Chief said to Mave Been Jugglid Out of Land by Fates Boundary Lines.

Isufavarous, Nov. 6.—The Indiana and Ohio loundary line question is assuming startling aspects. A survey which is now being made under the direction of the mational government will probably establish the fact that the true boundary, as declared when Ohio was organized into a state, begins twelve miles west of the present boundary line at the north and runs directly south to the present line between Ohio and Indiana, thus making a strip 200 miles long and of an average width of six miles to which the strip includes the cities of Fort Wayne, Richmond and Union, and a population of about 20,000. State Senator Shockney, of Union city, who has access to some resources of information, is authority for this assertion regarding the discoveries of the surveyors. Their report, he mays, will be ready for submission to the government in about three weeks. An inquiry into the cases that led to the juggling of the boundary lines discloses the fact that at the time Ohio was made a state there were now now.

Ohio was made a state there were post traders at Richmond and Fort Wayne whose trade with the Indians was profitable. If the line had been run correctly these posts would have been taken into the new scanning of the statement of Mr. O'Shea's state of Ohio and the occupation of these traders would have been gone, but the post traders bribed the survey party which located the line, and Richmond and Fort Wayne were left on the Indiana side. The question is an important and complicated one, for should Ohio's claim be enforced draws tenace cause of action against Illinois. Miss Wood originally made a will leaving the bulk of her property to Mrs. O'Shes, but providing also for her nephews, General Sir Evelyn and Charles Wood, also for other relatives. These other nephews and nieces were profoundly jealous of Miss Wood's attachment to Mrs. O'Shea, and as wood's attachment to Mrs. O'Shea, and as she alleges in the will suit, were constantly poisoning her aunt's mind against her.

Family quarrels ensued and finally Miss Wood became so i ritated by the conduct of other relatives toward her favorite niece that she revoked her first will and made Winding up Business ... NOTABLE STRIKE OVER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6. - The strike this city Nov. 3, 1889, ended to-day, the union voluntarily declaring the strike off.
The cause of the strike was the joint action of 14 large foundries in refusing to recognize the rules of the union, which they claimed worked a hardship to their industry. About 140 moulders and 40 coremakers were involved. It is estimated that the strike has cost the union over $100,000 and three lives were lost through violence, the outgrowth of the feeling which prevailed between the moulders and foundrymen.

in Address by Major Mayne to Mason Last Night. Last night Major Mayne gave an address in St. John's lodge on "The Historical Development of English Freemasonry." He pointed out that Freemasonry has not always been the same as it now is and that it has not always had the same objects in view. It has grown to be what it is at present. There are two forms of Freemasoury now existent, namely, the English and the Scottish rites. The former is the masonry of the English speaking countries; the latter, or certain modifications of it, the masonry of all the rest of the world. It is the Scottish rite, which has a political as well as an ethical code, that justly incurs the dislike of Roman Catholics when viewed from their stand-point. It is only through want of information that they can condemn English masonry, which is non-political. The Masonic historians of the past may be divided into two schools, the traditional and the historical. Both schools have their facility. In modern Freemasonry we can modified the societies which have developed into modern Freemasonry, and he pointed out that even as late as 1816 the great Minnes & Bwins christian dogmas were referred to in the ma-sonic ritus used in Canada. But the irra-ligion of the times and the tendescy to make Freemasonry cosmopolitan gradually caused the obliteration of distinctive ra-ferences to christian dogmas. Some of the symbols introduced and changes made in the ritual of late years were totally out of keeping with the more ancient teachings, and had been introduced by men who had but, a superficial knowledge of what they

Mrs. O'Shea was accustomed to receive her allowance from her aunt by a quarterly check. In the summer of 1886, after Captain O'Shea had publicly quarreled with Parnell over the Home Rule Bill, Mrs. O'Shea received one of these checks and forwarded it to her bankers. It was sent on for payment to her aunt's bankers, and Mrs. O'Shea, in-stead of being notified that the money had been lodged to her credit, got the check back with the ominous indersement, "Signature differs," the formula whereby an English bank intimates that the genuine-As at this time Miss Wood, the drawer of the check, was an invalid from extreme
