WIT AND HUMOUR.

A New Version. The London Globe tells of a French booklander who, being engaged to bind "L'Oncle Tom" ("Uncle Tom's Cabin"), sent home the volumes lettered thus: L'Oncle. Tome I. L'Oncle. Tome II. —New York Tribune.

A Coln of Vantage.

Uncle Silas—It be gouldrned strange what's become of that gobbler. I seen him not a minnit ago.—Judge.

Two Youngsters. Tommy was at boarding school, and it had been decided that, for various practical reasons, it would be better for him to spend Thanksgiving with a neighboring aunt, instead of taking the longer journey home. This conclusion was announced to him with as much gentleness as possible, and in a few days his father received the following note:

DEAREST PAPA—When the turkey's in the oven, and the tatoes in the pot, when the cranberry bubbles redly, and the puddings smoking hot—when the nuts are cracked and waiting, and the raisins heap the plate, and you're so awful hungry that you'd rather die than wait—"then you'll remember me!" O, pa, mayn't I go home? Your miserable Tom

They sent for him by the next mail

Turkey, well stuffed, was on the table, and the little girl of the family found the dressing very much to her taste.

"Give me some more of that," said she, when she had eaten her portion.

"What, Mamie?" said the mother.

"Please give me some of that."

"Now, Mamie, you should ask for what you want by name, and not say 'some of that.'"

Mamie looked distressed, but finally puckered up her lips and said:

"I want some of the clothes."—Youth's Companion.

Youthful Wisdom vs. Mature Humility. Reporter (to successful author)—What was the title of your first book, Mr. Wiseman?

Author—"Gems of Thought," That was published twenty-five years ago. I was only a young man then.

Reporter—Are there any copies of that book in the market now?

Author (fervently)—I trust not.

Reporter—What is the title of your latest work, Mr. Wiseman, that has had such a tremendous sale?

Author—"The Humble Suggestions of a Learner."—Chicago Tribune.

Overworked Husbands. Tired Wife—William, I wish you'd bring up a scuttle of coal.

Husband—There, that's the way with women; always expecting a man to do half a dozen things at once. Can't you see I'm busy?

"You didn't seem to be doing anything excepting rummaging around. I haven't asked you to do anything for about three weeks, and then I told you I'd like to have the legs of my sewing chair made shorter."

"Well, I'm looking for the saw."—Philadelphia Record.

Miss Chancellor (who is about to give an entertainment)—Good afternoon, Mr. Sappy.

Mr. Sappy (who has known her for two years, but never called)—Good afternoon, Miss Chancellor. How well you are looking! Hope you had a pleasant supper. I have been trying so hard to find a chance to call on you, but—ahem—ahem—

Miss Chancellor—Oh, of course, I understand, Mr. Sappy; the weather has been so wretched for the past two years, has it not? Good afternoon.—Harper's Bazar.

The Popular Craze. Agent (to boy)—Is your ma in, sonny?

Boy—Nop; she's gone to the walkin' match.

Agent—Big sister?

Boy—Nop; she's there, too. They're all there, even down to the cook.

Agent—Why didn't you go?

Boy—I was left home to take care of the house. I suppose they think the house would go to the walking match, too, if there wasn't somebody to watch it.—New York Sun.

The Fox Supply Safe. Stranger—I hear this is a great section for fox hunting?

Oak Tree Inn Host—Yes, sirc; parties come down from the city every fall; come in grand style, too, been coming for years.

"Isn't there danger that you will run out of foxes?"

"Not a bit. We are still using the fox we began with."—Philadelphia Record.

Consider the chickens, my son; study their ways and be wise. Whenever they take to drinking, their bills go up; and, by keeping their bills down, they find enough to eat.

The best anodyne and expectorant for the cure of colds and coughs and all throat, lung, and bronchial troubles, is, undoubtedly, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your druggist for it, and, at the same time, for Ayer's Almanac, which is free to all.

"I don't know," said an old lady, as she laid down her newspaper, "that thieves were so scarce that they had to advertise for 'em and offer a reward for their discovery."

The weakness and debility which result from illness may be speedily overcome by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This is a safe, but powerful tonic, assists digestion, regulates the liver and kidneys, and cleanses the blood of all germs of disease.

"You shouldn't read lying down, my daughter. You know how weak your eyes are."—"Oh, yes, mamma. Just let me finish this one article."—"What is it about?"—"Care of the eyes."

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Mrs. she clung to Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

Few Think

Of the wonderful processes constantly being conducted within the human body, and all are prone to forget that new blood must be supplied to replace the effete and disintegrating atoms, which, if allowed to remain within the body, do so at the peril of health if not of life itself. Nature sometimes fails to eliminate as rapidly as necessary the waste material of the organism, and it is then that Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Bitternut prove of the greatest value. They speedily harmonize every irregularity of action and restore, as if by magic, the wonted measure of health and strength. Hamilton's Pills are entirely vegetable in composition, and are safe to employ under the circumstances. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

Corn Sowing.

Is a process conducted by the agency of tight boots all the year round. Corn reaping is best conducted through the agency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe and sure, pop corn cure. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and sore-producing substitutes.

Probably the most remarkable sense of humor ever known was that of a New Jersey soldier who laughed uproariously all the time he was being flogged, and when the officer at the end enquired the cause of his mirth, broke out on a fresh fit of laughter, and cried, "Why, I'm the wrong man."

A Headless Rooster.

F. D. Lacy, of Nirvana, Mich., chopped off the head of a rooster, intending to have a potpie for dinner, but the rooster, instead of giving up the ghost, insisted upon walking around as though nothing had happened. Lacy sprinkled some flour on the rooster's neck to stop the flow of blood, and apparently the rooster is as happy, lively and contented as when he had his head. He is fed through a tube. His neck is healing over, and he does not seem to suffer any pain whatever, eats heartily, feels frisky and endeavors to crow. Lacy had him photographed, and has refused an offer of $100 for him.

A Tradition.

There is a tradition or legend that Labrador and Antioch were given by God to Cain for an abiding place, and that perpetual silence and desolation should be the heritage of those regions. The Indians called the island Saccotte, "the country of wallings." The history of Antioch, since its discovery by Jacques Cartier, in 1534, has been a record of suffering.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

The Theory of Lead Poisoning from Glazed Earthenware Cooking Vessels.

The possibility of lead poisoning from the use of earthenware cooking vessels glazed with lead has been recently discussed in medical journals. Science News expresses the opinion that the danger from this cause is slight, although not to be entirely disregarded. The silicate of lead, of which the glaze is composed, is a stable salt and not very easily decomposed. Still it is not impossible, according to the journal quoted, that the continued action of weak acids like vinegar might dissolve out an appreciable portion of the poisonous metal, and it would be a wise precaution to use only "salt glazed" earthenware for cooking food containing vinegar, lemon juice or other acids. People have recently been warned against the use of water goblets of flint glass, which contains a large proportion of lead, but there is no danger at all from such a source.

Common Poisons and Their Antidotes.

From a list of poisons and their antidotes, compiled by Dr. Wyatt for The American Analyst, are taken a few of the commoner forms, the remedies suggested being mostly such as could be applied in an emergency before the arrival of a physician. The list is worth preserving:

Acid—carbonic, sulphuric, nitric, muriatic, nitro-muriatic, creosote, iodine, phosphorus: White of egg well beaten up with water. A teaspoonful of mustard-flour in a cup of hot water. Very thick lime water (in a case of sulphuric, nitric, muriatic, or nitro-muriatic acids).

Ammonia, soda, potash, alkaline, silicates and sulphates: Strong vinegar and water. Large doses of oil. Large doses of milk.

Ether, petroleum, benzine, fruit essence, concentrated or absolute alcohol: Plenty of mustard flour in large quantity of hot water. Cold water douches. Fresh air. Prevent sleep absolutely.

Compounds of arsenic: A teaspoonful of mustard flour in warm water. A teaspoonful of dialyzed iron mixed with the same quantity of calcined magnesia every five minutes for one hour. Then plenty of oil, or milk, or some mucilaginous tea—say linseed.

Oxalic acid and its salts: Very thick paste of lime and water by large spoonfuls at the time. After several of these, large draughts of lime water. Finally, four ounces castor oil.

Nitrate of silver: Large doses of ordinary kitchen salt dissolved in water, after which one teaspoonful of mustard flour in warm water.

Sea Sickness and Sick Headache Cured.

Dr. W. H. Gardner, U. S. A., writes as follows to The Medical Record:

I have been a traveler by land and water ever since I was able to toddle around, and have met many cases of seasickness—in stages, ambulances, cars, boats and ships—and I can confidently assert that oxalate of cerium, administered in ten, fifteen or twenty grain doses every two or three hours, in about one tablespoonful of water, will cure more cases than champagne, bromide of potassium, chloral or anything else I ever tried. I do not think I exaggerate when I state that it will cure, or materially relieve, 75 per cent. of all cases that come up for treatment. I have used the oxalate in hundreds of cases of sick headache, and almost always with marked success; but it must be used in at least ten grain doses for adults to do any good. I have also found it very useful in relieving the cough of phthisis in these doses. I do not pretend to know its modus operandi, but believe it acts as a sedative to the pneumogastric and sympathetic system of nerves, and I have never seen any unpleasant effects from its administration in twenty grain doses every three hours.

Are Boils Communicable?

Dr. Chambard, of Paris, claims to have detected the omnipresent microbe in boils. He, therefore, pronounces boils communicable and advises care in handling them. This discovery also shows that the method of treating boils and carbuncles by poulticing is wrong, as the heat and moisture so generated aid the development of the microbe. An antiseptic treatment should be adopted.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A new volcano is reported from Tobacco, Mexico. It spurts forth large streams of red water.

In the trial of a trade mark suit in London, England, a phonograph was introduced to reproduce a letter and other papers. The instrument worked successfully, and the presiding judge was surprised and pleased.

We talk of immortality, but we even do not know yet what time is. Perhaps time has possibilities that dwarf immortality, and we are fooling ourselves with the poorer choice. Let us have the very best.

Emperor William of Germany has ordered the officers of his army to discard pointed English boots and wide creased trousers. He has also made a change in the royal crown, which he considered too high for his style of beauty.

Telegraph operators, it seems, are developing a disease of their own. One or two cases recently occurred abroad, in which the finger nails dropped off, one after another. The affection is supposed to be due to the constant hammering and pushing with the finger ends required by the working of the telegraph instrument.

A company has been formed in New York to connect the Sandwich Islands with each other by means of a submarine cable, and to extend this cable from Honolulu to San Francisco. Previous to its construction the projector of the work will try a novel experiment. They have bought 100 pairs of the best imported breeds of homing pigeons and have shipped them to Honolulu. From there they will forward a number to each of the islands in the group and establish pigeon stations until the cable is completed.
