PREFERENTIAL DUTIES. At the Birmingham conference, made up of representatives called together to formulate a platform for the next election, a resolution was passed favoring the extension of commerce upon a preferential basis throughout the empire.

"Protection has not done so much for this country that any special effort should be put forth to secure it. It has not enlarged the population, it has not enlarged the trade, it has not built up manufacturing centres or produced a manufacturing population."

"Every interest in the country was depressed. In the manufacturing districts mills and workshops were closed and property depreciated in value in the aggregate."

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE AND OF THE PRESS reflecting public opinion calls for a reform in government. There are cries on all hands for public parity, for the application of principle in the administration of public affairs.

"The natural conclusion of most people on reading this refrain will be that the national policy is in a bad way; that it is tired of being mismanaged by the present government."

"The initiative, by which the voters of any municipality, province, or the dominion may demand the submission of a new law or the alteration or abolition of any existing law within the jurisdiction of the body to whom the demand is presented."

THE NEST IN THE CHERRY TREE.

A Story Told by Grandmamma to Nina and her sister Bella. "Grandmamma, please tell us a story," said Nina. "I am very willing to," said Grandmamma. "For you have both been very good."

FATTENING THE LAMBS.

An Adaptable Article by Prof. Shaw, of the Agricultural College. QUEBEC, Nov. 26.—(To the Editor): A bulletin recently issued by the department of the experimental station at the "Fattening of Lambs for the British Market" has been given to the press, and has, generally, been well received.

Lambs below the average of our Ontario product were in a sense purposely chosen, for the reason (1) that they were difficult to get at the time, and (2) that it is never wise in a first experiment to aim at doing too well, as equal results are not easily obtained on a second trial.

"The next point I would emphasize is the substantial profit virtually repaid from the experiment. It is true that if the manure were taken into account, the net profit on the average of the lambs was only $1.12 per head, but if the manure is included, as in the bulletin, the net profit is $2.12, or a gain of 22.7% on the cost of the lambs."

"The natural conclusion of most people on reading this refrain will be that the national policy is in a bad way; that it is tired of being mismanaged by the present government."

GRANDMAMMA'S STORY.

"He was very wicked," said Nina. "Oh, yes," added Bella, "a hard hearted boy." Grandmamma continued: But while he stood the chimney, before they had the wood which said: "When the month of May comes the cherry tree in the garden will be covered with lovely white flowers."
