A 200-Miss Tangent Down in South

The new Argentine Parific Railread, from Buenos Ayrus to the toot of the Andes, has on it what is probably the longest tangent in the world. This is 340 kilometers Ill miles; without a corve. In this distence there is not a single bridge, and no possing larger than an ordinary onlyert, no ent greater than one metre in depth, and so fill of a height exceeding one metre. There is also an entire absonce of wood in the plain across which the western end of the road is located. This has led to the extensive use of metallic ties, which will be employed on nearly the entire road.

Big Hugs Dront The biggest insect of its kind in the world is the Hercules beetle of South America, which grows to be six inches in length. It is said, whether truthfully or not, that great numbers of these creatures are sometime; seen on the manimum tree, rasping the rind from the slender branches by working around them with their horns until they cause the juice to flow. This juice they drink to intextication, and thus fall senseless to the ground. You Wouldn't Mind a Ring of This.

The most brilliantly colored alloy yet known has been revealed in a recent investigation by Professor Robert Austen. Its composition is about 78 per cent. of gold and 22 of aluminium. It has a rich purple color, and bright ruby tinta are oblained when light is reflected from one surface of the alloy to another, Imagine This Writing Up a Sensation. Mr. Gladstone is the owner of the largest lead pencil in the world. It is the gift of a pencil-maker at Keawick, and is thirty-nine inches in length. In place of the customary rubber cap it has a gold cap. Its distinguished owner uses it for a walking Suppose the Current Should Strike You?

The largest dynamo in the world is said to be in use in the cluminium works in Switzerland. The commutator is made of copper and weighs over six tons. The machine has the capacity of developing 14,000 amperes at thirty voits. Alaska Has One Big Thing. What is said to be the biggest quartemill in the world is in far-off Alaska. It consists of 240 stamps, 96 concentrators, 13 ere-croshers, and requires 300 horse-power. NOT HER SHARP TONGUE.

It is the Evil in the Mind of Woman That Makes Her Dangerous. Shall I tell you plainly, bluntly and without any mincing, what type of woman I think the most dangerous? It is not the virage, the wounds of a sharp tongue are hard enough to bear, but there is a balm for them. Mother may be overworked, or sister may be fretted; something is the matter with the digestion often when the one we love scolds and is excessively discoverable in manner and speech. The harshagreeable in manner and speech. The harsh-agreeable in manner and speech. The harshest word is seen excused and over-looked by the smile and the caress that are sure to fellow. So, bad as a scolding, nagging tongue may be, it has alleviations, and somewhere there is an excuse made to fit it.

But what palliation is there for the offence of the woman who seeks by her blandishments and artifices of the evil one's own concections to steal the affecene's own concections to steal the affections of a man away from his wife? There are more such people in the world than you can imagine, and the evil is not confined to the one sex either. An intriguing woman or man who steals into a happy home and seeks to undermine it deserves to be stoned on the highway. She may steal your purse, your diamonds or your checkbook, and, while love reigns on its rightful throne the home will be happy, but let her seek to discrew leve and entertain a clandestine passion in its place, and the foundation of the stoutest home that was ever founded on the rocks of time will tumble in ruin about her rocks of time will tumble in ruin about her

Avoid the intriguing, fascinating, danger-eus, designing weman, then, who recognizes no sanctity in wedded honor, and by her wiles and witcheries lets in a thousand devils to the heart and home she curses with her presence.

Draft, so-called, is the difference in weight between two columns of air, one hot and the other cold. The former rises by reason of its lightness, and the latter rushes in to supply its place. Hot air is lighter than common air, because, being expanded by heat, it occupies more space for the same volume. Suppose, says the Engineer, we have a smoke stack of certain dimensions; if contains a certain number of cubic feet of air. If we build a fire at the bottom of it, we expand that air and it increases in volume, raising as it increases. Naturally this ume, raising as it increases. Naturally this makes a column of a given number of cubic feet which is lighter than the column of the same capacity outside of the stack, and this cold air seeks to restore the balance. This is natural draft pure and simple, and as it depends upon a very flight difference in weights only, very little is needed to check it. Carrying the smoke stack or flue horizontally is a tax even the draft proper, for the horizontal spon the draft proper, for the horizontal column has to be dragged by the vertical solumn. The horizontal column cannot else; naturally, therefore, it has no value for increasing the velocity of the outside column of air, but has to be moved by it. All chimneys should be perfectly smooth inside, without projections of any kind; least of all should they be fould with soot; this last is one of the greatest of obstructions. Fo ved or induced draft is simply compressed air driven into a furnace by means of fans, and has an artificial velocity imparted to it by them. St. Patrick'dWard. A wealthy citizen of St. Petrick Ward Queen St., West, Toronto, Oat., writes as follows: "St. Jacobs Oil is certainly a very reflicacions remedy, as it cured me of a severe burn on the hand, after other remedies had failed to relieve me, and it has been used by other members of my family with very good effects," THOMAS MURRAY.

Que Woman's Wisdom

Here is a short sermon by a woman though not preached from a pulpit. It is a good one, and is pretty sure to hit you somewhere, whatever may be your age and circumstances: "The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; to an opponent, telerance; to a friend, your heart; to a child, a good example; to your father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself, respect; to all men, charity. & Good Rain Everywhere.
