Napanee-T. G. Carscallen. Who's Their Nominee?

Orillia -J. W. Slaven.

According to the Kingston correspondent of the Montreal Gazette the temperance people here are "putting forth every possible effort to elect their nominee in the mayoralty. Although neither candidates are out and out temperance nominees still they both claim the temperance vote and are catering to the temperance leaders as none but mayoralty candidates can. He adds that the temperance ladies interviewed all the office-seekers and secured from them promises that they would not allow their wives to offer any wine whatever to callers on New Year's day, and that so far as lay in their power they would use their influence with their friends and acquaintances. less they promised this, their election would be next to hopeless, for the temperance vote is estimated at nearly one half of the whole city vote.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICE.

A Large Attendance at Sydenham Street Methodist Church on Monday Night.

The attendance at the time-honoured watch night service in the Methodist church was large, filling the new hall of the Sydenham street church. The service was a union one and of marked interest. The Rev. J. W. Sparling presided, and after singing and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Whiting, and reading of the scriptures, the Rev. W. Sparling gave a brief address. He commended thankful and cheerful attitude towards the past, condemning the singling out of its melancholy features, and exhorted to a hopeful outlook into the future. He slightly disparaged resolutions as goads and spurs. Rather, he urged, that men do Councillors - William Anderson, James | right for its own sake and live by the mo-> addresses from the Rev. Messrs. Bland and Eldridge. Mr. Bland said that to night they were to listen to the preaching of time, an old thought that of the need of action e'er the swift night fell, but necessary. It was worth much to feel an earnest feeling, pre-eminently to day in an age in which it was so easy to drift respectably along, and, without any gross sin, lead a petty, common. place, worthless life. He urged that earnest feelings should be crystalized into resolution, and the resolution adhered to though the feeling evaporated. A Christian life could be begun by a cold or timid heart if that heart trusted in Christ.

Mr. Eldridge said this was the season for stock taking and recommended stock taking in a spiritual sense. What capital had they to meet the liability of the coming year? MARTIN'S OPERA HOUSE.

The McDowall Company in a Popular

Play-The Strong Features of It. The McDowall company, supporting Percy Hunting, presented for the first time here, yesterday, matinee and night, Mark Quinton's English melodrama, "In His Power," to well-pleased audiences. The action of the play takes place in Paris. It is essentially a play of the people, intense in character, containing humor and pathos of no mean order. It opens in a breezy manner, introducing Mr. and Mrs. Hastings around whom the action of the play centres. Maria (Mrs. Hastings) is a beautiful young girl whom John Hastings finds in London. Although she is poor and friendless he offers her his heart and hand. She at first refuses and upon being pressed for the reason, tells Hastings that she has a secret in her past life that she cannot divulge. He asks her if it is anything that can interfere with their future, to which she answers "no."--He then tells her the secret shall be hers and repeats, the offer of his hand, which she accepts. The anniversary of their marriage finds them in Paris, where he is serving in the French army. Up to this time life had been for them all that he desired, when shadow falls across their path in the person of Eugene Lyon, a German spy and adventurer, the supposed former husband of Maria. Seeking his opportunity he enters the house when she is alone, and forces her by threats to aid him in acquiring the contents of a dispatch he knows Mr. Hastings will have on his person when he returns home. They are surprised by the husband, Lyon concealing himself behind the curtains of the balcony, and when coffee is served to Hastings forces Maria to drug her husband with chloral. After copying the dispatch he departs. Hastings, preparing to leave the house to notify the general of his loss, discovers a strange coat. The coat belongs to the man who copied the dispatch, Eugene Lyon. Lyon is followed to his lair by Hastings only to find his suspicions justified by finding his own wife at the man's lodgings. Hastings questions his wife as to why she is there, but she refuses to answer, and the curtain descends on the strongest climax ever witnessed at the opera house. The last act brings Maria and her husband to-

Asking Some Questions,

The correspondent at Yarker says there is a dispute in that village as the meaning of the words "without reversing either engine or cars" in the by law, passed by the electors, granting $25,000 to build the Yarker-Harrowsmith connection, and also whether the train will be allowed to back down to the present Yarker station, or will a new one have to be built at or near the junc-

The meaning of the words is that the train will have to run from Tamworth to Kingston without reversing at Warker. The railroad will bend around after crossing the Napanee river, so that the engine will head for Kingston. As to the matter of station arrangements at Yarker the N. T. & Q. RR. company will have to be consulted.

AVENERABLE MAN GONE.

DEATH OF MR. L. L. LAZIER. PLAY-MATE OF THE PREMIER.

One of the Last of the Survivors of the Original U. E. Loyalists-A Man Who Was Long Lived and Who Was Universally Esteemed-He was Well-to-do.

Lewis Lazier Bogart died at his late residence at Gosport on Dec. 24th. He was one of the last of the first generation of descendants of the U. E. Loyalists in this section, his father being one of the company who landed at Adolphustown in 1776, over a century ago. He was born within a mile of the place where he lived, having purchased and settled with his bride, Elizabeth Cronk, ever 53 years ago, and by industry and frugality hewed out for himself a comfortable home and accumulated considerable property, the most of which he had already given to his family, retaining only sufficient to keep him comfortable in his old age. He was one of a large family of eleven children, five of whom were older and five younger than himself. He outlived them all, though most of them were given a long life. His grandfather was in his 87th year, grandmother 93, his father 82, mother nearly 102 years. Four of his brothers passed three score and fifteen years, one nearly four score. He possessed a splendid constitution, was never sick, and in regard to build and physique was a perfect type of man, and might have lived many years had it not been for his ambition and desire to perform work beyond his strength, which brought a cold with congestion and inflammation which ended fatally. He had only three children, the late Mortimer C. Bogart, Mrs. J. B. McMullen, and Marshall Bogart. His widow survives him. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church for over half a century, and class leader in the church he helped to build, and took such an interest in for over twenty-five years. He was a conservative in politics, being a playmate and friend of Sir John A. Macdonald. He always supported his party, and always persistently declined being mixed up in municipal politics, or being honored with municipal office. He was universal. ly esteemed, and was widely known outside of his own county. His life was one of peace and good will toward man, and his is pursued by a mob and shot, thus freeing death just what he long prayed for, that he might not suffer long. His funeral was largely attended on Thursday by sorrowing relatives and sympathetic friends, the funeral sermon being preached by Rev. E. E. Howard, and the remains conveyed to the VandeBogart vault.

A POPULAR YOUNG MAN.

A Kingstonian Who Has Made Advancement Ouring the Past Year.

The many friends of Frank Karch, whose parents reside here, will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted to the manage. ment of one of the C. P. R. company's hotels in the west. Mr. Karch began his railway career several years ago, first being employed in the mechanical dopartment of the Grand Trunk R. R. Later he accepted a more lucrative position on the C. P. R. westeru division, and by strict and careful attention to business was gradually promoted, his last lift being the managership of the company's hotel at North Bend, B. C. Frank is one of the many Kingstonians who have proven themselves a credit to the old limestone city. He has shown his ability, and by being industrious and ambitious, has been rewarded by his employers. It is to be hoped, however, that he will stop at this, but that his labors will Rev. Robert and Mrs. Campbell, D. D., be still further appreciated by the C. P. R. management, and justly recognized as they have been in the past. A Genuine Reformatory.

The Marshaltown, Iowa, Daily Times gives an interesting account of the government industrial school at Eldora. Boys, criminal and refractory, are sent there from all parts of the state, and 350 are now being trained at the school, and on a farm of 720 acres. The headquarters contains seven brick buildings, besides barns, a shop, outbuildings, play grounds, carriage drives, garden plots, water works, etc., but no walls, bars, or lock ups. The institution is a genuine reformatory. It has nine teachers, and four of these are Canadians—the principal being C. H. Wartman, and one of his assistants is A. H. Leonard, late of Frontenuc. Dr. Mabee, a graduate of the Royal, is located eight miles distant.
