BRITISH AND FOREIGN.

READABLE GOSSIP FROM LONDON AND PARIS.

Mrs. Parnell Indes Upon Writing Her Husband's Life - Heretofore, and through to use in documents that will be of importance for Gladstone, Chamberlain, et al.

LONDON, Dec. 14. - Mrs. Parnell has decided the proposals made to her that the work of writing the biography of Mr. Parnell should be undertaken by some of his colleagues. The names of O'Kelly and Tim Harrington were specially urged. Her intention is to write the biography herself. It is said she has already begun to read Mr. Parnell's papers with the assistance of Mr. Harrison, M.P., who is staying at Mr. Parnell's former house in Brighton, next door to the house occupied by Mrs. Parnell. The object of Parnell's colleagues in trying to secure the work of writing his life and dealing with his papers was to ensure that the work should be done by those who were best acquainted with him, who could form a reliable opinion as to the disposition of his highly important letters and papers in the interests of the Irish cause and Mr. Parnell's own reputation. It is understood that Mrs. Parnell's object is to make a ruthless exposure of her late husband's romances among the anti-Parnellites and Liberals.

The revenging feeling in the mind of the afflicted widow seems natural enough, but it is very doubtful whether it is the way in which Parnell's reputation can best be served. There are in Mrs. Parnell's possession a mass of letters between Mr. Gladstone and Capt. O'Shea, as well as between Capt. O'Shea and Joe Chamberlain, dating back to the days when O'Shea, as the regular intermediary between Parnell and the Liberal ministers. These letters can now be used with damaging effect. They include communications both direct and through O'Shea, showing that Chamberlain regularly kept Parnell informed of the proceedings in the Cabinet concerning Ireland; that he gave Parnell full and explicit warning through O'Shea that he was to be arrested under Forster's act. The object of giving Parnell this information was to enable him to baffle the plans of the ministry, of which Chamberlain was at the time a member. If Parnell's life is written in this spirit there is no doubt it will create a sensation, but it is hoped that as time wears away it may be found possible to wear Mrs. Parnell from this conception of her duty to the memory of her dead husband.

Lord Dufferin's Promotion.

It seems to give general satisfaction that Lord Dufferin won the Ambassadorship to Paris. For once Lord Salisbury has not disappointed the prophets who, almost to a man, plumped for Lord Dufferin when the news arrived of Lord Lytton's death. Lord Dufferin spends the last days of his diplomatic life in possession of the blue ribbon of British diplomatic service. He was sent to Rome on returning from India, more that he might qualify for a pension than for any special inducements attaching him to the Eternal City. He is well known to Frenchmen and likes and is liked by them. His period of service at the Embassy at Paris will doubtless be a great success. The moment his success at Rome is hardly thought of, though Sir Julian Pauncefote is generally mentioned.

Telegrams from Barrow say the Duke of Devonshire's condition is more serious. There is great loss of vital power and falling strength. Dr. Beardley is in constant attendance, but does not deny that the Duke's condition creates the gravest anxiety.

A Noble Gambler Sent to Prison.

The Duke de Sarrville, a young Belgian nobleman, who has been staying at Aix-les-Bains since September, entered a gambling room in the Casino des Fleurs one evening somewhat tipsy and began to stake at baccarat. After losing a couple of small stakes he threw a 1000-franc note on the table, which was won by the bank, whereupon the Baron picked up the note and declared that he only intended to stake 100 francs. The excitement among the croupiers and players, and the recrimination of the gambler finally led to the police station, where the judge delivered a sentence almost as severe as that which might be expected, that the prisoner was guilty of theft, cutting and wounding and carrying concealed weapons, for which offence he was condemned yesterday to six months' imprisonment.

In the Pavilion de Paris, situated behind the Palais de l'Industrie, there is an exhibition of Dutch pictures. The Dutch artists are exhibiting in Paris because Herr de Kayser, the President of the Rotterdam Art Club, has for years bought the works of the best French artists, and thus gathered a fine collection. The Dutch artists becoming a little jealous insisted that Herr de Kayser should do as much for Dutch art as he had done for French, and the President of the Art Club thought that the best way to further Dutch art would be to exhibit Dutch pictures in Paris.

Of course the best works are by Joaz Israel, and of these there are no less than 15. John Forbes, an English railway magnate, has lent a number from his collection, which he has forwarded from London. Besides these there are pictures by Jacob Willem and Malthya Maria, Gerke, Henkes, Albert Nuhys, Dinsthops and Meedema, as well as other important paintings.

ALL FOUR SHOT TO DEATH.

Stevoting sight Promised at the Finding of the Victims.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 15. - In connection with the terrible quadruple murder of New Smyrna, on the east coast, 125 miles southeast of here, the following telegram was received early this morning from Orange City:

"Miss A. H. Brad, Master Frank Packwood, Mrs. L. D. Hatch and her little boy were found murdered this morning in the Packwood House, six miles below here, on the east coast. The house was entered last night through a window, the intruder smashing the sash and glass in order to gain an entrance.

"A ghastly sight met the eyes of the first visitors to the premises this morning. In one corner of the main room on the floor lay the body of Mrs. Hatch, shot through the left eye. In the same room, lying on the bed, was the body of her six-year-old son, shot under the left eye and with his throat cut from ear to ear.

In the adjoining room, lying on the floor, was the body of Frank Packwood, 4 years old, shot through the head and with his throat cut also. In the same room, lying upon the bed, was the body of Miss Bruce, who had been assaulted and her skull and face had been smashed with some heavy weapon. Her face had also been shot through and her throat had been cut. At the entrance of the broken window a large revolver was found, two chambers of it having been emptied.

On the bed by the side of the body of Miss Bruce lay a double-barrelled shot-gun with the stock broken and splinters. On the bed next to the body of the Hatch boy lay a long-bladed butcher knife.

Tramps suspected.

"No clue to the murderers has yet been found, but tramps seen in this neighborhood yesterday are suspected of the crime. A large posse, headed by Deputy Sheriff Dimick, started northward to-night to scour the country for the murderers.

A few days ago a party of Western people started southward from Jacksonville, among whom were the Packwoods, father and son, Miss Bruce and Mrs. Hatch. Frank Packwood is a man well-known in this state among the sporting fraternity. He has opened the lodge south of New Smyrna every winter, and it is a popular resort for hunters and fishermen.

Packwood is a middle-aged man, about 45 years old, and has an extensive acquaintance all over the State. Robbery was undoubtedly the purpose of the murderers, but the extent of their plunder is as yet unknown. The occupants of the Packwood house had been there only a very few days, and the money and valuables which they had in their possession are merely a matter of conjecture.

Difficult to Get Details.

As the scene of the murder is off the regular line of travel and there are no trains from Saturday night till Monday, nor any telegraphic facilities, no further particulars of the crime can be learned until tomorrow, but it is thought that the full horror of the atrocious deed has not been fully given. No information is given about Packwood, or, though it is believed he is safe. He has lived in the state a number of years. He married a Miss Bruce in New York 10 years ago. There were two sisters and their brother, a well-known Wall-street broker, who failed several years ago, and the failure of the estate funds of the sisters were lost.

When Mrs. Packwood died some years ago her sister came to Mr. Packwood to bring up her young nephew. They went north very often, and Packwood seemed never to lack for funds. This time they had just returned home. Mrs. Hatch is supposed to be a friend of theirs, though her identification and home cannot be fixed till tomorrow.

A nephew of Frank J. Packwood, Jr., living in this city, said to-night: "My uncle owns a large orange grove eight miles south of New Smyrna, on the banks of the Hillsborough River and only about a mile from the ocean. He has lived on the Hillsborough River for at least fifteen years I should say. He is an all year round resident and not a tourist. All the Packwood family came originally from New Orleans. There are several brothers in this state. Frank's wife was a Miss Bruce of New York city, and she died when their boy Frankie was a little baby.

"Who Mrs. L. D. Hatch is I have no idea. I never heard the name before. Probably relations or friends of Miss Bruce and visitors in the Packwood home. The brother of Miss Bruce was at one time a prominent lawyer in Wall-street, New York, and it is said that not long before the marriage of Mr. Packwood with his other sister he failed, the property of his sister being -I lost in the crash up. Miss A. H. Bruce, the murdered woman, was about 35 years of age.

PHOTOGRAPHING CHINAMEN.

May Not Look So Much Alike in Pictures As in Life.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. - Acting Secretary Spalding yesterday instructed the collectors of customs at Buffalo, Ogdensburg, Suspension Bridge and Plattsburg to cause photographs to be taken of all Chinamen arrested for unlawful entry into the United States from Canada. It is expected in this way to establish a positive identification of all Chinamen who return to this country after having once been deported to Canada as the country whose they came.

THE PAMIR INCIDENT.

THE GOVERNMENT PUSHING FORWARD REINFORCEMENTS

The Case Must Make an Explicit Explanation of All the Circumstances - Brutal Murder by Poachers - The Times and the Newfoundland Question.

LONDON, Dec. 15. - Despatches from Calcutta say that there has been considerable fighting near Gilgit, on the Pamir frontier, but that the engagements have been of a desultory character. The tribesmen have taken to the hills and all pursuit has been stopped for the present. There has been no further loss of life among the British and the wounded are all doing well.

Additional reinforcements have been ordered to march towards Gilgit immediately, and the Indian Government is strengthening the passes and advancing the defenses and roads in the direction of the threatened disturbances.

Lord Salisbury demanded from the Russian Government an explanation, which the Czar promised, and the outcome will be the appointment of a joint Chinese-Russian and British commission to consider the whole question.

THE PRESIDENT SCORED.

At a Meeting of the Hudson Bay Company in London.

LONDON, Dec. 15. - A lively Hudson Bay meeting was held yesterday, lasting two hours, Sir Donald Smith presiding.

On the motion to re-elect Sir Donald Smith to the board, Mr. MacLean opened a vigorous and sometimes heated debate on Sir Donald's course as governor. Mr. MacLean denounced the policy of the board as one of obstruction and concealment. He congratulated the company on the good effects of bringing new blood into the management.

Sir Donald, replying amid cheers, said that he held £120,000 in Hudson Bay stock. That showed where his interests lay. The dividends paid during the four years of his chief commissionership evidenced his business capacity and knowledge of the needs of the company.

SPREAD OF GRIP.

Bad Features of Former Visitation Lacking this Year.

BERLIN, Dec. 15. - The influenza, although on the decrease, is still claiming many victims. During the past week the average number of deaths from this malady has been nine daily, but to these must be added for the week about 130 deaths from illness supervening. Among the 63 deaths from this disease was that of one child two years old, eight between the ages of 30 and 40, 20 between the ages of 40 and 50 and the others ranged from 60 to 81. The average of people dying from influenza during the week was 50, and the same average was noticed in previous weeks.

Since the revival of the epidemic the medical authorities have concluded that old people seldom recover from an attack. The doctors also find that people suffering from affections of the heart suffered severely, even if none died, and that scrofulous children are generally troubled after it with disorders of the brain.

According to Dr. Otto Seifert of the University of Wurzburg the influenza is caused by a microbe, which is now called microbasuifertina, and which can only be extirpated successfully by gin mixed with benzoid of soda, the fumes from this mixture clearing the air of these microbes.

Smallpox Carrying Off Thousands of Russian Peasants.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15. - To the horrors of famine in this country have been added the concomitant of pestilence. Smallpox is carrying off large numbers of the impoverished people. In two small villages of the government of Riazan 200 persons are down with the loathsome disease and 50 deaths have already occurred.

Smallpox is also ravaging eight other provinces, and typhus fever is carrying off numerous victims in various provinces.

English Gamekeepers Heated to Death.

With the Hot Wind of Games.

LONDON, Dec. 15. - Two gamekeepers named Pufferhat and Crawley, employed by the estate of Lord Brownlow, at Aylesbury, have been murdered by poachers. The men were beaten to death with the butt ends of guns. Their faces were crushed in a most terrible manner and their skulls completely smashed.

Engine and Tender Built in 10 Hours.

LONDON, Dec. 15. - The Stratford works of the Great Eastern Railway have broken the record for the construction of a railroad engine and tender by turning out one complete in a single working day of 10 hours. It was a six-wheeled coupled engine and tender, weighing 67 tons 14 cwt.

A Flagship in a Gale.

PLYMOUTH, Dec. 15. - H.M.S. Anson, the flagship of the Channel squadron, while cruising in the vicinity of Gibraltar, encountered a terrific gale, during which the vessel was swept by huge waves, and several of the crew were killed.

CERTAINLY NORCROSS.

A BOSTON FRIEND IDENTIFIES THE BOMB THROWER'S HEAD

The Bomber's Parents Also Convinced - He Frequently Talked About Elevated Railroad schemes - A Mysterious Child - Inspector Hyman is Still Skeptical.

Boston, Dec. 15. - Every new circumstance in connection with the disappearance of Henry L. Norcross leads to the belief that it was he who threw the fatal bomb in the office of Russell Sage. His absence from his Somerville home and from his office in Pearl-street, his not having been in Providence or other places where he said he was going, the similarity of the material in the silk-street tailor's shop to the material of the clothing worn by Norcross and that taken from the body of the dynamiter are circumstances that are hard to throw aside. The father and mother of the missing man are convinced beyond a doubt that the body of the man in the New York morgue is that of their son. Mrs. Norcross was told the circumstances of the story this morning by a woman neighbor. She was showing pictures of his clothing and identified them.

Mr. Howes identified the Dead.

Mr. Howes, a friend of Norcross, who went to New York yesterday, sent word to Boston this morning that he positively identifies the body as that of Norcross. J. G. Pennycook, who has an office in the same building where Mr. Norcross was, knew the young man well. He says he frequently talked about elevated road schemes, and believed that he would be a rich man some day. He believes that Mr. Norcross thought so much about his plans that it became a mania with him. People who were acquainted with him cannot connect him with any band of bomb throwers. He was a home person, spending almost all his spare time with his mother.

The conditions of Mrs. Norcross this morning is very serious. The office of H. L. Norcross was entered this morning by the father. Everything was found in the best of order. There is no possibility of trouble with the books, as Mr. Norcross handled none but his own money. R. T. White, whose office is in the same building, and who has known Mr. Norcross since 1887, says the father is a peculiar story. One day when he was in Norcross's room he happened to take up a little book that was on the desk and began to read it. Mr. Norcross jumped up, took the book from him, hid it away in his desk and closed the lid, cautioning the boy at the same time against fooling with it. As to what the find was the boy could not say. It was not ink, neither was it water.

A Mysterious Find.

A former elevator boy, who has been with Mr. Norcross lately, tells a peculiar story. One day when he was in Norcross's room he happened to take up a little book that was on the desk and began to read it. Mr. Norcross jumped up, took the book from him, hid it away in his desk and closed the lid, cautioning the boy at the same time against fooling with it. As to what the find was the boy could not say. It was not ink, neither was it water.

Dependancy and Depression.
