and the agreements with the Government and contractors, the whole of which was given in Ottawa. Several letters were asked of him by Judge Davidson, but he did not have them. He was told by Mr. Beique that they were before the commission. Mr. Beique said that he did not think witness referred to particular letters. Witness then gave the number of shares owned by himself and the other members of the company. The shares were $50 each. When all transactions were closed witness had suspicion that something was wrong—that there had been boodling—but he had not that suspicion in New York where he should have had it. Witness received $74,-000 and paid Armstrong $14,000; $60,000 went to the old company shareholders; $60,-000 was borrowed from Ms. Armstrong.

THAT QUEBEC ROBBERY.

The True Story of the Attempted Steal

SHERBROOME, Que., Oct. 30.—About Oct.

1 there was a robbery, or rather attempted robbery, in Mr. Pineault's office in Quebec.

Mr. Pineault, being Pacaud's lawyer, there was great excitement over it and many insinuations were made as to its being the work of political parties. Yesterday a boy named Alfred Healy, just brought to Sher-brooks from Quebec on a sentence of five years' imprisonment in the reformatory, made an affidavit before Mr. Roux, district magistrate, that he and two other boys were the burglars, their object being to get money, which they failed to find.

The poor mother's efforts to save her babe proved fruitless, as one hand and one foot were burned off, and it gave only a few gasps after being resoued, while Mrs. Cummings herself was terribly burned about the hands, shoulders and breasts, in fact almost to a crisp. Only the charred remains of the others, two boys aged 3 and 4 years respectively, were found.

He was born near Delta, Jan. 28th, 1867, moved with his parents to the farm where he is buried, when some three months old. On Feb. 17th, 1829, he married Sally, daughter of Captain Jeremiah Day, of Daytown, by whom he had eleven children, six of whom were called home before him. May 10th, 1884, the faithful wife was called to leave him. His children were all but one with bim when the summons came on Monday. His remains were laid to rest beside the loved wife and children, father and mother, grandfather and grandmother. Mr. Alford was converted under the ministry of Rev. George Goodson some fifty years ago, and joined the Methodist church, of which he remained a consistent member until his death. No words of fear or regret fell from his lips during his last days; he felt all was well.

EXPERIENCE OF 1837-38-

Hickory Island Excitement-Personal Re-

SOUTH LANGASTER, Oct. 28 .- Having a times read in your paper articles bearing on the troubles of 1837-38, as one engaged in the active service of that day I feel like adding my experience at the time of the "Hick ory Island" excitement, over Bill Johnson's crossing over with the rebels. I volunteered in the marines in Kingston, there being four companies of them, composed of boatmen and sailors. In the spring of 1838, when Capt. Sandown came from England to take charge of Kingston dockyard and also to command the fleet of gunboats on the lakes, I was one of four young men chosen by Lient. Gaskin to row the commodore from Kingston to the dockyard on his arrival. A the dockyard wharf he sprang out, but was ordered back by the commodore, who claimed the honor of taking possession as first in rank. The next fall I volunteered into Capt. Fraser's company of militis, all the windows of the committee room stationed in Bath, acting as quartermaster the anti-Parnellites. from Amherst Island. I believe none of them remain on the island but one, Peter Insent. There are some old men at Erpest-town to-day who were boys in barracks with us that winter at Bath. One of the fourteen mentioned resides in Goderich, in order to have the honor of assisting in the passage of the Home Bule bill. He said that it was the universal Charles Girvan, who was first sergeant iu the company. During that winter I remember seeing two of the rebels of Prescott Windmill battle hanged at Kingston. These very rebels, called such at that time, sacrificed their lives advocating the laws which now govern us.—Thomas Hill.

to be Settled at a Southern Y.M.C.A. Conference. COLUMBIA, S.C., Oct. 30 .- A question come up at Orangeburg, in this state, to-morrow night at a conference between re-presentatives of the Y.M.C.A. of this state and members of the national Y.M.C.A. Mr. Wynn, secretary for this state, says the matter is one of great interest, and an effort will be made to settle the status of the colored people with respect to local organization. It is not at all likely that any proposition looking to the membership of the negro will either be tolerated or entertained before the meeting. It is understood that several of the northern delegates are not altogether opposed to considering the cligibility of colored members. Mr. Wynn says that ample means may and should be not that ample means may and should be pro-vided for the estat lishment and maintenance of colored associations, but that they must be absolutely free from social alliances. The question is a novel one and has been under advisement for some time, but the unanimous sentiment of all the southern delegates may be anticipated as in opposition to mem-bership of colored men.

M'CARTHYITES WIN A VICTORY OVER THE PARNELLITES.

tion trial was conducted here before Jus-Thorns, Bricks and Stones Make Lively Times-William O'Brien Talks Cong. Oct. 29.—The faction fight which took place here last night proved a very serious affair. After their preliminary defeat the routed Parnellites sought around for reinforcements and with these additions to their strength they made another on-slaught upon the McCarthyites, charged into the square with vim, slashing right and left with their blackthorns, and splitting many a McCarthyite head as they tried to force their way up to the car upon which stood O'Brien and his supporters. The McCarthyites were driven back, and with howls of triumph the Parnellites over-turned the blasing tax barrels and kicked and rolled them into the river. Then for a time the Parnellites with exultant cheers of victorious political battles held the market place. Defeat, however, only seemed to heighten the McCarthyites appetite for battle. Following the example of the Parnellites they also sought for and found strong reinforcements, and thus strengthened they again mustered in a compact body, and with thundering chouts made a dash at the Parnellites on the market place. Then music of the clashing blackthorns once more filled the air. It was give and take on both sides, with ne question of quarter or hope of marcy. After a most desperate battle the Parnellite force was routed. time the Parnellites with exultant cheers of Many on both sides were injured, in addition to those already reported as having been taken to the hospital to have their wounds attended to. Mr. William O'Brien addressed a meet-ing composed of 5000 McCarthyites, who vigorously applauded the telling points made by that orator. The market-place presented a most picturesque and animated scepe. The square was illuminated by scores of blazing tar barrels and a small forest of torches. It was not he but it was Mr. Parnell who proposed that Mr. O'Brien be made temporary leader of the Irish party.

Eight detectives accompanied Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien throughout the day. Dillon declared this evening that ponents placed a party of roughs behind a wall constructed to attack him yesterday while on his way home.

Late this afternoon it seemed as collision between the persons present at two opposing meetings was imminent. The threatened melee was averted, however, by the action of John O'Connor, who forced his way through the excited crowd to the car containing Mr. O'Brien. Arriving at the car Mr. O'Connor held a hurried and whispered conversation with Mr. O'Brien, and finally the two men linked arms, and in this manner passed through the crowd and walked away in the direction of the hotel. This had the desired effect.

Armed With an Assegni. At a Parnellite meeting held this evening Mr. O'Connor produced an instrument which he described as an assegai and said he had wrested it from the hand of a McCarthyjte. Mr. O'Connor indignantly declared that he would never speak to Mr. O'Brien again, for when he in-

He speedily went through the money and came to Canada in 1880, settling in Montreal. Five months later he received the position of private secretary to Sir Adolphe Caron. and removed to Ottawa. His intemperate habits resulted in his losing the position. Aldrich shamefully treated her, and became infatuated with other women. B. T. A. Beel, a boarder at Mra. An Infant Fatally Poisoned by Its Mother's PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30 .- The death of the 2-weeks-old baby of Mrs. Mary Magee on Sunday is surrounded with circumstances of a most peculiar character. On Sunday last Mrs. Magee, with her infant, went to No. 2057 Pemberton-street to attend the funeral of Miss #Matilda
